SEVEN ARE SLAIN IN PRISON BATTLE

Ex-Congressman J. R. Thomas Killed by Convicts in Oklahoma Uprising.

TRIO OF DEPUTIES DEAD

Three Prisoners Use Girl Stenographer as Shield Until They Are Shot to Death.

FLEE IN WARDEN'S BUGGY

Carrying Wounded Young Woman with Them, They Keep Up Fire—Girl Alone Alive as Fight Ends.

Special to The New York Times.

McALESTER, Okla., Jan. 19.—In a prison riot at the State Penitentiary here at 4 o'clock this afternoon Judge John R. Thomas, former Congressman from Illinois, Federal Judge in Indian Terrtiory during terrtiorial days; P. C. Oates, Deputy Warden; F. C. Godfrey, cell house sergeant, and H. H. Drover, Bertillion expert, were killed by convicts Tom Lane, "China" Reed, and Dave Koontz. The three convicts also were killed soon afterward while attempting to escape through the prison farm.

The three convicts had obtained a gun, and, holding up the turnkey, took the keys, made their way into the offices of the prison and in getting possession of Miss Mary Foster, stenographer, whom they used as a shield from the guards, killed the four men.

Jack Martin, a turnkey, had just closed the gate when the men appearing from a side entrance that led from the storeroom in the basement, asked to be allowed to see Frank H. Rice, the parole officer. While the parley was going on one of the convicts thrust a gun between the steel bars and he was told to deliver the keys. He refused at first to do so but upon threat of instant death the turnkey told them the keys were in the lock on the inside.

The men reached through the bars for the keys and the turnkey ran for the Warden's office. Warden Dick and Assistant Warden Fry were both away, but Deputy Oates was there.

"For God's sake, get a gun!" shouted the turnkey. "The convicts have the keys and are coming."

No guns are kept in the prison. Hearing the convicts coming, Oates and Martin stepped through a side door and sent for guns.

The convicts rushed through the first room and dashed into Deputy Fry's office. Everybody in the room had gone into Warden Dick's room. In the Warden's room Judge Thomas sat, talking with a prisoner whom he had called to see a few minutes before. Miss Foster, the stenographer, had rushed into the Warden's office ahead of the convicts, and there also were Frank Rice, the parole officer, and F. C. Godfrey, cell sergeant.

Order Hands Up.

As they entered the Warden's room the convicts shouted to all to stand up and put up their hands. Judge Thomas was stout in build and did not respond rapidly to the demand. As he made a move to get up he was shot through the heart. Godfrey stood with his back to the wall, with Rice at his side. He put up his hands. As one of the convicts made a move that turned his head the cell sergeant attempted to grapple with him and was shot through the head.

With Thomas and Godfrey dead, one of the convicts took Miss Foster in his arms and another pushed Rice in front, and they started for the prison entrance. They had to go through two rooms after leaving the Warden's office before reaching the entrance, and Oates had by this time obtained a gun. He exchanged shots with the convicts, but he had to be cautious in shooting because they were holding Miss Foster and Rice in front of them. In the exchange of shots Jack Martin, who was fighting beside Oates, received a glancing shot in the face.

"Are you shot?" asked Oates. "Not much," was the reply. "But they will kill us here. Let's get outside and head them off in the entrance."

Oates was determined and men were bringing guns from the arsenal. He got a double-barrelled shotgun, and while the convicts had stopped for a little time in the middle room to tie Rice's hands behind him, Oates made another attempt to get at them. He crowded to the door and shot, but missed. One of the convicts, clinging to the wall, pushed up to the door and throwing his pistol around the casing shot the deputy through the head.

During this exchange of shots a bullet had gone through the oak door of the first office room that opened into the entrance, and, speeding across the west wing of the building, where H. H. Drover was standing, having emerged a moment before from a vault where he had been developing some photographs. The bullet pierced his heart and he dropped dead.

Convict Koontz Shot.

During the exchange of shots with Oates convict Koontz was shot. He was mortally wounded, but managed to keep going with the other convicts. After Oates fell there was no one else armed who could resist them, and they dashed to the entrance, unlocked the door and walked out of the prison, keeping Miss Foster who had received a bullet wound in the thigh in front of them. Two guards in a tower saw them but the convicts dared them to shoot, and kept the stenographer and Rice in the line of fire all the time. Not daring to shoot, the guards dropped down behind the protection of the tower as the convicts threatened fire.

A buggy and horse was standing near the tower on the street and the convicts sprang into the buggy, carrying Miss Foster and Rice with them. By this time Koontz was losing strength from his wound, and he had to be helped into the buggy. He sank to the floor of the vehicle in a faint.

Still holding Miss Foster and Rice as shields, Convicts Lane and Reed started the horse west into the big penitentiary farm, where there were scores of guards.

"I am going to drop out of this buggy," said Rice.

"If you do I'll kill you as you drop," was the reply of Reed.

Miss Foster was screaming and by this time many guards were approaching. R. J. Ritchie, keeper of the bloodhounds, was riding in from the farm. He heard the shots and screams and started toward the buggy. The convicts warned him before he got within gun shot, and dismounting from his horse he took up position ready for action. When they came close he began firing. He shot

GOWNS MORE DECOLLETE.

Latest in Paris Look as if They Are Falling Off—Muffs for Legs.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 20.—The Paris correspondent of The Daily Mail wires:

"'Our latest models are more décolleté than any fashions for twenty years past,' says the manager of a famous fashion house. 'They are cut with great depth, not only in front and at the back, but also at the sides beneath the arms. Sometimes there is falling drapery, carried always from the edge of the dress, but this is quite transparent. The tendency is for morning dresses also to be cut with increased décolletage.

"'The effect at a casual glance is that of a dress which has accidentally slipped down to just above the waist and is retained by a single thin slip of material negligently over one shoulder. The other arm and the side of the body for three inches below it are left free.'

"Muffs for the legs are a novel fashion accompanying the unusually long spell of bitterly cold weather still prevailing in Paris. The mode of the slit skirt and the fairylike shoe led many smart Parisian women to take severe colds even while only crossing the pavement from a heated motor car to the door of a restaurant or theatre. The leg muff, which is designed to remedy this, is a silk legging lined with fur, which can be drawn on over a light shoe and comes above the knee. It is taken off at the same time as the opera cloak and left in the cloakroom."

MAYOR GETS INTO MOVIES.

Pretty Actress Lures Him Into Handshake at City Hall.

A good-looking young woman who is about to star in the movies tried hard yesterday to arrange with Mayor Mitchel, through the latter's Secretary, to have their pictures taken together on the steps of the City Hall. The Mayor said he was too busy to take part in any such exhibition. An hour later, when the Mayor was hurrying down the City Hall steps to go to luncheon, he was approached by a well-dressed young man, who extended his hand and anxiously inquired after the Mayor's health. He also complimented the Mayor on the splendid start of his administration.

"By the way," said the young man, "my sister here is also a great admirer of you. She would like to shake hands."

Off came the Mayor's hat and he shook hands with the pretty moving-picture actress. Then he hurried on to his luncheon. At the same moment a moving-picture operator who had been busily turning the crank of his machine while the meeting took place, quietly disappeared, remarking that it was one of the most successful pictures he had ever taken.

DYING, HE ACCUSES A GIRL.

Richardson Says Miss Vandergrift Stabbed Him on Demand for Ring.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 19.—Frederick Richardson, a paper hanger of Lamberton Street, in this city, died to-day of blood poisoning from a cut on his thumb which, he said, was inflicted by Evelyn Vandergrift of Emory Avenue when he attempted to force her to return to him a ring which he had allowed her to wear after he had received it as a gift from a club. Last night, when Richardson was dying, detectives took the girl to his bedside.

"Do you know this young woman?" he was asked.

Richardson gasped a moment for breath and then replied:

"Yes, I know her. She cut me with a knife."

Miss Vandergrift asserted that this was false and ran toward the bed begging Richardson to take back his accusation. She was taken away by the detectives and locked up without bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

According to Miss Vandergrift, when Richardson visited her home and tried to get back the ring by force she pushed him away and he fell upon a lounge and the wound on his thumb was made by a broken spring.

FINDS LAMAR AT IT AGAIN.

Senate Committee Uncovers Him and Drops Steel Rebate Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Senate Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce discovered this afternoon that David Lamar had not lost his old-time interest in the affairs of Wall Street. In making the discovery the committee put an abrupt end to what was called in some quarters a prettily arranged bear raid on the stock of the United States Steel Corporation. At the same time the committee dropped into the waste basket the resolution introduced by Senator Lane, a Democrat of Oregon, calling for an investigation of alleged rebates by the Steel Trust. The resolution had been secretly pushed by Mr. Lamar and seemed to be the trump card in his game of high finance.

Mr. Lamar has been living unostentatiously in Washington to avoid trial in New York on an indictment charging impersonation of Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania, Representative Riordan of New York, and others. Mr. Lamar had worked with Herman Schulteis, Henry B. Martin, and others of the so-called Anti-Trust League to bring on what was later known as the Stanley investigation of the Steel Trust.

In some way the proposal for a Steel Trust investigation was taken to the White House, but it met with little encouragement there. Then it was taken to Secretary of State Bryan, who told his interviewer to put the proposal for an investigation into writing.

Senator Lane, in his resolution, asked that W. H. Green of Creighton, Neb., be summoned to tell what he knew of the Steel Trust's business methods, having privately investigated the Steel Trust. When the committee invited Mr. Lane to give some basis for the proposed investigation he angrily refused to say anything "he did not feel like." The committee laughingly decided to let the matter drop, feeling that Mr. Lane simply lacked proof of his charges.

Mr. Green asked for time to see Lamar and others. Then the committee dropped the bill.

WILSON MAY FAVOR FREIGHT ADVANCE

President Says Worst Spots in Business Situation Are the Railroads.

TARIFF A HELP TO BUSINESS

Statistics Show Heavy Falling Off of Railroad Revenues, Especially in Eastern District.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—While President Wilson declined to express himself to-day to interested visitors in regard to the efforts of the railroads in Eastern classification territory to obtain permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission for a general increase of 5 per cent. in their freight rates, saying that it would be improper for him to do so while the case was pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission, he commented on business conditions throughout the country, however, in a way taken to indicate that it would not be displeasing to him if the railroads got what they wanted.

The business situation, Mr. Wilson declared, should be viewed with confidence and he would not tolerate the suggestion that the tariff was adversely responsible for conditions in the business world. The tariff, in his opinion, would be helpful to business interests.

In the course of his remarks, the President admitted that business was bad in spots, although only in spots, and he added to this that the worst spots seemed to be the railroads. It was this remark, taken in connection with other things attributed to the President, that gives ground for the feeling that his sympathies are with the efforts of the railroads to obtain the 5 per cent. increase in freight rates.

The statement was made by persons who talked with the President that he had been receiving many letters from close personal, political, and business friends, emphasizing that the granting of the 5 per cent. advance would be simple justice to the railroads. These letters have pertained particularly to Eastern transportation lines. It was gathered that the President had been seeking information on the subject from men of affairs with whom he is acquainted and in whose integrity he has the greatest confidence. The impression was obtained that the President was of the opinion that business conditions throughout the country would tend toward prosperity if the railroad situation were remedied.

Big Falling Off in Revenues.

The situation which President Wilson has in mind respecting the condition of the railroads was more clearly disclosed and somewhat emphisized by final advance figures covering the operations of all roads in the country having revenues above $1,000,000 each during the fiscal year 1913 and during the five months which ended Dec. 1. This bulletin is based on data compiled by the Commission's own experts from official reports made to it by the railroads according to rules of accounting prescribed by the Commission.

It shows a big shrinkage in earnings compared with the showing of a year ago.

It shows that the net operating revenue from rail operations for the whole country in November, 1913, was $76,316,601, compared with $90,785,820 in November, 1912. This was a loss of $14,469,219 in operating revenue from rail operations during the thirty-day period as compared with the corresponding month a year ago.

It shows that the bulk of this loss fell upon the railroads in the Eastern district, upon roads in "official classification territory," north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers, and east of the Mississippi, that are now appealing for permission to make effective their proposed 5 per cent. increase in rates. The net operating revenue for roads from rail operations in the Eastern district in November, 1912, was $25,627,722, as compared with $35,297,227 in November, 1913. This was a loss of $9,669,505.

It shows that after allowing for auxiliary operations and taking railway tax recruits into account, the net operating "income" of the roads for the whole country in November, 1913, was $64,304,922, as compared with $80,947,397 in November, 1912. This represented a loss of $16,642,475.

Again most of this loss fell upon the roads of the Eastern district, the bulletin showing that the net operating "income" for roads in the Eastern distritc during November, 1913, was $20,241,185, as compared with $31,075,782 in November, 1912. This represented a loss of $10,834,597 for roads in the Eastern district alone.

It shows that for the five months ended Dec. 1 net operating revenue from rail operations for the whole United States was $427,462,916 in 1913, as compared with $472,060,602 during the corresponding five-month period the preceding year. This was a loss of $44,597,686 for all the big roads of the country in five months this year, compared with 1912. If this is maintained until next June, it will mean a loss of over $105,000,000 for the entire fiscal year 1914, as compared with the fiscal year 1913.

It shows again that the bulk of this loss for the five-month period fell upon the roads of the Eastern district that are seeking the 5 per cent. increase in rates. The total operating revenue from rail operations for the Eastern district roads during the five months ended Dec. 1 was $167,738,067, compared with $198,992,848 during the corresponding months of 1912. This was a loss of $31,254,781. If maintained till June 30, the balance of the fiscal year, this would mean a loss of approximately $75,000,000, compared with the fiscal year 1913.

It shows that, after taking auxiliary operation into account and making allowance for railway taxes accruing, the net railway operating income for roads of the whole country for the five months ended Dec. 1 was $371,633,355 in 1913, as compared with $423,967,411 in the corresponding five months of 1912. This means a loss of $52,334,076 in net operating income, and if maintained for the whole year the total loss for the period ending June 30 next would approximate [illegible]000,000, as compared with the year before.

It shows again that the bulk of the loss in net operating income fell upon the roads of the Eastern district. After allowing for auxiliary operations and railway tax accruals the net operating "income" for the Eastern district roads for the five months period ending Dec. 1 was $143,248,023 in 1913, as compared with $178,452,569 for the five months of the year before. This represented a loss in net operating income of $35,204,546. If this ratio of loss were maintained until June 30 next the loss would approximate $84,000,000 for the fiscal year 1914 for the Eastern roads, as compared with 1913.

Increase in Taxes.

During the five month ending Dec. 1 the railroads of the whole country paid $55,965,576 in railway taxes, compared with $50,429,663 during the like period the year before. For the five months

THIEVES' TEXTBOOK FOUND IN A RAID

Instructions in Burglary Set Down with a List of 500 Pawn Tickets.

When two young men carrying bundles along Manhattan Avenue in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon ran into Detectives Carroll and Van Gullizer at Ten Eyck Street one of them had a sudden attack of fight, and, dropping his burden, took to his heels. This started an unexpected chase that led eventually to a six-room apartment at 93 Grove Street that had every appearance of being as richly appointed a thieves' den as was ever uncovered in the borough.

The detectives took in four prisoners as members of the gang making this their headquarters, they came upon a list of more than 500 pawn tickets, they found $3,000 worth of jewelry, they examined closets packed with good clothing that had come fresh (over the transom) from various tailor shops, but their best find of all was a carefully compiled manual or handbook for burglars. This was in the form of a small, leather-backed memorandum book which one of the detectives picked from the mantlepiece in the den.

It was in this book that the list of 500 pawn tickets had been written, but more interesting than that list, with all its methodical notations of the things pawned and the amounts received, were the twenty pages of written instructions in the art of burglary. In many cases the instructions were illegible from fast writing, in some cases they had been written in an Italian so idiomatic that they baffled the police, and in some cases they were in thieves' lingo that made translation necessary.

"What is the best way to pick a lock?" would be a typical question, followed by a categorical answer.

Here are some samples:

Question—What is the best way to avoid leaving finger prints?"

Answer—Wear tight leather gloves.

Question—What is the best way to take iron bars from windows?"

Answer—By chiseling at the cement foundations.

Question—What is the best way to disguise one's self successfully?"

Answer—By trying to force some physical deformity.

Question—What is the best way to prevent a woman screaming?"

Answer—By throttling her with both thumbs on her Adam's apple.

This unique piece of burglariana was found at the end of a trail that the detectives picked up when a bundle containing six fine table cloths was dropped to the street. The youth who droped it fled, but his companion who carried a duplicate bundle was captured. He said he was Carmine Youran of 745 Park Avenue, Brooklyn, but some papers in his pocket led the detectives to the Grove Street address, a neighborhood in which they were surprised to find so finely furnished an apartment.

In it they found two young men taking their ease and in one of them, Carroll immediately recognized the bearer of the discarded tablecloths. This was William Calanto of 92 Starr Street and his companion was Frank Vettor of 575 Clover Street. The detectives say that Youran and Vettor have both done time and all three were locked up charged with burglary.

While the unwelcome visitors were examining the closets and drawers of the apartment, the door opened and in walked a fourth man who, at the sight of the detectives, started to back out with comic haste. He then hurried to assume the appearance of a stranger having come to a place for the first time but this did not so impress Carroll as to prevent his exploring the pockets of the newcomer. This search yielded six packets of heroin and, postponing as unnecessary any attempt to connect him with the burglary band, the police arrested him on the charge of having the drug in his possession. He said he was Charles Abel of 189 Boreum Street.

In the apparently unworn clothing found in the apartment was some bearing the tailor mark of Edward Reimer of 172 Central Avenue, Brooklyn, whose shop had been robbed two weeks before, and from one of their prisoners the police extracted the admission that there had been a burglary at another tailor shop in Gates Avenue. No one would say whence the table cloths had come.

The youngest prisoner is Youran, who is only 17 years old, yet from the manner in which the other men spoke to him the detectives believe he has been the undisputed leader of all the joint enterprises.

The same detectives later in the day caught two men whom Mrs. Sarah Greenberg had surprised in the hallway of her apartment at 56 Leonard Street when she returned from shopping. They had bundles under their arms, and they dropped these as they brushed past her and started up the stairs. Her upstairs neighbor, Mrs. Bertha Asther, thought she recognized one of the fugitives as a man who had been caught rifling her own apartment two days before. The men fled to the roof, and the women ran screaming to the windows so that by the time the two appeared at the door of the adjoining apartment house a crowd of 100 blocked the way, and then growing gradually to a crowd of 500, raised a terrific hue and cry that lasted for three blocks, when the hounded pair ran straight into the arms of Carroll and Van Gullizer.

6,000 MOB FORD WORKS.

Six Are Hired; Then Agents Call Police to Disperse the Crowd.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Jan. 10.—Six thousand job seekers virtually mobbed agents of the Ford Motor Company, who today made the first real attempt to hand out the 5,000 additional jobs the company has at its disposal under the new eight-hour day. As a result, just six of them get places. And the company is up against the problem of how to get the men it needs to operate its plant to full capacity. It is now running short-handed. By the change in working hours it clipped one hour a day from the time of 15,000 men. On the former nine-hour basis this makes it short more than 1,500 hands.

The 6,000 who gathered were orderly until the employment office opened. Presently two agents came out and began to talk with the men in front of the door. The crowd was quiet only until two employment tickets were passed out. Straightaway the 6,000 became a mob. Those nearest jumped for the agents. Those behind tried to press forward. The agents backed against the wall and tried to continue business. It was like trying to back up a cyclone. Four more were hired, and then the agents fled into the office and called the police. This was the first day for distribution under the profit-sharing plan. In this 838 employes shared in a total of $27,556 distributed.

TO FREE PAUL CARL IN ELLIS SHOOTING

Records Prove That Youth Who Signed Confession Was Innocent of the Crime.

Special to The New York Times.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Jan. 19.—Paul Carl, the young man from Stroudsburg, Penn., held in the county jail here charged with having shot and dangerously wounded Monroe F. Ellis, the lumberman, on the night of Nov. 19, 1911, while Mr. Ellis was at dinner with his family in his home at Basking Ridge, will be released from custody probably in the next forty-eight hours.

Carl confessed in the course of a long cross-examination that he had fired the buckshot that wounded Mr. Ellis, but evidence now in the possession of County Prosecutor Pope seems to prove beyond all doubt that the boy confessed a crime which he did not commit. The evidence seems to indicate clearly that Carl was not in Basking Ridge on the night of the shooting.

Stanton A. Moore of 1 Liberty Street, New York, came to this place to-day and took charge of Carl's defense. He had a long talk with the prisoner, and he announced later that the boy had been treated shamefully by the private detectives who arrested him, and that he had no idea of what he was saying when he confessed to the crime. Mr. Moore said he intended to bring the case to the attention of Gov. Fielder. Mr. Moore exonerated John A. Roebling, who hired the detectives, and County Prosecutor Pope from any wrong in connection with the confession.

It was said yesterday that Carl would be released from custody to-morrow or the next day, following the return to Somerville of County Detective Totten. Totten went to New York where he looked over the employment records of the Dahlstrom Metallic Door Company of 299 Broadway. These records Totten said proved beyond all doubt that Carl was in New York on the afternoon of the day the crime was committed. It would have been impossible for him to have arrived in Basking Ridge, the detective said, before 7:05 o'clock on the evening of the shooting, which was half an hour after the attempt was made to assassinate Ellis.

Mr. Moore, Carl's lawyer, said to-night that the methods used to procure the confession from his client were a clear violation of the New Jersey laws.

"Prosecutor Pope, Mr. Roebling, and the Pinkertons," said Mr. Moore, "should apologize to this poor boy for having been concerned in his arrest. I know that Mr. Roebling and Mr. Pope are innocent of any wrongful knowledge or act in the case, but I am not so certain about some of the others. One of these private detectives went to Stroudsburg last November and there won the friendship of Carl and became his boon companion. The detective represented himself as in the employ of a Massachusetts contracting company. He even gave Carl a job at $12 a week. Likewise he took the boy on a trip to Philadelphia in an automobile, and at another time on a trip to Camden, N. J."

The lawyer said that Carl was praised as a "bad man" until he came to glory in the reputation that he thought he had acquired. The detective even went so far as to promise to let Carl have a part in a "$10,000 job." It was in this way that the Ellis shooting was brought home to Carl, who thought it would add to his reputation to be known as a gangster, and so asserted that he was the person who shot Ellis.

When Ellis was told to-night that the case against Carl had collapsed he was elated.

"I have known all along," he said, "that Carl was innocent. I knew it the moment I saw him last Friday, when he was brought to my office. Why, that boy had been so shamefully treated that he could hardly talk intelligently, even though several hours had elapsed since he signed that alleged confession."

Mrs. Grace Holly, Carl's aunt, who has long been private secretary to Monroe F. Ellis, is now under bond as a material witness in the case. Mr. Ellis supplied the bond.

WOMEN NOW MENACE KING.

Threat Made That They Will "Be Prepared for All Emergencies."

LONDON, Jan. 19.—"The King has got to see us, or we shall know the reason why," Mrs. Dacre-Fox said at a meeting of militant suffragettes in London this evening. She added:

"The next deputation will go to Buckingham Palace prepared for all emergencies."

The speech was made at a gathering called to reopen the campaign for equal suffrage after the recent lull, and the women were full of fight.

Mrs. Dacre-Fox said the suffragettes had not anticipated that his Majesty would refuse to see a deputation of women on Jan. 7, but if he had been advised by his Ministers not to see the women he could not shield himself that way.

Suffragettes made a determined effort to-night to break up a meeting at which the Right Hon. John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, spoke on home rule. Three male champions of the enfranchisement of women strapped to seats and surrounded and aided by suffragettes tried to howl him down.

After a lively scrimmage the men were pitched into the street, still strapped to the seats. Many of the women disturbers were also ejected, but with less violence.

EDINBURGH, Jan. 19.—An irate suffragette to-day made Thomas McKinnon Wood, the Secretary for Scotland, look like a miller by throwing a bag of flour at him while he was addressing a meeting connected with the inauguration of Edinburgh High School.

WORLDWIDE PLEA FOR MEXICAN PEACE

Public Men of All Nations Asked to Aid in Ending the Fratricidal Struggle.

ARMISTICE THE FIRST STEP

Messages Sent to Huerta and Carranza—Peace Societies Behind the Movement.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 20.—The Times says that a movement which it is hoped may lead to a settlement of the fratricidal struggle in Mexico has been initiated by the Union Hispano-Americana of Madrid. The idea is to bring the united pressure of eminent public men of all countries to bear simultaneously upon President Huerta and Gen. Carranza in order to induce them to agree to an armistice with a view to their holding a conference on neutral ground and so possibly arriving at some arrangement.

The movement has been elaborately organized, among the societies taking part in it being the International Peace Bureau at Berne and the Inter-Parliamentary Union. On Jan. 2 Prof. La Fontaine, the President of the International Peace Bureau, addressed to Huerta and Carranza identical letters, adjuring them, in the interests of their country and of humanity, to cease fighting, to conclude an armistice, and appoint agents to discuss, "in the calm atmosphere of a friendly country," the questions at issue between them. These letters are expected to reach their destinations to-day or to-morrow. They will be followed by numerous telegrams to the same effect, signed by well-known men, either in their own names or in those of the societies they represent.

GAMBOA IN PLACE OF HUERTA

This Is the Latest Rumor in Mexico City—Dictator to Lead Army?

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Tuesday, Jan. 20.—Rumors continue to be insistent in the capital that Gen. Huerta will soon take the field, leaving his own appointee in the Presidency. It is understood that Huerta has agreed with the Catholic Party to name as President Federico Gamboa, who said to-day that the post had not been offered to him. He indicated, however, that he would accept the offer if made.

Despite the rumors, many observers here say they will believe Huerta is to quit when he does so.

The Government to-day admitted that the rebels were operating south of San Luis Potosi, which indicates a general southward movement. Energetic measures are planned to check this move, possibly involving the weakening of the garrisons of some towns.

It was reported to-day that Huerta was selecting the best regiments of the army to form a division which he would command, and was drafting trusted officers to serve in it. This would give him a nucleus of more than 10,000 men should he decide to take the field independently.

Much importance is attached to this project, since it is generally believed that there is no possibility of the rebels recognizing Gamboa or any one else who assumes the Presidency through the appointment of Huerta.

Politicians generally are skeptical regarding the possibility of the country deriving any benefit from Huerta's withdrawal unless his successor is supported by the Washington and European Governments. Reports are current that some of them recently conferred with John Lind regarding such support, but these are persistently denied from Vera Cruz. Mr. Lind is said to have refused to make any statement on this subject, intimating that the Washington Government would not commit itself to any course of action, but would reserve the right to decide as to Huerta's successor.

Government officials are reticent regarding Cabinet changes, although Foreign Minister Moheno admits that they are under consideration and that he probably will go to the Finance Ministry, which post he has wanted for some time.

The Supreme Court to-day decided the Coleman-Cowdray case in favor of Lord Cowdray and against Thomas Coleman, an American, by practically declaring that the Island of Petreros, where the disputed oil lands lie, is no man's land, although the Americans had been paying taxes there.

The Candelaria case, which has been pending for the last sixteen years and which involves several millions also claimed by Americans, will probably be called for decision to-morrow. It is expected to be decided contrary to the representations made by six American Administrations. It is generally understood here that Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Chargé, was ordered to report fully to the State Department on the Coleman case, wherefore the case may be expedited, forestalling the possibility of diplomatic pressure.

The Government to-day denied the report that Gen. Antonio Rojas had

MISS WILSON A SPEAKER.

President's Eldest Daughter Makes Plea from Seat in Civic Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, eldest daughter of the President, rose from her seat in the audience at a civic improvement meeting here to-night and made a plea for the movement to have the school houses of the country opened to the public as "social centres."

"The social centre movement in the final analysis," she said, "is the fundamental principle of democracy. No matter how cultured we are we cannot get ideas alone, and we must get together and get them from each other."

Representative Robert Crosser of Ohio and Senator Hollis of New Hampshire addressed the meeting in advocacy of the movement.

LOSES AT POLLS, TAKEN ILL.

Prof. Fischer Beaten for Mayor of Middletown, Conn., by Ten Votes.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Jan. 19.—Frank A. Coles, Republican, was to-day declared elected Mayor over Prof. W. C. Fischer, the Wesleyan professor who was deposed because he advocated closing the churches of this country for two years as an experiment. The first count gave the election to Fischer by two votes, but on the next count it went to Coles by ten. Fischer's backers demanded a recount. The largest number of votes ever recorded in a city election here was cast. Coles received 699, Fischer 689, and Dr. James A. Lawton 414.

At the close of the election Prof. Fischer was taken home ill. Dr. T. P. Walsh was called and said the professor had a very high temperature and was threatened with pneumonia. There has been talk of running Mr. Fischer for Governor at the next State election.

ECONOMIST KILLS HIMSELF.

S. C. Williams a Suicide Following Financial Losses.

Stephen C. Williams, a retired economist, who in his day was successful as a reorganizer of businesses, committed suicide last evening by shooting himself in his apartment at the Drayton Arms, 603 West 140th Street. He lived at that address with his wife, and she was in the apartment at 10 o'clock last night when he killed himself.

Mr. Williams was 60 years old. It is understood that in recent years he had suffered heavy financial losses and had been ill.

BLAKE ALIMONY SETTLED.

Wife to Get About $10,000 a Year —Referee's Report Confirmed.

Supreme Court Justice Newburger yesterday confirmed the report of Referee Wilbur Larramore, giving to Mrs. Catharine Ketcham Blake, a separation from her husband, Dr. Joseph A. Blake, the famous surgeon. This was the final act so far as the court proceedings were concerned. It was announced that the lawyers representing the husband and wife had come to an agreement as to the income the doctor was to allow his wife to maintain herself and her twelve-year-old son, Francis. The other son, Joseph A. Blake, Jr., is of age and so was out of the calculations.

While no specific statement was made by counsel for either side as to the precise basis of settlement it was believed that Mrs. Blake is to receive about $10,000 a year with an extra allowance of about $5,000 for her living expenses during the time the suit has been pending.

It was said that the annual payments to Mrs. Blake have been amply secured.

PRISONER WORE EVIDENCE.

When Samuel Herman, who was arrested for the theft of clothing from a Duane Street store on Oct. 11, was in the Tombs Court yesterday, Magistrate Murphy fixed bail at $1,500, and the prisoner began to arrange to obtain it.

"But the court can't let this man out on bail. He has all the evidence," said Detective Albert Thomas.

"Evidence?" Magistrate Murphy asked.

"Yes. The trousers he's wearing." Thomas replied. "They're the ones he stole. They should be handed to the property clerk."

"But he can't take them off here," a court attendant whispered.

The Magistrate seemed doubtful. "Well, you'll have to go to the Tombs, then, Herman," he said finally. "The trousers must be kept in custody. If you get the $1,500 bail, you must get another pair of trousers before you leave the Tombs."

The prisoner was locked up with the trousers.

FIRE AT MISS BARRYMORE'S.

Policeman Rouses Sleeping Caretaker and Baby and Leads Them Out

Patrolman Downing saw smoke coming from the fourth-story window of Ethel Barrymore's residence at 17 East Forty-fourth Street last night shortly after 9 o'clock and broke into the basement. He groped his way through three floors of smoke-filled rooms to the third, where he roused the caretaker, Mrs. E. H. Wood, who was in bed asleep with her baby, a year old, and led them to safety. Firemen put out the fire, which started in the basement and did only slight damage, although it filled the house with smoke.

When he first saw the smoke the policeman shouted to the chauffeur of a waiting automobile to turn in the fire alarm on the other side of the street, while he went through the building. He found Mrs. Wood asleep. She hastily put on a few wraps and threw a blanket around the baby, and the policeman led her downstairs to the street, where the firemen were getting their hose lines out.

The house is also the residence of S. R. Colt, whose son, Russell G. Colt, married Miss Barrymore.

Agrees to Reinstate Slade and Lynch—Trains Running Again at Midnight.

MEDIATOR BROUGHT PEACE

Hanger, U. S. Official, Advised Company to Yield, Men Refusing Arbitration.

DAY'S TIE-UP COMPLETE

Nearly 5,000 Employes on 600 Miles of Road Went Out — Mails and Freight Congested.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—The Delaware & Hudson Railroad strike was settled to-night, the company surrendering and agreeing to reinstate the two discharged employes—Engineer James A. Lynch and Conductor F. A. Slade—in support of whom nearly 5,000 employes went out to-day, tying up more than 600 miles of road.

The agreement settling the strike, as signed by representatives of both sides, provided that all the strikers should return to duty at once. As soon as the agreement was signed, which was at 9 o'clock, the result was telephoned and telegraphed in all directions, and the idle men were recalled to work. By midnight the road was fairly well in operation, and the railroad officials declared that trains would be moving as usual by daybreak.

The agreement, as signed by Clifford S. Sims, Vice President and General Manager, for the company, and by the representatives of the five railway unions involved, for the employes, follows:

The Terms of Settlement.

In settlement of the controversy between the Delaware & Hudson Company and its engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and telegraphers, this agreement is entered into this, the 19th day of January, 1914.

The company agrees to restore to the service Conductor Slade and Engineer Lynch. The organizations will return the striking employes to the service immediately. The understanding is that all employes affected by the strike will be restored to their former positions in the service, retaining their full seniority rights and roster standing as held by them prior to the strike.

The representatives of the employes will use every possible effort to restore normal conditions on the road immediately. The other matters at issue which have not yet been fully agreed upon will be disposed of by further conferences between the representatives of the men and the representatives of the road.

Signed for the company:
C. S. SIMS.
For the employes:
GEO. M. PARKER, B. of L. E.;
F. L. HANLON, B. of L. F. and E.;
J. S. RHODES, O. R. C.;
MARTIN DEGNAN, B. of R. T.;
G. A. JOHNSON, O. R. T.
Approved: M. C. CAREY, representing the five organizations.

In the agreement nothing was said specifically relative to the back pay of the two reinstated men, which goes back to last June. It was understood, however, that this matter would be amicably adjusted.

Settled by Federal Official.

G. W. W. Hanger, a member of the Federal Board of Mediation and Conciliation, was largely instrumental in bringing about the agreement. Said Mr. Hanger:

"The strike was complete and the company had no alternative."

Mr. Hanger said that he urged Mr. Sims in the interest of the public to accede to the request of the men for the restitution of Slade and Lynch. Arbitration, he declared, was impossible.

The Delaware & Hudson had no agreement for arbitration with its men, an official of the road stated to-night. The men agreed to abide by the Newlands act when it was passed, he said, but repudiated it when a case was decided against one of the railroad brotherhoods, saying it applied only to that case.

A few minor matters still remain unsettled, but these will be adjusted at the convenience of the union and railway officials. They have to do with the cases of other discharged employes, but they did not enter into the strike proper. Union officials agreed early in the day that when the cases of Slade and Lynch were disposed of the strikers would return to work.

Slade and Lynch were discharged less than a year ago, when a car on their train, running on the Susquehanna division, jumped the track and bumped along the ties for three and a half miles. The men were discharged on the ground that they were negligent and had violated a company rule and caused much damage to property. The union officials replied that the accident was unavoidable and that no serious damage was done.

Thereby developed the trouble. For several months the company and union officials debated the proposition of restoring the men to work. Then, a week ago, 98 per cent. of the employes voted to strike if Slade and Lynch were not restored to duty.

At 5:45 o'clock this morning the first body of men walked out. From then on until noon engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, telegraph operators, and towermen gradually quit, as the safety of passengers would permit. At noon it was estimated that 5,000 men were out, and the entire system was paralyzed. Shop workers and office employes alone remained on duty.

It was less than two hours after the last striker had left his work that Mr. Hanger arrived here and began negotiations with the two sides. Accompanying him from New York was Mr. Sims. The latter agreed immediately to an arbitration of the differences, and Mr. Hanger approached the union officials with this in view.

No Hope for Arbitration.

The union men were firm in their demands, however, and told Mr. Hanger that it was useless to talk arbitration. Then Mr. Hanger began a series of trips between railway officials and the men. Three times he met each side separately, and three times from each side he received the same reply—the unions demanding the reinstatement of the employes, and Mr. Sims holding out for arbitration.

Then Mr. Hanger returned to confer with the union leaders and within an hour he decided that arbitration was impossible. So he drew up an agreement granting the demands again went to Mr. Sims's office and obtained his signature, and the strike was officially declared off a few minutes later.

Mr. Sims to-night gave out a statement in which he said:

"The Delaware and Hudson Company throughout the present controversy has endeavored to take a fair position and, as directed by the Government's mediation, conciliation, and arbitration law, called upon the National Board of Mediation and Conciliation to intervene. The company has always been willing to arbitrate the questions involved. It has finally yielded to the suggestion of Commissioner Hanger.

This company in thus meeting the express wishes of the Commissioner has done so to avoid further inconvenience to the public, and because the Commissioner pointed out that it seemed impossible to obtain an amicable settlement in any other way, as the employes absolutely declined arbitration.

"I wish it understood that the settlement was brought about solely by the efforts of Mr. Hanger," said M. C. Carey, Vice President of the Order of Railway Conductors and the only Grand Lodge official who was present at the conference.

"Go to it, old man," was the key telegram which flashed over the wires from Carey to various union leaders along the system when the strike was settled. The last message was filed just sixteen hours after the first man walked out.

Some One Impersonated Lynch.

James M. Lynch, State Commissioner of Labor, did not take part in the negotiations, although he offered his services. In attempting to call Mr. Lynch by telephone early this morning, Mr. Carey got in touch with some one who represented himself as the Commissioner, and said he could be "seen during office hours." That angered Mr. Carey until he learned in a letter from Mr. Lynch that it was not he nor any member of the Labor Department on the telephone.

No violence was reported as a result of the strike. Union leaders told the men to leave the company property quietly, and they did so. The few meetings of union locals held along the system were reported to have been peaceable. Many railroad men who left here early to-day and then deserted trains at terminal points had the unusual experience of paying their fares back home.

Several days will be required to straighten out the mail, express and freight which has accumulated here and at other points along the lines. Mail pouches were sent out of here to-day by automobile and trolley cars, and plans had been made to continue the service to-morrow.

Vice President Sims's desk to-night was piled high with telegrams from all along the company's lines, from dairymen, papermakers, and oher shippers, asking for a quick settlement of the strike and complaining of the tie-up. Mr. Sims said that the money loss to the company, though the strike was of less than a day's duration, was considerable, but that no attempt had been made to estimate it.

Before the conference Mr. Sims said that after he applied to the Board of Mediation and Conciliation yesterday he personally called up Mr. Carey between 2 and 3 o'clock, told him that he had asked the board to intervene; that the board had advised him it would do so, and that he would confirm the statement in writing, which he did, Mr. Carey receiving the letter shortly after 4 o'clock. Mr. Sims said Mr. Carey assured him that the men would not be called out, pending the negotiations for mediation. He said Mr. Carey, however, declined to state the hour at which it had been arranged to call out the men.

Mr. Hanger's telegram to Mr. Carey appealing for delay was sent from Washington at four o'clock but apparentl ywas not received in Albany until 6:30, to this telegram Mr. Carey replied:

"The die is cast. Only the concession we ask will bring about a settlement."

Following is Mr. Sims's letter to Mr. Carey and the other Union representatives:

> Gentlemen: Your ultimatum of even date handed me this morning. I regret extremely the arbitrary position you have taken, and in order that there can be no suggestion of unfairness in the position of this company, I have asked the National Board of Conciliation and Mediation to intervene, and I am advised by the board that you will hear from them to-day.
> I assume, at least until the board has been given an opportunity, that no action will be taken which will cause inconvenience to the public and embarrassment to this company and its employes.

"Unsafe and Undesirable."

"The position of this company is one of surprise that such drastic action should be taken in connection with discharging from the serice of the company two employes whose previous records of accident and damage showed that they were unsafe and undesirable, in the opinion of the officers," said Mr. Sims. "There were twelve original cases, all of them having been settled except this one."

Mr. Carey declares that "Mr. Sims was clearly and definitely informed Friday morning and twice after during the same day and again on Saturday that the men would be withdrawn from the service in the absence of a satisfactory settlement."

Cities north of Glens Falls were the greatest sufferers from the short-lived strike, the Delaware & Hudson being their only means of transportation. There are several hospitals and a State prison, Clinton, on this branch of the system.

At Glens Falls the price of beef rose 2 cents a pound as soon as the local butchers found that the strike had tied up shipments.

The Secretary of the Delaware & Hudson Company, F. Murray Olyphant, was one of the travelers marooned at Plittsburgh by the strike. Mr. Olyphant went there yesterday from New York to address the Young Men's Christian Association.

The strike of the five federated unions for organization purposes was said here to-night to have been the third of its kind in the history of the nation. Many years ago such a strike occurred on the Lehigh, when a conductor had been discharged. Six years ago in Chicago the firemen, conductors, engineers, telegraphers, and trainmen banded together against the Western roads, but did not strike, getting their demands.

RECORDS BAD, SAYS LOREE.

Why Railroad Had Refused to Reinstate Slade and Lynch.

L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson Company, issued this statement in this city yesterday before a settlement of the strike had been reached:

The question between the Delaware & Hudson Company and its employes is this:

In June, 1913, Mr. F. A. Slade, conductor, and Mr. J. A. Lynch, engineer, were running a freight train on the company's line and hauled a derailed car three-and-a-half miles, causing damage to the railroad property and endangering trains on the other track. After full investigation by the officers of this company, it was found that these men failed in their duty to observe the situation. It also appeared that their previous records had not been good. Mr. Slade had at one time been suspended for running by a meeting point and at another time for a "sideswiping" collision. Mr. Lynch had been suspended four times and censured twice. For these reasons the men were discharged from the service.

The matter of the reinstatement of Messrs. Slade and Lynch came up with several other matters in conferences between officers of the orders embracing this company's employes in the train service and officials of this company, and all the matters except this one were satisfactorily adjusted. With respect to this matter this company's officers felt that the negligence of the men was clearly established; that their records were not good and that they could not be reinstated without injury to the service and without exposing of the public to possible danger. They also felt and still feel that the responsibility for the continuation in the service of negligent employes rests directly upon them and that their conclusions in matters of discipline should be accepted as final.

But in view of the provisions of the Newlands Act relating to mediation and arbitration, and of the fact that both the railroads and the brotherhoods by their representatives assured the President and the Senate Committee that they felt under obligations to use the machinery of such act, this company has reached the conclusion that, to avoid the serious consequences of a strike to the public, it ought to go so far as to offer to submit even this matter of discipline to arbitration. Consequently it has called upon the Federal Board of Mediation and Conciliation, and Mr. Hanger of that Board is now in Albany [illegible] good offices to adjust the question at issue.

In these days, and in view of the legislation and machinery of the Nation and State, some of it at least passed at the solicitation of railroad employes, as well as railroads, it would be most unfortunate for all parties, as well as for the public, if an adjustment of this matter could not be brought about

The mails were badly affected by the tie-up. E. M. Norris, Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, planned to go to Albany to see what steps he could take for the restoration of the service. The Montreal mails he said could be forwarded over other roads, and Binghampton could be reached by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western. Round Albany for some little distance the local mails might be managed by the use of special messengers, but over the rest of the Delaware & Hudson territory there was no way apparently of carrying on mail business. This meant that along Lake Champlain on the western shore and in the Saranac district of the Adirondacks the postal service would be interrupted. Lake George and a number of points between Schenectady and Binghampton also would be seriously inconvenienced.

AVERTS LAY-OFF OF 25,000.

Strike Would Have Shut Down Collieries for Lack of Cars.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKES-BARRE, Penn., Jan. 19.—The settlement of the D. & H. strike averts the threatened lay-off of 25,000 men and boys employed in the anthracite mines in this region. The Delaware and Hudson Company has a dozen collieries scattered throughout the northern coal fields, and the output of these collieries is carried to tidewater by the Pennsylvania Division of the D. & H. system. The output of the Kingston Coal Company, which has five collieries, is transported to market over the same division.

It was feared that operations at these collieries would be tied up beginning to-morrow owing to the fact that the strike had cut off the car supply. The collieries depend upon a daily car supply, and also look for the daily removal of loaded cars.

Notices were posted to-day at the D. & H. collieries that operations would cease. It is expected now that these notices will be rescinded immediately.

With the exception of one train leaving here with the mail and the arrival of two trains, not a wheel moved on the D. & H. tracks here to-day. An attempt was made to attach a freight car carrying perishable merchandise to the one passenger train leaving here, but the crew refused to handle it. The local yards are congested with freight.

The Lehigh Valley and Pennsylvania Railroads to-day transferred passengers for points in New York State over the electric road to Scranton, where they were transferred to the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad.

SEES ORIGIN OF LIFE IN SEA.

Dr. Henderson Thinks It Latent There in Inorganic Matter.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 19.—Before a distinguished group of scientists in the Johns Hopkins Physical Laboratory this afternoon Dr. L. J. Henderson of Harvard University asserted that researches extending over many years had convinced him that inorganic matter contained latent life. He added that he believed that this latent life became active under certain conditions, and that soon the line between the two forms of existence would be crossed.

"The ocean," he said, "is the element which might contain such conditions. The organization of the ocean fits it to sustain life better than any other environment, and the fundamental characteristics of the ocean also encourage the evolution of active life. Can we not, therefore, assume that the ocean is the fittest of known substances for the creation of the origin of life?

"Variations of temperature in the ocean from various causes are slighter than in any other matter. For this, as well as other reasons we find that water is best adapted to the evolution of organic matter. In the ocean we see every degree of development from the highest to the lowest forms of life. Certain forms of activity in the ocean are the lowest forms of the organic life we know of, so low that we seem to be on the dividing line between the organic and inorganic. If we are to believe in the theory of the evolution, may we not go a step further and conclude that inorganic life under certain conditions, such as those contained in the ocean will develop organic life?"

BILL FOR FARM LOAN BUREAU

Senator Norris Would Have Government Lend Money at 4 Per Cent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—In an effort to forestall the political effect of the coming Democratic rural credits bill, Senator Norris of Nebraska, a radical Republican, to-day introduced a bill under which the Federal Government would supply farmers with easy money. Mr. Norris's measure would permit Government loans on farm mortgages at 4 per cent. The Government would raise the necessary funds by issuing bonds at 3½ per cent.

The bill would create a Bureau of Farm Loans in the Department of Agriculture, at the head of which would be a Director at a salary of $6,000 a year and an assistant receiving $4,500. This bureau would be empowered to make loans on farm lands secured by mortgages payable to the bureau. No loan would be made on less than ten-acre tracts of land. Such loans would be for sums of $100 or multiples thereof up to $2,000.

Money borrowed under the provisions of this bill could be used only to make payment on land mortgaged, to pay off indebtedness already existing against such land, or to build a house, barn or other buildings on the land. Under certain regulations, an amount not to exceed 50 per cent. of the loan might be used to purchase stock and farm implements.

ending Dec. 1 the roads of the Eastern district had railway tax accruals of $23,594,137, compared with $21,730,783 during the corresponding five months of 1912.

The bulletin shows that the average net operating revenue per mile of line or large roads for the country was $339.38 per mile in November, 1913, compared with $407.11 per mile in November, 1912, a loss of $67.73 per mile. For the Eastern district roads alone the net operating revenue per mile of line in November, 1913, was $438.14, compared with $605.63 in November, 1912, a loss of $167.49 per mile of line. For the Southern district roads the loss of net operating revenue per mile of line was $14.15, and for the Western district roads it was $47.99.

These figures show that the loss in net operating revenue per mile of line for the Eastern district roads was nearly three times as great as the average loss per mile of line for the roads of the whole country. After allowing for auxiliary operations and taxes the net operating income averaged a loss of $77.08 per mile of line for the whole country and a loss of $187.15 per mile of line for the Eastern roads alone in November, 1913, compared with November, 1912.

For the five months ending Dec. 1 the loss in net operating revenue for the roads of the country averaged $217.15 per mile of line, and for the Eastern roads alone this loss averaged $548.30 per mile of line as compared with the corresponding five months of 1912.

For the Eastern district in which is pending the application of the carriers for a 5 per cent. increase in rates the following situation is shown in comparisons:

Freight revenue—November, 1913, $78,-451,067; November, 1912, $84,322,395; five months ending Dec. 1, 1913, $411,575,072; five months ending Dec. 1, 1912, $418,-281,589.

[illegible] November, 1913, [illegible] November, 1912, $22,171,090; [illegible] Dec. 1, 1913, [illegible] 663,595; five months ending Dec. 1, 1912, $132,965,679.

Maintenance of way—November, 1913, $14,797,721; November, 1912, $15,-177,647; five months, 1913, $82,660,523; five months 1912, $76,400,189.

Maintenance of equipment—November, 1913, $22,069,987; November, 1912, $19,593,179; five months 1913, $109,-525,669; five months 1912, $96,954,618.

Traffic expenses—November, 1913, $2,155,759; November 1912, $1,193,840; five months, 1913, $10,969,958; five months, 1912, $9,713,952.

Transportation Expenses—November, 1913, $44,109,278; November, 1912, $41,-967,310; five months 1913, $218,011,239; five months 1912, $200,981,080.

General Expenses—November, 1913, $2,547,689; November, 1912, $2,489,894; five months, 1913, $13,060,758; five months 1912, $11,886,350.

VINDICATE WILLIAMS IN CONFIRMING HIM

Senate Democrats Accept Committee's Views on Charges Against New Currency Head.

HALTED PANIC, SAYS WEEKS

Republican Senator Thus Regards Williams's Part—Denial of Seaboard Plot.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Opposition in the Senate to confirming the appointment of John Skelton Williams of Virginia, now Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, as Controller of the Currency and as ex-officio member of the Organization Committee and the Federal Reserve Board of the regional bank system dwindled to the vanishing point this afternoon. After less than two hours' debate the Senate, without a roll call, ordered the nomination confirmed. In a viva voce vote only the voice of Senator Bristow of Kansas was audible in the negative.

Senator Bristow made the one hostile speech, while three other speeches of the executive session were in high praise of Mr. Williams's ability. They were made by Mr. Reed of Missouri, Acting Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency; Mr. Chilton of West Virginia, and Mr. Martin of Virginia, all Democrats.

Mr. Reed read to the Senate the committee's findings in regard to incidents connected with the taking over of the United States Trust Company of Washington by the Munsey Trust Company, and another local concern, and as to Mr. Williams's part in $1,000,000 of the Government money being deposited with the United States Trust Company to stem the run on that institution the day before the Munsey Trust Company took charge of it. In the opinion of Democrats that report completely wiped out the grounds of attack on Mr. Williams.

Democratic members of the committee have said all along that Mr. Williams made an unanswerable defense of his course when he testified last week. In evidence of this they passed a motion through the Senate lifting the ban of secrecy from the evidence before the committee.

An interesting point in the evidence was a little statement by Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, who was supposed to be leading the Republican fight on Mr. Williams, in which Mr. Weeks said that he was inclined to think that Mr. Williams had acted properly in preventing what might have proved a disastrous local crisis in financial circles. The course was unprecedented, said Mr. Weeks, but he no longer thought it was unwarranted.

The only banker who adhered throughout to his original strictures on Mr. Williams was Milton E. Ailes of the Riggs National Bank of Washington and the National City Bank of New York. He thought Mr. Williams too revengeful for a position of such power.

In addition to the testimony before the committee, Senator Swanson of Virginia made public a letter from Charles Starek, National Bank Examiner in New York, denying certain charges supposed to have been made by Mr. Ailes. Mr. Starek quoted a newspaper as saying that Mr. Ailes had told the committee that a Vice President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank of New York, soon after Mr. Williams became Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, had been ordered by Mr. Starek, on Mr. Williams's suggestion, to get rid of any Seaboard Air Line stock carried as collateral. The supposition was that Mr. Williams was actuated by revenge against the road from the management of which he had been forced by Thomas F. Ryan.

Mr. Starek's letter said emphatically that he had never received instructions from Mr. Williams regarding the Seaboard stock, had never forbidden its use as collateral, and had, in fact, permitted its use on a parity with other good railroad securities.

SCHOOL HEAD ARRESTED.

1,800 Men After Pullman Porter's Job Took Correspondence Course.

For painting too glowingly the advantages of the Pullman car porter's life and for offering, it is alleged, to put them within the reach of any colored man who would pay a tuition fee of $15 for a correspondence course for thirty-six days, Charles A. Lomas of 60 Fifth Avenue was arrested yesterday by Post Office Inspector Mayhew and arraigned before Commissioner Shields on the charge of using the mails to defraud. He was held in $1,500 bail.

Lomas called his concern, the postal officials say, the American Service School, and had about 1,800 pupils. When one of them represented that he could not pay the $15, Lomas would take as little as $2. This is how his circulars spoke of the Pullman porter's life:

"Sleeping car porters are a happy, well-paid bunch of rovers. While it is not necessary to be goodlooking to be a successful porter, you must be neat and clean all the time. Always manage to have a clean collar, dark tie, and your shoes nicely polished. Your handsome uniform will secure for you treatment that will put you on the level with the train conductor."

As a quiet tip to his students Lomas, it is said, told them they could easily earn from $125 to $150 a month by getting into the good graces of their wealthy passengers.

EXPECTS BAD RAILWAY YEAR.

Erie President Says Roads Must Have Advance in Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 19.—President Frederick D. Underwood of the Erie Railroad, who slipped through Milwaukee last week for a day's rest at the "old homestead" in Wauwatosa, was caught long enough to answer a few questions regarding the business situation and outlook. Mr. Underwood said, in substance:

"I expect that the volume of business done by the railways of the country will be less this year than last and that the net results will be smaller accordingly.

"Nobody can forecast the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission as to the advance in freight rates asked by the railroads. The most conclusive argument I know of in favor of such an increase is that the railroads cannot go on with the improvements necessary to the use and benefit of the public on their present net income. If the railways have no money to spend for enlargements the damage to general business will be quickly apparent.

"The 5 per cent. advance in rates which has been asked for will work no direct hardship upon any class of people, while it is an axiom that hard times for railways are hard times for almost everybody. The ultimate ownership of the railways has no bearing on the discussion of rates. Government [illegible]

HELD AS REID'S BANDIT.

Corrali Thought to be the Man Publisher Chased.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Jan. 19.—Sheriff William J. Doyle committed Tony Corrali to the county jail this evening to await the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of highway robbery. He was arrested for holding up and robbing Arthur Bowcock near Ophir Farm, the country home of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, yesterday, and is held as the man who was trailed by Ogden Mills Reid and his brother-in-law, G. V. Rogers, after the fugitive threatened to shoot them if they came near him.

The tracks made in the snow when the highwayman fled led to Corrali's arrest, and to-day his walking boots were fitted in the imprints made yesterday. The tracks led to the house in Silver Lake Park, where Mr. Reid and Sheriff Doyle traced the man yesterday, and the same tracks were found at the stables of Eugene C. Reynal, in Mamaroneck Road, where Corrali was arrested last night.

The peculiar gait of Corrali is also shown in the foot prints. He positively denies any connection with the hold-up yesterday. Corrali has a police record for petty offenses here. His father was murdered in this village sixteen years ago.

CUT OFF CHILDREN WITH $3.

Henry Marsh, an Artist, Left Rest of $600 Estate to Woman Friend.

In the will of Henry Marsh, an artist, which was filed for probate yesterday, his entire estate, estimated at $600, with the exception of $3 divided among his children, is left to Mrs. Jacobene Beer of 322 East Sixty-ninth Street, with whom Mr. Marsh made his home during the last fourteen years of his life. Mr. Marsh died on Nov. 12 in his ninety-first year. In leaving practically his entire estate to Mrs. Beer, the artist said that she had on all occasions acted like a daughter to him, and on one occasion had saved his life. To each of his children Mr. Marsh left $1.

Mr. Marsh had little to say concerning his children in the will and, according to Edgar M. Warner, Clerk of the Superior Court in Windham County, Conn., he rarely mentioned them during his lifetime.

"I have heard him speak of a daughter, Frenzie," said Mr. Warner, in an affidavit filed with the will, "and of a son and daughter whose names were not known to me. Mr. Marsh was taken in by Mrs. Beer out of sympathy. He had a breach with his family, which he never spoke of. He was an artist and possessed of a refined and sensitive nature, which undoubtedly led to reticence concerning his personal affairs and particularly matters regarding his immediate family. I can find no trace of his family, which lived here twenty years ago."

ANGELL SUES HIS BRIDE.

Says She Told Him She Had Another Husband Living.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Jan. 19.—A confession which he says he obtained from his wife, whom he married less than a month ago, that she had a husband living in New York, has led Albert Angell, Jr., to commence proceedings to have his marriage annuled. The woman is the daughter of a musician in a Lakewood hotel. Angell says he will not press a charge of bigamy against her.

According to the story that he says his wife told him, she was married when only 16 years old to a youth named Parker in New York. She wanted to spite a rival. Parker and she did not live together, she said.

A few days ago, worrying over the fact that she was a bigamist, she confided her secret to her husband. Angell says she told him her first husband had not provided for her, and that her efforts to obtain a divorce in New York were unsuccessful.

SEVEN ARE SLAIN IN PRISON BATTLE

Lane through the head and the convict fell against Miss Foster. Again Rice said that he was going to drop out.

"I'll kill you if you drop out of here before they kill me," was the answer.

Almost immediately Ritchie made another shot and Reed dropped dead.

Girl Still in Buggy.

All the time until they were killed Reed and Lane were returning the fire and trying to kill Richie. When Reed fell from the buggy after being shot Rice also dropped out. He lay flat on the ground as though dead. The guards were coming from every direction and had been taking long range shots at the buggy. Miss Foster, wounded and faint from loss of blood, was unable to get out and was the only one alive in the buggy.

Koontz had died of his wounds by the time the firing had ceased, and his body lay in the bottom of the rig. Rice, untouched through the rain of bullets from the time he was taken in charge by the convicts in the Warden's office, was lying in the road with his hands tied behind him, afraid to make a move for fear the guards would shoot him.

A call was sent to McAlester for men and guns and within a few minutes a hundred men were on the ground with Winchesters ready to assist the quelling the riot, but no help was needed. The riot began and ended with the three convicts who were slain.

Tom Lane was serving a six-year term for forgery. He had a year and six months to serve. "China" Reed was convicted for horse stealing and entered for the second time on a prison sentence in the Oklahoma prison last December. Dave Koontz was serving a fifty-year sentence for bank robbery.

Lane and Reed were employed in the tailor shop; they had carried their work to the storeroom in the basement, and Koontz, who was a blacksmith and employed in repair work, had taken some knives he had been repairing to the hospital kitchen in the basement.

The three men slipped up the stairway leading from the basement to the gate, where they got the keys. There were no bad conduct marks against any of these prisoners. Although they were model prisoners they never had been allowed the freedom of trusties.

How they obtained their arms is not known. Deputy Oates had been watchful as a rule, and any such attempts to smuggle arms in the prison had been thwarted. It is thought that it was because of his keenness in learning of their plots that they were determined to kill him. He had lived in Oklahoma for many years, and probably had captured as many outlaws as any man in the West. In his many fights with outlaws he had never been wounded except once. Oates was in the Rough Riders under Roosevelt.

Judge Thomas had been a resident of Oklahoma for several years. Besides having served as Federal Judge he was a member of the Code Commission under Gov. Haskell. After his service there he returned to his practice in Muskogee. He had come to McAllester to look after the interests of a client, and was talking to the man when he was shot. He was one of the best known men in the State. He served in Congress from Illinois before serving on the bench in this State. His son, John R. Thomas, Jr., is a Captain in the First United States Infantry in Honolulu.

Girl Pleads with Captors.

Miss Foster came here a short time ago from Trenton, Mo., and became a teacher in the local business college. Later she accepted the post of stenographer at the penitentiary. She has been there only two weeks. After she was wounded she pleaded with the convicts to let her have their guns, telling them the guards would be sure to get them anyway and it would be better for them to surrender their weapons to her. At one time her pleadings seemed to effect one of the prisoners, who handed his gun to her, but it was immediately snatched away by another.

Within thirty minutes after the tragedy there were no signs of disturbance at the penitentiary. Several prisoners had risked their lives in an effort to assist Deputy Oates, and one of them was slashed across the face with a knife while he was attempting to protect Oates.

Prisoners carried guns from the arsenal to the Deputy Warden while the fight was in progress.

CONTROL OF RADIUM URGED ON CONGRESS

Drs. Kelly, Abbe, Burnham, and Gaylord Appeal for Cancer Sufferers.

WANT LAW TO STOP FRAUDS

Ask Government to Extract Radium and Give It to Hospitals —Bremner Case Cited.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Congress was urged to-day by Dr. Howard A. Kelly of Baltimore and other eminent radium experts to monopolize for the benefit of cancer sufferers the radium-bearing ores in the public lands. They asked that the Government carry out the plans of Secretary Lane of the Interior Department for the withdrawal from public entry of all radium-bearing lands, and extract the precious radioactive ore from these lands for use in the hospitals of the country in the treatment of cancer.

The medical men heard to-day, in addition to Dr. Kelly, were Dr. Robert Abbe, senior surgeon of St. Luke's Hospital of New York, who ranks as one of the leading specialists in the treatment of cancer by radium; Dr. C. F. Burnam of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, an assistant of Dr. Kelly in the treatment of cancer, and Dr. Harvey B. Gaylord of Buffalo, director of the New York State Institution for the Cure of Malignant Diseases.

All urged the Government to act promptly to prevent radium-bearing ores in the public lands falling into the hands of private individuals, who might monopolize them and prevent the radium reaching the hospitals except at exorbitant prices. Dr. Kelly exhibited to the committee many photographs of cancer patients whom he had treated with radium tubes. Dr. Abbe exhibited a dozen wax casts of cancerous growths, showing their condition before and after radium tubes had been used.

"More radium is the crying need of the times," declared Dr. Kelly. "There has never been such a tremendous activity among medical men as now in the fight against cancer. Physicians and surgeons in New York, Chicago, Washington, Baltimore, and in fact all around the world are seeking a cure and are doing this even at the risk of their own lives. The newspapers are filled with advertisements of quack cancer cures. They are frauds, and Congress should pass a law prohibiting such impositions upon the public. I recently received a letter from a man who said he had discovered a cure for cancer. I wrote him that I would have nothing to do with a man who would not turn such a boon over to the public if he possessed it."

Federal Action Urgent.

Dr. Kelly declared there was immediate necessity for Federal action from the standpoint of the medical profession. He told the committee of several recent cases in his own experience where radium had made possible complete cures of cancer, and declared that radium in the public lands instead of being exploited by private interests and shipped abroad should be extracted by the Government and turned over to the hospitals of the country.

Representative Taylor of Colorado, in which State there is considerable opposition to the Lane-Foster-Kelly plan for Government segregation of radium bearing ores, asked Dr. Kelly whether radium ores might not be better developed by private enterprise under competitive conditions instead of having the Federal Government segregate the lands and "lock up the ores."

"I don't understand," said Dr. Kelly, "that the Government purposes to lock up these lands. I think the Government should develop them and distribute the radium obtained as fast as possible. I don't think it is the purpose of those who want to conserve the radium supply to prohibit the extraction of radium from the public domain. That is not the idea at all."

Representative Hamlin asked Dr. Kelly whether radium had any possibilities beyond medicinal uses.

"It has wonderful possibilities," replied Dr. Kelly, "in chemistry and physics. The possibilities cannot be dreamed of, but for the present, with the supply so limited and precious, its possibilities lie only in medicine."

"Is it possible for a poor man suffering from cancer to be treated now?" asked Representative Hamlin of Missouri.

"About 50 per cent. of our cases are charity or near-charity cases," replied Dr. Kelly.

Discussing the case of Representative Bremner of New Jersey, who is undergoing radium treatment in Baltimore, the doctor declared he felt certain a cure could be effected if more radium were available, and, as it was, the patient showed encouraging symptoms and he was not hopeless. He said no arrangement for concentrating the radium supply for such an emergency could be made in justice to thousands of other patients.

Dr. Kelly was asked how long radium would last.

"Only about 2,000 years," Dr. Kelly replied.

Can Be Used for Other Diseases.

Dr. Burnam said that undoubtedly the increasing number of cancer cures was largely attributable to the recent use of radium. He had visited the principal European centres where radium was employed, and everywhere there was a scarcity of the substance. Not only was radium of value in the treatment of cancer, but it could also be employed for rheumatism and certain blood diseases. The results with rheumatism, however, were not encouraging as yet. In view of the limited supply of radium Dr. Burnam suggested that for the present it be used for the treatment of cancer only, and not diverted for less serious diseases.

Dr. Gaylord related the difficulty of obtaining radium and urged the committee to see that no private enterprise was allowed to exploit sickness. He said that the Government should take steps to make available as soon as possible such a supply of radium that even the poorest man might avail himself of its wonderful benefits.

Dr. Abbe told the committee that radium was now selling at an inflated price, but that it probably would remain high for years to come.

Secretary Lane and Director Holmes of the Bureau of Mines will appear before the committee to-morrow and Representative Taylor said he would present witnesses objecting to the Government plan to withdraw from entry all radium-bearing lands in Colorado.

JURY NAMES HIDDEN AT GUNMAN'S TRIAL

Judge Malone Takes Unusual Precaution as Gangsters Besiege Court.

"DOPEY BENNY" PUT IN CELL

Two Gunmen Sentenced to Sing Sing—One, an ex-Convict, Gets a Six-Year Term.

Fearing the interference of gangsters with the jurymen selected to serve at the trial of Benjamin ("Dopey Benny") Fein, a notorious gunman, on a charge of felonious assault, Judge Malone of General Sessions ordered yesterday at the beginning of the trial that the names of the jurymen be kept secret. The order came after an incident at the very doors of the courtroom, where a score or more gangmen blocked Judge Malone's entrance, making it necessary for the court attendants to form a flying wedge to get room for him to pass.

Judge Malone's order, which is the first one of that nature within the memory of those about the Criminal Court Building, was but one of a number of blows aimed at gunmen yesterday.

A participant in a gun fight between the "Dopey Benny" and Jack Sirocco gangs was sent to the penitentiary for one year and fined $500 with an additional day for each dollar, in the Court of Special Sessions, although no gun was found on him. Judge Nott in General Sessions sentenced an ex-convict to Sing Sing for six years and two months for carrying a gun.

It is alleged that on Aug. 9 Fein attacked Sergt. Patrick E. Sheridan of the Elizabeth Street Station, after the policeman had asked him to move on from in front of a bathhouse on Forsyth Street. Sheridan had been ordered by the department to scatter the crowd of gangsters who were in the habit of gathering there.

The case came up for trial last week, and Judge Malone said that it must go on immediately, setting yesterday as the date.

Assistant District Attorney Charles E. Colligan made his opening argument and the case was then adjourned to let another trial go on. The intervening trial may take all of to-day. Without any motion on Mr. Colligan's part, Judge Malone released the bail and ordered Fein to the Tombs.

PREVENTS TRIPLE SLAYING.

Boy Grabs Stepfather's Gun and Saves Mother and Himself.

Disheartened by a belief that he could not rid himself of tuberculosis, W. J. B. Smith, an elevated railroad conductor, called up his wife by telephone yesterday morning and bade her come to him at his room in an apartment at 478 West 159th Street. As soon as she could get away from the restaurant in Sixth Avenue, where she worked as a waitress, she hurried uptown to the home of her sister, Mrs. Clinton Cone of 830 East 180th Street, the Bronx. There she found her thirteen-year-old son, George, just home from school.

So George went along when Mrs. Smith climbed the stairs to the flat of Mrs. Anna M. Johnson, on the fourth floor of the Washington Apartments, where Smith had taken a room. They found him waiting, and, after quietly ushering them into his room, he locked the door, and, seating himself on the edge of the bed, announced in a calm voice that he was going to die.

"Of course, you're not going to die," answered his wife.

"Yes, I'm going to die," Smith went on, "and you two are going to die with me. I have made up my mind to kill us all."

And at that he reached to his hip-pocket and drew forth a revolver. As he did so the weapon caught in his key chain, and there was just a moment of fumbling, but that was enough for George, who sprang forward, and in one lunge at the gun jabbed the knuckle of his index finger between the shield and the trigger. He jammed it in so hard that he could not easily have drawn it out, and so hard that Smith could not pull the trigger, wrench and twist and struggle as he would.

Man and stepson wrenched and twisted and struggled about the room, while the man's wife screamed and screamed for help. The turning point came when Smith landed the boy with a crash against the door and the boy, quick-witted, reached with his free hand for the key and unlocked the door.

"Mamma," he cried, "the door is unlocked. Get out of here."

And gaining the hall Mrs. Smith ran down the stairs to the street to look for a policeman. She left the door open behind her, and with a sudden rush the boy succeeded in shifting the fight to the hall.

The moment they had departed Smith shot himself dead.

joined the Mexican refugees from Ojinaga, as reported in press dispatches from Texas. A dispatch was received by the War Department today stating that Gen. Rojas was sailing from Havana for Vera Cruz.

MAGON SEES LIND AGAIN.

Vera Cruz Believes They Are Approaching an Agreement.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, Jan. 19.—John Lind and Jesus Flores Magon, who was a candidate for the Vice Presidency in the late elections, were closeted for nearly six hours to-day, and they will resume their conference to-night or to-morrow. Both denied that their meeting had any political significance, saying that the subjects of their conversation were purely personal; but nobody believes this, as Magon, under present conditions, would be just the man to represent President Huerta.

It is believed that the two men arrived at an agreement on many phases of the Mexican question and are now taking counsel with President Wilson and President Huerta, respectively, on the points as to which they are at variance.

It is said here that Huerta would resign in favor of Gamboa if the rebels would agree to recognize the latter, and if President Wilson would permit him to become a Presidential candidate at the next election.

MEXICO MUST PAY.

Bill for Board of Refugees Now Amounts to $100,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The War Department has referred to the State Department a charge for the maintenance of the Mexican refugees that have come into the hands of the United States Army and are being fed and housed in detention camps along the international boundary. The claim aggregates about $100,000. To this amount a further claim will be added to include the daily cost of rations for the entire number of refugees—about $2,500.

A large item of cost is the railroad charge for transporting Gen. Mercado's army of 3,600 officers and men, with 1,081 women and 533 children, from Marfa to El Paso and for taking the 700 refugees now at San Diego from various points along the Southern Pacific Railroad west of El Paso to San Diego.

The State Department has decided that the horses and mules brought across the boundry by Mercado shall be sold, and has so notified the War Department. There are 783 horses, 307 mules, and 354 burros now in the hands of United States troops at Presidio. The War Department will turn the selling over to the Treasury Department, which has the official machinery for disposing of them under such circumstances. The animals are in very poor condition, and the cost of their feeding and the customs duties will probably amount to as much as they will bring at forced sale.

If there is any balance left after paying these charges it will be held to the credit of the Mexican Government and applied on the payment of the ultimate claim of this Government against Mexico. It is not expected that any progress will be made in the adjustment of the claim until after the present war between the Federals and the Constitutionalists has ended and a new and constitutional Government is in control of Mexico.

There are hundreds of thousands of dollars involved in the claims arising out of the conditions of the Madero revolution. When peace comes it will be the policy of this Government to demand prompt consideration of them and provision for their payment as speedily as possible.

REFUGEES REACH MARFA.

Footsore and Hungry, They Cheer for Their American Hosts.

MARFA, Texas, Jan. 19.—Almost all of the 3,300 Mexican soldiers and the 1,367 women and children refugees who were driven out of Ojinaga, Mexico, by the rebels, had arrived in Marfa from the border to-night, and the first trainload of them are to be interned indefinitely.

The Mexicans with Gen. Salvador Mercado and other Federal commanders will probably arrive at the Fort Bliss reservation before daylight tomorrow. They have been assorted into their original commands and will be so kept during their detention. Like the common soldiers, Gen. Mercado and his officers will not be permitted to leave the barbed fence which has been built around the Fort Bliss camp. The women and children likewise will be kept inside it, as they elected to share the fate of the soldiers.

"Viva los Estados Unidos!" was the cry of the first refugees to arrive here. All the disarmed Mexican troops then joined in expressions of good-will toward the American soldiers, and of gratitude for being brought safely out of the Rio Grande Valley.

The hungry and ragged soldiers of the Huerta army looked with wistful faces toward the camp of the American soldiers at Marfa. The steam from the army kitchen and the smell of baking bread from the ovens especially appealed to them.

As they were not to be entrained until after dark, the refugees were corralled in a space set apart near the camp. Many of the soldiers dropped from sheer exhaustion. The women, who had endured the march better than the men, prepared campfires to cook the rations provided by the United States Government, and soon the camp presented a scene typical of an army bivouacked on the desert.

Gen. Mercado, Gen. Castro, and the other Mexican commanders were received at the quarters of the American officers.

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 19.—Rebel leaders at Juarez to-day sent word to Brig. Gen. Scott that they feared the Federals, when interned at Fort Bliss, would attempt to steal across to the Mexican side and rejoin the Huerta army.

The rebels asked that the refugees be removed from the border. Gen. Scott replied that precautions had been taken to prevent the escape of any Federals.

The refugees on their arrival here are to be guarded night and day by four companies of infantry.

Say to your "efficiency man":

"Mr. White, I have read several Library Bureau advertisements in which some pretty strong claims are made for unit record desks.

These desks, I understand, are about the size of an ordinary flat-top desk. They are a combination of a desk and card file. The tops of the cards are level with the desk, but below the eye and under the hand. The cards are in trays and may be used for any purpose for which card records are used—card ledgers, stock records, customers lists, credit information, sales records, price quotations, orders, indexes, etc.

The claim is made that a card can be found in about half the time it takes to find a page in a book; that the motion of finding a card and placing it in position for writing is greatly simplified. Is that true? If it is, would it not pay us to instal unit record desks?"

Let us show you exactly what the unit record desk will do for you. Booklet on request.

BANKERS LISTEN TO FOREIGN EXPERTS

Dr. Riesser of Hansa Bund Talks of New Federal Reserve System.

POLITICS SPOILS BUSINESS

M. Masson of Credit Lyonnaise and James S. Simpson of Liverpool Bank at Big Dinner.

The bankers of this city and their guests at the annual dinner of Group VIII. of the New York State Bankers' Association filled the entire floor space of the grand ballroom at the Waldorf-Astoria last night and overflowed into the balconies, usually reserved for women spectators, until every box was given up to a table full of diners.

This great outpouring was doubtless due to the fact that addresses were to be made by some of the most eminent bankers of England, Germany, and France. The enactment of the Federal Reserve act, with its partial adoption of European banking methods, has given an impetus to the study of practices not in vogue in this country which help to give stability to the money markets of London, Berlin, and Paris and the New York bankers listened intently to the exposition of their workings by Prof. Dr. Riesser, President of the Hansa League, the great organization of German financiers, merchants, shippers, and manufacturers; Robert Masson of the Credit Lyonnais and James H. Simpson, manager of the Liverpool Bank, Limited.

Each of the speakers modestly disclaimed a capacity to criticise the Federal Reserve act as a system adapted to American conditions, but Dr. Riesser attacked with some vigor the principle of political control as applied to a central banking organization in general, and spoke with pride of the upbuilding of German commercial and industrial supremacy by a system of interlocking relations with the banking community, which corresponded pretty closely to what in this country has been denounced as a "Money Trust." Mr. Simpson explained how an open discount market, such as exists in London, and, it is hoped, may grow up here under the new law, may be developed.

Letter from President Wilson.

One of the features of the dinner was a letter from President Wilson, written from Pass Christian, which in rather an intimate way revealed the pressure of public business upon him. It was addressed to James S. Alexander, President of the National Bank of Commerce, who presided at the dinner. It was dated Jan. 8 and said:

My Dear Mr. Alexander:

Mr. Tumulty has acquainted me with your very generous and earnest invitation to attend the annual banquet of Group VIII. of the New York State Bankers' Association on the nineteenth of this month, and I am greatly interested by what you tell us of the plans for the occasion. It will certainly be most interesting and stimulating. Unfortunately, as for myself, the evenings of the next three months are so filled with engagements which necessarily fill the President's calendar during this season that it is literally out of the question for me to add any more without simply shutting myself out from all opportunity to work upon important subjects out of office hours. It would be very unconscientious for me to give myself any further liberty from my desk, for the evenings are the only time I have to myself.

With the very best wishes for the entire success of the evening,

Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

Mr. Alexander, in his opening remarks, referred to the new currency law, saying:

"It is the experience of mankind that prudent and wise management and direction of a system that may not be the perfection of reason on its face will produce better results than are attained by inexperienced or incompetent managers of a system that, on paper, may be perfection itself. Perhaps no board or commission ever created by law since we have been a nation has had the power for weal or for woe that will be exercised by the board that is about to be created under this act.

"We believe, however, that it can be improved in important particulars, and expect that the Congress and the Executive will provide amendments as defects and deficiencies may become apparent by experience."

Dr. Riesser's Address.

Dr. Riesser's subject was "The German Banks and German Industry." After sketching the German system, he brought much applause by saying:

"The supervision by high State officials guards the prerogatives of the State; the management of affairs by competent men, appointed for life and removable only by disciplinary process, protects the Reichsbank against the always objectionable influences emanating from politics, and clothes its decisions with that independence and steadfastness, without which the management of a central note bank cannot operate successfully, and without which it, particularly in critical times, cannot claim the highly necessary authority.

"From our point of view a banking law is doomed to failure, if it gives any power in any important part of the management—except in supervision—to politics or to leaders in politics, who generally lack banking experience. Politics may sometimes spoil the character; they will always spoil business.

"We are further convinced that all banking legislation must in the long run suffer shipwreck if, perhaps with an eye on popular currents, it excludes the expert elements—banks and bankers—from the management of the central note bank. Or if, in other words, it treats them as enemies instead of friends. We believe that any banking legislation which is guided by purely impersonal motves must secure for the management of the central bank of issue the co-operation, though not the domination, of these expert elements, as such a bank can only fulfill its duties to the nation when working hand in hand with the other banks. When I want to build a house, I call in architects and bricklayers, not fiddlers—not even good fiddlers."

Banks Helped Germany.

"The present wonderful prosperity of German industry," he continued, "is to a very high degree due to the faithful support which it has at all times received at the hands of the banks and bankers. Any desire on the part of inexperienced professional or habitual saviors of the country to disturb or weaken this close fiduciary relationship as it has developed to the mutual benefit of both parties in Germany, and to sacrifice the same for the sake of any preconceived notions or pressure from anticapitalistic currents, would equal the wisdom of the man sawing off the branch on which he was sitting.

"A law enacting, for example, the proposal—which originated in America—that industrial enterprises should be prohibited from dealing exclusively with their regular banking connection, and should be compelled to dispose by public auction of the shares and obligations, would, in my opinion, be very much open to objection; such an enactment would be a haphazard law of the very worst calibre, fraught with great dangers.

"In times of trouble such a measure would rob industry of its best friends, who, in taking charge of such securities, are not out for the profits of a single transaction, like an outside bidder on a special occasion. Regular issuing houses are prepared and bound to throw into the scale the weight of their credit for the soundness of the papers they sell on behalf of an enterprise constantly under their careful supervision.

Close Industrial Connection.

"The influence exercised by industrial concentration and by banking concentration was always mutual, and leadership at times was in the hands of the banks and at times in those of industry. At present the latter has got so strong by concentration that one of its foremost leaders was fully justified in saying: 'Once upon a time we ran after the banks; now they run after us.'

"That the influence was mutual is shown especially also by the fact that every industrial agglomeration has either at once, or as time went on, reacted upon the constitution of the banking groups behind it. Inversely every change in the constitution of these banking groups subsequently reacted upon the industrial constellation, as every bank coming into the fold endeavored to introduce into it the industrial enterprises under its wing.

"And so we find here, too, a kaleidoscopic interchange of mutual influences between industrial and banking concentration, which constantly discloses new shapes and combinations in a manner uncommonly attractive to an attentive observer.

"This enormous development will and must, however, be subject to certain fundamental truths, exactly as the development of all individuals.

"The first is, there are no unlimited possibilities. All that is, has its limits, which may not be exceeded if self-destruction is to be avoided; even though for some prominent individuals and for some prominent political or economic entities these limits may be drawn infinitely wider than for the ordinary type.

"The second fundamental truth is: All human beings and all associations of human beings will sooner or later perish ignominiously, unless they remember every day of their existence and at every stage of their development that there is something higher than the exclusive pursuit of one-sided and egoistic professional and private interests, namely, regard for the public welfare and for our greatest and dearest possession, our country."

M. Masson on Conditions.

M. Masson, after detailing the French financial system, said:

"We express the sincere desire that your new monetary system may bring the same advantages to you. It will be a great relief for all concerned to know that the American market will henceforth be spared the anxieties of 1907.

"Your decision has come at the right moment. For crises—or let us say, less dramatically, disturbances in the money market—are apt to recur. Many people even believe that something of the sort may put in an appearance in a near future.

"I will not venture to express an opinion on that point, as I am not a prophet, but I feel that you would have ground for reproaching me if I omitted to add a few words about the way in which we consider the present extraordinary and, in certain respects, unprecedented financial situation of the world."

Speaking of the world-wide phenomenon of the great and growing demand for capital, M. Masson said:

"A new factor has to be taken into account: practically all the nations in the world are in want of money on an unprecedented scale. Most of them because they must keep up their armaments on a level with those of their neighbors—and comparatively fortunate are those who spend their money within their own boundaries; many of them because they have entered on the path of specialization and nationalization—and in this respect the low rates prevailing a few years ago constituted for them a dangerous incentive, while the high rates ruling at present are apt to be a healthy deterrent."

International Bill Market.

Mr. Simpson told how the discount market in London operated, and said:

"I do not hesitate to say that the existence of a strong, wide, international bill market is the best channel for the temporary employment of banking reserves and the best protection against overtrading and against a foreign demand for gold. The experience of Germany, France, and other European countries confirms this.

"Now you may wonder what the bearing of all this is for you. Well, you have a discount market, but it is hardly international, and a high discount rate here does not succeed in attracting any large amount of foreign capital. If I may be allowed to speak with perfect freedom, I cannot help feeling that a country of the enormous commercial importance of the United States ought to have a large international bill market. In fact, I believe that circumstances will compel you to develop one. Germany has succeeded in effecting this. I believe that if the proper measures were adopted the same thing could be done here.

"The advantages to you of such a market would be the same advantages that we possess, namely, liquid employment for short money; power to meet demands for money without disorganizing Stock Exchange prices; power to check overtrading at home, and, finally, power to check a foreign drain of gold.

"Having with great deference thrown out these suggestions I leave them with you for consideration, and I should like to say that you have in the United States not only a body of men including Paul Warburg, who are experts on this question, but you have in the splendid reports issued by your National Monetary Commission a storehouse of information on the subject of the European discount markets which will give you all the guidance you may need if you decide to take steps in the direction I have ventured to indicate.

"So far as the effect upon other countries is concerned, of the creation of an American international discount market, of course, the result may be that some business will be diverted from the other international markets. But this will be more than counteracted by the additional stability which will be given to the money markets of the world by the existence in America of a strong and flexible discount market.

At the Speakers' Table.

At the speakers' table were George F. Baker, Gen. Thomas H. Barry, Col. Fred E. Farnsworth, Secretary of the American Bankers' Association; Capt. Albert Gleaves, Charles A. Hanna, Examiner for the Clearing House; A. Barton Hepburn, Chairman of the Chase National Bank; Francis L. Hine, President of the First National Bank; William A. Nash, Chairman of the Corn Exchange Bank; Arthur Reynolds, President of the American Bankers' Association; Jacob H. Schiff, William Sherer, Manager of the Clearing House; the Rev. Ernest M. Stires, Robert H. Treman, George C. Van Tuyl, Jr., State Superintendent of Banks; Paul M. Warburg, and Albert H. Woggin, President of the Chase National Bank.

Among those at the other tables were Milton E. Ailes, William O. Allison, S. G. Bayne, James M. Beck, James G. Cannon, Lewis L. Clarke, W. E. Corey, T. De Witt Cuyler, William A. Day, James A. Farrell, David R. Forgan, Walter E. Frew, J. E. Gardin, Joseph W. Harriman, Job E. Hedges, Alexander J. Hemphill, Frank V. Baldwin, James J. Hill, Fred I. Kent, H. M. Kilborn, N. C. Kingsbury, Julius Kruttschnitt, T. W. Lamont, Walther Luttgen.

FIND THIRD TYPHUS CASE.

Passenger from the Franz Josef Put in Quarantine Here.

Another transatlantic liner, the third within two weeks, arrived at Quarantine yesterday with a case of typus fever among her passengers. The ship was the Kaiser Franz Josef of the Austro-American Line, a sister ship of the Belvidere, on which typus fever was discovered last Saturday. Both ships touched at a Greek port on the voyage to this country, and it was there it was thought that the germs of the disease came on board.

The person who was ill on the Kaiser Franz Josef was removed to Swinburne Island for treatment, and 149 other passengers, all of them in the steerage, who had been exposed to the infection were taken to Hoffman Island for observation. The patient sent to Swinburne Island was a former Montenegrin soldier.

"The source of the typhus fever," said Dr. O'Connell, the Health Officer of the Port, yesterday, "seems to be the Greek port of Patras.

"It is significant that the case brought by the Roma and the one landed at Providence by the Germania both came from the same neighborhood."

NAMES SHERMAN AS FUND COLLECTOR

Contractor Swears Late Vice President's Brother Accompanied Request with a Threat.

SAYS THAT TROUBLE CAME

Mutilated Check Figures in Graft Inquiry—C. F. Murphy, Jr., Makes Promise by Telegraph.

Further testimony showing how successful contractors on State roads were preyed upon by politicians was given yesterday in District Attorney Whitman's John Doe graft investigation. Ten witnesses were examined by Assistant District Attorney Clark. Much of their testmony will be sent to the District Attorneys of the counties most concerned. The new evidence involves well-known politicians.

Charles F. Murphy, Jr., nephew of the Tammany leader, figured in the testimony as a man of influence in the State Highway Department as late as August, 1913.

There was a stir in the courtroom when Richard W. Sherman of Utica, brother of the late Vice President of the United States and ex-Mayor of Utica, was named as a collector for the Democratic Party in 1911. Another incident of the day's proceedings which caused much comment was the introduction as evidence of the mutilated check of a corporation. The check is in District Attorney Whitman's possession. A signature of indorsement, it is evident, was erased clumsily by the use of acids. The check was for a campaign contribution solicited, according to the evidence, by Everett Fowler, the bagman who roamed the State in the interests of the Democratic State Committee in 1911 and 1912.

Ex-Gov. Sulzer was under subpoena to appear yesterday, but legislative business interfered with his plans. He sent word, however, that he might be able to appear on Wednesday and the inquiry will be resumed at 2:30 o'clock to-morrow to suit Sulzer's convenience. It is expected that Sulzer will spend the afternoon on the witness stand. The questions will relate to Sulzer's relations with Charles F. Murphy, James E. Gaffney, James C. Stewart, the contractor; members of the Canal Board, and with George H. McGuire and James K. McGuire.

Murphy, Jr., Makes a Promise.

Daniel L. Mott, a young contractor of Utica, told about the activities of C. F. Murphy, Jr.

It was on Aug. 19, 1913, that Mott received notice from the Highway Department that he was the lowest bidder on a $100,000 road contract in Oneida County. He was questioned by Mr. Clark.

Q.—To whom did you give your bonding business for this contract? A.—I gave it to Mr. Kernan in Utica.

Q.—Did any one else solicit this business? A.—Yes, a number of persons. The most persistent, however, were Charles F. Murphy, Jr., and McGuire & Co. They sent me a number of letters and telegrams. I remember one of the telegrams in particular. It was from Charles F. Murphy, Jr. He said: "If you just say the word we'll see that your contract is signed to-day."

Q.—And you didn't give it to Murphy? A.—No, I didn't.

Q.—And was your contract signed shortly? A.—No, Sir; I had to wait three weeks.

After work on this contract was completed, Mott testified, he had to wait eight months to get his final payment of $10,000. He received no interest on this $10,000.

"Wasn't that delay directly connected in your mind with your refusal to pay?" asked Mr. Clark.

"I thought it was," replied the witness.

James W. Johnston of Utica told of the experience with Richard W. Sherman. Johnston is a Republican and the brother of the late Vice President is a Democrat.

"I got a $27,000 contract for a road in Herkimer," said Johnston. "I completed the road in June, 1911, and shortly before the election Sherman asked me for a contribution for the Democratic Party. He said: 'If you don't make any contribution you won't get any accommodations in Albany.' I told him it was against my principles to contribute to the Democratic Party and I told him that I positively would not contribute anything. And I didn't."

"Did you have any trouble after that?" asked Mr. Clark.

"I did," replied the witness, and he produced a score of letters tending to bear out his assertion. It was a long time, he said, before he got the final payment on his contract.

Says Acid Was Used on Check.

Joseph F. Ribstein, a contractor of Rochester, and Harry W. Rosenblum, an examiner of State transfers in the Tax Department, were called with reference to the mutilated corporation check which had come into District Attorney Whitman's possession. Their testimony was in elaboration of the testimony given on Dec. 19 by Julius Friederich of Rochester. Friederich and Ribstein formerly were members of Julius Friederich & Co., Inc., road contractors, who obtained contracts amounting to $300,000 in 1911 and 1912. Friederich and Ribstein are not on good terms. Friederich had testified that Fowler collected $250 in 1911, and that in 1912 he demanded $500. The $250 contribution was divided between Ribstein and himself, Friederich testified, whereas the $500 was taken to Fowler by a man of the name of Rosenblum. Friederich testified that he had made out his corporation's check "to cash" for $500, that Rosenblum had cashed this check, and that Rosenblum, so far as he knew, had then taken the cash to Fowler.

Quite a different story was told yesterday. Ribstein said that he had never consented to any payment to Fowler and said that the corporation never had made a $500 contribution. The $500 had been given by Friederich alone he said.

Mr. Clark then produced the canceled $500 check. It was drawn on the National Bank of Commerce of Rochester. It was made out to "Cash" and bore the signature of Julius Friederich & Co., Incorporated, and also the name of Julius Friederich as President of the corporation. On the back near the top could be seen the vague outlines of a name. The initials "H" and "R" were quite distinct, and then followed in fainter outline a name beginning with "Ro."

"An attempt to erase an indorsement on this check by acid has been made," said Mr. Clark, passing the check to Chief Magistrate McAdoo. "It is a crime, of course, to alter the records of a corporation." Mr. Clark questioned the witness.

Q.—When did you first see this check? A.—About ten days ago; that is, immediately after Mr. Friederich testified here. Miss Gertrude Robbins, my niece and bookkeeper, produced the check from the files and showed it to me.

Q.—Was the acid erasure on the check when you first saw it? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—You know that constitutes an alteration in the corporation's record, don't you? A.—Yes, I know that, but I don't know anything about it.

Harry W. Rosenblum then was called and identified the mutilated check as one which Friederich had handed to him which he himself had indorsed and cashed at the National Commercial Bank in Rochester. This was his story:

"In October, 1912, Friederich met me on the street and we went into a cigar store and Friederich said: 'I'm in a fix. I need $500.' I said I'd have some money in a few days and that I would give him my personal check and date it ahead a few days. He said he wanted the money for Fowler. I went to the Powers Hotel, where Fowler was staying. I knew him by sight. I told Fowler that Friederich had sent me to give him $500 and he told me to make out the check to Arthur A. McLean. I did. Three days later Mr. Friederich gave me a check for $500 made out to cash and signed by him."

Rosenblum's personal check to McLean was also put in evidence.

"It seems as if these people tried to evade the corporation law," said the Chief Magistrate, "but one of the members of the corporation denies knowledge of the alteration."

Other witnesses called at yesterday's hearing were Humphrey Courtney, a contractor of Atlanta, N. Y.; L. V. Rosencranz, Inspector of Highways, Weyland, N. Y.; John Gill, contractor of Weyland; Chester J. Myers Utica; William Beiermeister, Albany, and L. B. McCabe of Spencerport N. Y.

Contractors Courtney and Gill are members of the Atlanta Construction Company, Incorporated. Courtney is a Democratic County Committeeman in Steuben County. Their firm did road work amounting to $200,000 in 1912. Courtney said that he made a $300 political contribution in 1912 to James C. McGreevey, a State employe in the Tax Department. McGreevey was collecting for the Steuben County Committee, Courtney said.

Chester J. Myers is the first assistant engineer of the Utica Division of the Highway Department and is a Progressive. He received letters from Boss Kelley of Syracuse. His pay is $7 a day.

"I understood," said Myers, "that Kelley had a list in his office, and that the first assistant engineers were down on the list for $100 to $125 each. I gave $100. I understood that even the laborers on the roads were paying."

"How much did you give to the Progressives—your own party?"

"Only $5."

"So the $5 represented your convictions and the $100 your fears—was that it?" asked Mr. Clark.

"That's nearly right," replied the witness.

L. B. McCabe of the Hendrickson & McCabe Construction Company of Spencerport, N. Y., said that Fowler had asked him for $1,000 in 1912, but that they had compromised on $100. His check, he said, was made out to Arthur A. McLean and was signed by the corporation and by himself and C. K. Hendrickson his business associate. The contribution was solicited by Fowler, McCabe said, in the Powers Hotel in Utica.

SHERMAN HAS STATE OFFICE.

Twice Mayor of Utica, He Now Is Conservation Commission Engineer.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, Jan. 19.—Richard W. Sherman has twice been Mayor of Utica and is now the engineer of the State Conservation Commission at a salary of $7,000 a year. He was appointed by Gov. Dix. Mr. Sherman formerly was President of the Troy Contracting Company, with headquarters in this city. At one time his company had a contract for work in New York.

He has been an active Democrat.

James W. Johnson, the contractor, has been engaged in work in this city for several years. He is a Republican, but not active in politics.

GLYNN WANTS RESULTS NOW.

Has Been Patient, but Says That Osborne Now Must Show Results.

Gov. Martin H. Glynn, who came to the city to confer with several well-known men regarding a plan to establish a rural credit system through a "farmers' bank" in co-operation with societies in every county in the State, talked yesterday about his graft investigation. The Governor said that ultimately he expected to get results. John H. Delaney, he asserts, had not been asked to take part in the high way investigation. James W. Osborne, he said, would be replaced if his work was not satisfactory.

"I don't think any one appreciates the difficulty there is in getting just the counsel you want to take a job like the present investigation," said Gov. Glynn. "When I took office I began to look for cousel. First I asked two attorneys whom I knew personally to take up the work, but both declined. Of those recommended to me, Mr. Osborne seemed on the whole the best man available. After having delayed in an effort to persuade those I had selected originally to take up the work, I finally sent for him and told him what I wanted.

"He told me that he thought he was peculiarly fitted for the work, in view of his recent experiences, and after some discussion we closed. But at the outset he told me that he was engaged in certain litigation and must finish it. The time he fixed has been considerably exceeded, despite the fact that I have personally helped in settling one case out of court. But he tells me now that this week will see his law business closed out and that he then will come to Albany and devote his whole time to the investigation, and he believes he can produce results in three weeks.

"If I had displaced Mr. Osborne after he had got started I would have been criticised and accused of having called him off just as he was beginning to get somewhere. I trust Osborne. I believe he is going to make good, but I recognize, and he does quite as well, that the delays have embarrassed me seriously, and that there must be results. Mr. Osborne is coming to Albany next Monday. He says that in three weeks he will show real results. I believe him, and he will have the chance, and I shall do all I can to help him, but if at the end of that time he does not get results I shall have to go another man, and I will."

"As to Delaney, there never was any intention on my part to have him share in the highway investigation. The two cases that he handled last week came to him in the routine of his office. I didn't know about them until he got into them. Then, of course, I approved of his action. But Mr. Delaney goes to Buffalo this week to begin the investigation of State institutions, which is a part of the routine of his office, and his connection with the highway cases is ended.

"I hope that the action on Saturday will demonstrate that there is no intention on my part to shield any one. I realize that the delay has provoked criticism, of which I do not complain. If we get results in the end it may prove a good thing. But so far as I can see I am doing the best I can. I recognize that this is the biggest thing in public life, and I don't mean to fall down on it. For the moment and under the circumstances I can only hope that the public will be patient for just a little longer."

NEW GRAFT HUNTS.

Four Resolutions Demanding Them Introduced at Albany.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Four resolutions looking to new investigations of graft and inefficiency in the State departments were presented to the Republican Assembly when it reconvened tonight.

They were introduced by Harold J. Hinman, majority leader; Michael Schaap, Progressive leader; Andrew P. Murphy, a Progressive from the Nineteenth New York District and William Sulzer.

The Hinman resolution, which is the one most likely to pass, calls for the appointment of a joint committee of three Senators and five Assemblymen, with an appropriation of $25,000 and all the usual powers of a legislative committee to investigate the administration of the State Highway Department and report to the present Legislature with recommendations for remedial legislation.

As the resolution in a preamble "points with pride" to the administration of the department under the first bi-partisan highway commission appointed by Gov. Hughes, it lends color to rumors which have been in circulation at the Capitol for some days, to the effect that the Republican Assembly and the Democratic Senate might agree on a measure providing for a bi-partisan highway commission.

Such a law would legislate John N. Carlisle, the present Commissioner, out of office. He never has been popular with Tammany, and it is needless to say the Republicans would favor any amendment to the present law which would give them some of the rich patronage of this department. On the other hand, a bi-partisan commission would divide responsibility, so that the work of the Highway Department would not always be the target for the party out of power.

Mr. Schaap's resolution provides for an investigation of not only the highway, but other State departments by a committee of seven Assemblymen. It calls for the co-operation of John A. Hennessey as chief investigator of any committee that is appointed.

The Sulzer resolution, which has already been published in THE TIMES, calls for a State-wide graft hunt by an Assembly committee of seven members.

Times Association Dinner on Sunday

The annual dinner and the election of officers for 1914 of THE NEW YORK TIMES Association will take place next Sunday at the Hotel Knickerbocker in the banquet hall at 6:30 o'clock. Members of the alumni who desire to attend the dinner are requested to notify the secretary, Thomas Bracken, at THE TIMES office as soon as possible in order that seats may be reserved for them. President M. B. Abrahams will be toastmaster.

COMMITTEE PLUMS GO TO BARNES MEN

Republican Organization Fares Well in Assembly at Hands of Speaker Sweet.

HOFF OF KINGS REWARDED

Rival in Speakership Fight Heads Cities Committee—Hinman on Rules—Sulzer Remembered.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Although Thaddeus C. Sweet was elected Speaker of the Assembly as an anti-organization man, the Republican organization was shown to have been well taken care of in assignments to the working committees when they were announced tonight. The Chairmanship of the following committees of the first importance have gone to men who are looked upon as Barnes Republicans in good standing: Ways and Means, Judiciary, General Laws, Railroads, Banks, Agriculture, Excise, Canals, Villages, Labor and Industries, Conservation and Social Welfare. These important Chairmanships were alloted to anti-Barnes men: Codes, Cities, Electricity, Gas and Water Supply; Insurance, Internal Affairs, and Taxation.

William Sulzer was appointed a member of two committees, Ways and Means and Social Welfare. Both are regarded as good designations.

In the allotment of committee places the Republican members representing New York County suffered more than those representing any other section of the State. Although three of the men from New York—Francis J. Stoddard, Jr., Dean Nelson, and S. Clinton Crane—all had previous legislative experience and made good records in the Republican Assembly last year, they will head inconspicuous committees. Stoddard will have the Chairmanship of the Commitee on Charitable and Religious Institutions. Crane is made Chairman of the Committee on Public Institutions. Nelson got the Committee on Soldiers' Homes.

The important post at the head of the Cities Committee went to Ameth W. Hoff of Kings, one of Mr. Sweet's rivals for the Speakership. Brooklyn will have three votes on that committee, as against two for Manhattan. The other boroughs of New York City are not represented at all. Buffalo got three places. In explanation of this apparently inequitable allotment, it was said that Buffalo's representation, out of all proportion to what it had been in former years, was due to the fact that an effort was to be made to enact a new charter for that city at the present session.

Clinton T. Horton of Erie, who was the first choice of the anti-Barnes Republicans for the Speakership, becomes Chairman of the important Committee on Insurance. The Rules Committee, which will have charge of all important legislation during the closing weeks of the session, will be safely controlled by organization men.

Here is the make-up of the important committees of the Assembly, the man named first in each case being the Chairman:

DRINKING PLACES FEWER.

Decrease in Manhattan and Brooklyn Last Year 109.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—There are now 918 less drinking places in the State than in 1896, when the present excise law was passed. The total number now is 23,472. In Manhattan and Brooklyn the total decrease last year was 109.

At this rate of decrease William W. Farley, State Commissioner of Excise, estimates that the limit of one drinking place to each 500 of population will be reached in six or eight years. When the law became effective there was one license to each 373.6 of population, and now the ratio is one to 382.2.

Revenues from all sources in the Excise Department last year were $18,142,557.

BRADY STAGE CREWS STRIKE

Ushers and Office Men Set Scenes at Playhouse and 48th St. Theatre.

All the electricians, scene shifters, and stage carpenters in William A. Brady's two New York theatres, the Playhouse and the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, walked out on strike at 7:45 o'clock last night and the scenes in both houses were set by the ushers and office men regularly employed in front of the curtain line.

"The Things That Count" is the attraction at the Playhouse and "To-day" is at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre. Both plays were from twenty to thirty minutes late in starting and each lost about fifteen minutes during its progress.

The question at issue which caused the walkout was the old one of the employment of a "road" crew in addition to the regular force of stage hands when a play moves from one theatre to another, even if both theatres be in the same city. The novelty of last night's strike, however, according to Leander Richardson, Mr. Bardy's representative at the Playhouse, was that the stage hands demanded that both the "road" and "home" crews be allowed to work, whereas in the past their demand has been only that both be paid.

Mr. Brady accepted the demands of the International Theatrical Mechanics' Alliance to the extent of promising to pay the two crews when "The Things That Count" moved from Maxine Elliott's Theatre to the Playhouse, but because he thought two forces of men would get in each other's way he had told the "road" crew to stay away from the theatre. Last Friday Mr. Brady learned that members of the "road" crew, who had been paid regularly from their first employment, were working behind the scenes in the Playhouse, and he ordered them out of the theatre, telling them again that he would pay them each week, but did not want them to work.

The regular crew at the Playhouse walked out last night as a result of Friday night's affair, said Mr. Richardson. The men went over to the Forty-eighth Street Theatre and called out the stage hands there also.

INQUIRY ON SPEER'S SANITY.

Lawyer Tells Committee Accused Judge's Mind Is Impaired.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 19.—Testimony as to the mental condition of Federal Judge Emory Speer of the Southern Georgia District was heard late to-day before the Congressional sub-committee here, in investigating charges against the Judge's official conduct, John R. L. Smith, a leading member of the Macon Bar, swore he believed Judge Speer's mental faculties were "bad, impaired, variant."

Mr. Smith said conditions in Judge Speer's court was unsatisfactory, and that the court did not have the confidence of the people "because Judge Speer's court were unsatisfactory, and ing, dictatorial, and characterized in a measure by favoritism."

Charges on which the inquiry is based allege that Judge Speer violated the judicial code by having his son-in-law employed in his court, violated the law in drawing juries, violated a mandate of the Supreme Court, decided cases unjustly in favor of his son-in-law, used court officials as private servants, granted orders appointing receivers for property without cause, caused money to be taken from court funds for private use, unlawfully ordered the sale of property, impaired his mental faculties by using drugs, and was guilty of general unlawful and oppressive conduct.

DINSMORE HOUSE SOLD.

Mrs. R. P. Huntington Acquires Madison Sq. Building in Exchange.

Mrs. Robert P. Huntington, mother of Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, the fiancee of W. Vincent Astor, sold her old family residential plot on the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Thirty-first Street yesterday and purchased for investment the new twenty-one-story commercial building at 11 and 13 East Twenty-sixth Street, overlooking Madison Square. Associated in the transaction with Mrs. Huntington was her sister, Miss Madeline I. Dinsmore.

The Fifth Avenue corner was formerly the home of William B. Dinsmore, the father of Mrs. Huntington. The house was altered several years ago into a business house for Duveen Brothers, who recently moved to Fifth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street. With the Thirty-first Street plot was also sold a twenty-five-foot plot in the rear fronting on Thirty-first Street, formerly used as a stable.

Mrs. Huntington and her sister gave these Fifth Avenue and Thirty-first Street parcels in part payment for the Twenty-sixth Street business structure which was completed a little more than a year ago. The two properties are valued at about $2,250,000. Tucker, Speyers & Co. were the brokers who negotiated the transaction.

HELD UP IN HIS OWN STORE.

One Robber Cuts Mauer's Tie to Get His Pin—Blackjack for Clerk.

Three young men were pretending to examine oil cloths in the carpet and oilcloth store of Jacob Mauer at 2,985 Third Avenue at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when two of them drew revolvers and ordered the proprietor and two clerks, Louis Tenner and William Ewen, to hold up their hands.

One of the robbers took a diamond ring worth $350, a gold watch, $150 in bills, and some checks from Mauer. When Mauer's scarf pin, worth $250, could not be removed from the tie, one of the robbers first fumbled with the clasp, and then, taking a pair of scissors, cut off the tie. The telephone bell rang while the robbery was in progress. At the sound, Ewen, who was facing the wall, looked around. One of the robbers at once struck him with a blackjack, the blow lacerating his lip, and loosening two teeth.

Two men were later caught and charged with the robbery.

SAVED FROM SALOON BLAZE.

Building Owned by Percy Nagle's Brother Burns in Harlem.

When Patrolman Wehrenberg, of Traffic E squad, on duty at the intersection of 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, saw smoke coming from the entrance of a saloon at 65 West 125th Street late yesterday afternoon, he ran to the place and found persons hastening from the building. Wehrenberg learned that the cashier of the saloon, John Lockwood, 70 years old, was in the burning building, and the patrolman ran into the saloon to search for the aged man. Wehrenberg found Lockwood unconscious from smoke and brought him out to the street.

The firemen ran a ladder up to the second floor of the building, where they found John Smith, 38 years, asleep. He was brought to the street.

The fire started in a waste paper basket in a rear washroom in the saloon. The proprietor of the saloon is a brother of Percy Nagle, who was Tammany leader of the Thirtieth Assembly District.

FOX MAY CONTEST HIS FATHER'S WILL

Son of "Tammany Harmonizer" Said to Object to Bequest to Mrs. O'Brien.

ESTATE WORTH $2,000,000

Young Fox, It Is Asserted, Expected His Daughter Would Be the Principal Heir.

The will of John Fox, known as the "harmonizer of Tammany Hall," was read yesterday at his home, 10 East Fiftieth Street. According to counsel, the testator's son, John Fox, Jr., knew nothing of the contents of the will until it was read, and no decision was attained as to a contest.

According to the will, John Fox, Jr., is to enjoy the income from one-third of the residuary estate, exclusive of the Fox country estate known as "Foxhurst," at Baldwin, L. I.

The country estate of Foxhurst was left to the granddaughter, Miss Eleanor B. Fox, and to Mrs. Katherine O'Brien. It is valued at $500,000. After several minor bequests, the residue was left in trust to be divided into three equal parts. The income of one part is left to Eleanor B. Fox for life, the income of another part to Mrs. Katherine O'Brien for life, and the income of the third part to John Fox, Jr., for life.

Other bequests were: Cardinal Farley, $2,000; Mgr. M. J. Lavelle, $1,000; the Rev. Father Peter Quey, Rockville Centre, L. I., $500; Roman Catholic Foundling Asylum of New York, $2,000; Mrs. Katharine Hogan, $2,000; Nellie F. Hogan, $1,000; Edward A. Noonan, $1,000, and William G. Shafer, $1,000. The will was executed on Nov. 14, 1913, and the witnesses were Supreme Court Justice Platzek, ex-Tax Commissioner Thomas F. Feitner, and J. Lewis Lyon. After the will had been read Mr. Fox said:

"I knew nothing of the contents of my father's will until to-day. I am in favor of conserving the estate in every way, but I am greatly surprised at the small bequests to the Catholic Church, of which my father was a devout member and to which he gave liberally during his lifetime."

It was said that Mr. Fox was not pleased with the large bequest which had gone to Mrs. O'Brien, as he and his wife have not been on good terms with the O'Briens.

It was asserted, also, that Mr. Fox had expected that his daughter, Miss Eleanore B. Fox, who had been adopted by Mr. Fox, Sr., would receive all, or at least most, of the estate. Miss Fox was sent some time ago to a convent at Notre Dame, Ind., away from her grandfather. When Mr. Fox, Sr., became seriously ill he called his granddaughter to him, and she returned to this city just before Christmas.

There is much difference of opinion as to the value of the estate. Its value, including the country home "Foxhurst," was estimated at from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 yesterday.

Mr. Fox and his father had differed at intervals, but they became reconciled, and since last September they had lived together. The younger man's mother, who died in 1901, disinherited him, and he attempted to contest her will. After several hearings before Surrogate Thomas he withdrew the contest.

ZIONISTS ANSWER NATHAN.

American Federation Committee Issues a Statement.

The Executive Committee of the Federation of American Zionists held a meeting last night at the Jewish Institute in Second Avenue to discuss the charges in a pamphlet by Dr. Paul Nathan, parts of which were cabled to THE TIMES from Berlin, attacking what he describes as "overwrought Jewish nationalist chauvinism" in Palestine and charging that Zionists there were carying on a campaign of terrorism.

The trouble, according to a statement drafted at the meeting of the Federation Committee last night, is that the German directors of the Haifa Technical Institute, which is the centre of the controversy, ruled arbitrarily that German and not Hebrew should be the predominant language. To the fund of the Haifa Technical Institute, the statement said, the late K. Wizzotsky, a Russian Jewish Zionist, gave 430,000 marks, Jacob H. Schiff 420,000 marks, the Jewish National Fund (Zionist) 133,000 marks and German Jews only 133,000 marks.

Out of forty-four scholarships, it was said, thirty-two were provided by American Jewish organizations, and only twelve by German Jews. The protest which is going on in Palestine, the statement says, is against making the institute an adjunct to German cultural influences in Palestine.

TROOPS TO DIG OUT TRAINS.

Continued Cold in France Becoming a National Calamity.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—The continued cold throughout France, with heavy snowfalls, is becoming a national calamity.

Fernand David, Minister of Public Works, was occupied to-day in consultations with railway engineers relative to measures which the Government could undertake for the restoration of railway communication in Southern France.

The first train in three days between France and Spain got through to Cerbère to-day, but more than twenty other provincial lines are without any train service.

The Minister of War has ordered the commanders of the garrisons to utilize the troops in digging out snowbound trains.

A temperature of 4 below zero (Fahrenheit) has been registered in the Department of Haute-Loire, and 6 below zero in the Auvergne region. Meteorologists find that the rigors of this Winter equal those of the historical seasons of 1888 and 1870. Foxes, deer and other wild animals are being hunted down in the forests.

BLACKMAILERS AT 16.

American Boy and Two Others Sentenced—Won't Have to Go to Jail.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Tuesday, Jan. 20.—A boy of 16, named Edward Edwards, who is said by Le Figaro to be the son of a wealthy American banker living with his family in the Avenue de Villiers and by Le Matin to be the son of a well-known New York merchant, who came to France with his wife and three children so that the children might learn French, appeared in the Eighth Correctional Court yesterday with two other boys of the same age, named Fournier and Vaillot. They were charged with demanding, with threats, the sum of $6,000 from Mme. Del Val, who lives in the Avenue Kléber.

The evidence showed that the boys, influenced by sensational literature and moving-picture films, decided to emulate the exploits they had read about and seen. They wrote to Mme. Del Val, threatening to kill her little son unless she met them under the Arc de Triomphe with the $6,000. The document was signed "A Member of the Black Hand."

M. Del Val put the matter in the hands of the police, with the result that on keeping the appointment the youthful desperadoes were arrested. When asked in court what they purposed to do with the money they said that they never expected to obtain it. Edwards explained that they entered into the affair as a joke, the idea being to strike terror into some one. The court, however, took a serious view of the offense, and sentenced Edwards to a year's imprisonment, and the other boys to six months in jail. The lads, however, benefit by the Béranger law, and as long as they remain on their good behavior the sentences will not be enforced.

DIVORCE SUIT ANGERS QUEEN

Lord Fitzwilliam Denies the Charges Made Against Him.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Leslie Melville divorce suit, in which Earl Fitzwilliam is one of the co-respondents, was mentioned in the Divorce Court to-day, the Earl's counsel making application that the case be expedited and that the Earl, who denies the charges, should have an early opportunity of dealing with the allegations made against him. The President of the court refused the application.

In legal circles it is stated that Lord Fitzwilliam's application was a result of Queen Mary's interference. The Queen, it is said, is greatly perturbed over the scandal, as the Earl has been a great favorite at Court. Only a few months ago he entertained the King and Queen at his country seat.

Upon the publication of details of the pending divorce suit, it is understood, word of the Queen's displeasure was conveyed to the Earl, to whom it was indicated that a public denial of the allegations was immediately necessary; hence to-day's application, which was for the purpose of allowing counsel to state openly in court that Lord Fitzwilliam wholly denied the charge made against him by the petitioner.

JESSE COLLINGS TO RETIRE.

Aged Author of "Three Acres and Cow" Act to Quit Parliament.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Right Hon. Jesse Collings, who from the laborer's cottage of his father in Devonshire rose to be a member of the Privy Council, has decided to follow into retirement his leader, Joseph Chamberlain, who a few days ago announced that he was about to give up political life. Mr. Collings said to-day that he would not at the next election renew his candidacy for the Bordesley Division of Birmingham, which he has represented in Parliament since 1886.

Mr. Collings's political career has been principally occupied with the welfare of the agricultural laborer. His act for the provision of small allotments of land for farm workers, passed through Parliament after repeated defeats, has been a great benefit to the rural classes. His policy in getting this enactment was popularly nicknamed "Three acres and a cow."

7th Regiment Men Get Medals.

Gov. Glynn reviewed the Seventh Regiment last evening and bestowed the State decoration for long and faithful service on thirty-six officers and members of the regiment. Those who received the twenty-five-year medals were Corporal Grant McPherson, band; Major Francis G. Landon, field; Capt. Lyman O. Fisk, Company A, and Private S. M. Hook, Company A.

SEA SAFETY AGREEMENT.

Convention to be Signed To-day—Dec. 14 Time Limit for Ratification.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The delegates to the International Conference on the Safety of Ships at Sea will hold their final meeting to-morrow for the purpose of putting their formal signatures to the recommendations of the conference.

At to-day's meetings the delegates adopted amid cheers the reports and recommendations from four committees which dealt with separate branches of the work of the conference.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—December 14, 1914, is the time limit set for the acceptance by the various countries concerned in the convention drawn up and unanimously adopted by the Revision Committee of the International Conference on Safety at Sea, which practically concluded its labors at the Foreign Office to-night. If the treaty is approved it will go into effect on July 1, 1915.

The convention is to be signed by all the commissioners to the conference at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, after which it will be sent for approval to the legislative bodies of the various countries concerned.

Among the proposals accepted by the conference was Rear Admiral Washington L. Capps's system of making ships, so far as practicable, unsinkable. The United States naval officer's plan, which received great praise, divides a ship into side and crosswise compartments, each of them being water tight.

The question of wireless telegraphy equipment was settled by exempting ships carrying fewer than fifty passengers and also vessels plying within 100 miles of the shore from carrying wireless apparatus.

A special miniature life saving apparatus for children was approved.

The closing session of the conference to-morrow will be addressed by Lord Mersey, President of the conference; Sydney C. Buxton, President of the Board of Trade; United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, Prof. A. B. Alexander of Washington, D. C., and M. Gegnier of France.

On the motion of Prof. Alexander it was agreed that the proceedings of the conference be given in full to the newspapers as soon as the treaty is signed to-morrow afternoon.

REAL BOA IN HOTEL ROOM.

Thieves Planned to Let It Loose and Rob Guests During Excitement.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

MUNICH, Jan. 19.—Two men who are understood to be well-known international thieves were arrested at one of the leading hotels here to-day just in time to prevent the execution of what is believed to be an extraordinary scheme to pillage the rooms of wealthy guests. One English family staying at the hotel is reported to have something like $100,000 worth of jewelry.

The suspicious movements of the two men, one a Russian and the other a Norwegian, who engaged rooms at the hotel, attracted the attention of the staff, and the police, on being called, began to search the rooms occupied by the suspects. They came upon an enormous boa constrictor in the bathroom of the suite occupied by the Russian.

Apparently the men intended to allow the boa to escape into the hotel corridor and profit by the confusion which naturally would follow to ransack the rooms of the wealthy visitors. The boa was secured with great difficulty. It has a cell to itself in prison, adjoining the cells occupied by its two owners.

TO DESTROY SUBMARINES.

Great Britain to Make No More Use of Vessels of "A" Class.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 20.—There is a widespread protest in the press against the continued use of submarines of the "A" class, following the loss of the A7, on the ground that they are obsolete and nothing more than "coffin ships."

The father of Lieut. Morrison, one of the officers lost in the A7, says in a letter to a newspaper that these boats are little more than death-traps, and are unprovided with safety appliances of the latter class. His son, he adds, told him recently that the A7 sank to the bottom when off Plymouth, and it took an hour of hard work to get her to the surface again.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—It is stated that the Admiralty has issued an order forbidding any further trips by the "A" class ubmarines, and it is believed that the remaining boats of this class will be consigned to the scrap heap.

PLYMOUTH, Jan. 19.—"The submarine 'A-7' must be found" was the order issued to-day at the office of the naval commander-in-chief, who is determined that the search for the ill-fated vessel, which has been missing since last Friday, when she disappeared with her crew during manoeuvres here, shall notbe given up.

The impression is growing that the "A-7" has been swallowed up by the quicksands

ABBE LEMIRE RESIGNS.

Gives Up Deputy Speakership of French Chamber—Remains Member

PARIS, Jan. 19.—The Abbé Jules Lemire, the only priest who is a member of the Chamber of Deputies, to-day resigned the Deputy Speakership of the Chamber, to which post he was elected on January 13.

A letter from the Abbé was read to the Chamber by the Speaker, Paul Deschanel, in which he said his resignation must not be considered as an act of submission to the Bishop of Lisle, who had suspended him from his functions as priest and ordered him to sever his connection with a local newspaper in his constituency of Hazebrouck.

The Abbé said he considered his election to the Deputy Speakership of the Chamber a cordial manifestation of good will toward him on the part of his colleagues. He thanked the Chamber for this, but considered himself an object for neither pity nor for blame as a subject of ecclesiastical discipline, and he did not wish this to have any effect whatever upon the Chamber, of which he would continue to be a member.

WINSTON CHURCHILL IS FACING A CRISIS

Majority of Cabinet Said to be with Lloyd George in Quarrel Over Naval Estimates.

CHANCELLOR'S NEW VIEW

He Was in Agreement with the Admiralty Until Recently — Others Will Quit if Churchill Does.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 20.—The Cabinet split on the country's naval policy, which was clearly indicated by Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George's remarkable condemnation of the "organized insanity" of European armaments, has brought First Lord of the Admiralty Churchill to a crisis in his political life, and the outcome of his battle with the Chancellor is awaited with keen interest.

Mr. Churchill recently had a private interview with the Premier and the Chancellor without arriving at any satisfactory solution, but, on the contrary, increasing the gravity of the situation. There have been many rumors recently that the First Lord rather than surrender to the naval economists will either resign and attempt to form a party of his own among the big navyites or once again cross the floor of the House and join his old party.

The Daily Telegraph this morning claims to be in a position to give, on high authority, the first definite information regarding the crisis. The whole subject of the country's naval policy, it says, will be discussed at a Cabinet meeting next Thursday, when a full attendance of Ministers is expected. At present a majority of the Ministers are in agreement with the Chancellor in opposing the navy estimates put forward by Mr. Churchill on behalf of the Admiralty.

The personal relations between the Chancellor and the First Lord of the Admiralty are now, says the paper, of an extremely strained character, and the resignation of one or the other of them is regarded as a possible development of the next few days. It is understood that the issue, however, will not be regarded as a purely personal one, though the personal element is a factor, since if Mr. Churchill is defeated in the Cabinet the whole Board of the Admiralty will resign. Both the naval and the civil members have, it is stated, expressed their intention to retire if the Cabinet refuses the supplies which have been asked for, and which they regard as the bare minimum necessary for the due maintenance of the fleet during the coming financial year.

The Daily Telegraph maintains that Mr. Churchill is putting forward no new proposals, but merely carrying out the policy which the Cabinet has already adopted, which it announced tothe House of Commons on March 18, 1912, and which was approved by Parliament.

In place of the two-power standard, which was the formula for a long series of years, the Admiralty, owing to the changed internationals conditions, decided thta it was necessary to develop a 60 per cent. superiority in dreadnoughts over the next greatest naval power, which at present is Germany. In pursuance of this policy the First Lord prepared a shipbuilding programme which give this country 50 dreadnoughts in 1920 to the 35 completed ships which Germany will possess. This is equivalent to a 60 per cent. superiority.

Down to a recent period there seems to have been no feeling in the Cabinet in opposition to this policy. In fact, Mr. Lloyd George himself, as recently as last August, declared in Parliament that while he was genuinely alarmed at the expenditure on armaments, he saw not the slightest prospect of a reduction. Until there was a perfect understanding between the nations it would be much too perilous a thing to do, he said.

It was evidently only after a deputation of advanced Radical members of Parliament had waited on hte Premier, says The Daily Telegraph, that the Chancellor decided to fight the Board of the Admiralty at any cost and to abandon a policy which he had approved. Since he returned to London there is reason to believe he communicated with a number of members of the Cabinet, and gained so much support that he feels justified in taking up a position of direct hostility to the policy of the Admiralty.

FRANK LAWTON STRANDED.

Whistling Comedian Hard Hit by Collapse of a Show in London.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—One of the victims of the recent collapse of the plans for a big Indian spectacle at Earl's Court is a man who shared the talk of the town with Edna May when "The Belle of New York" was the rage. He is Frank Lawton, the famous whistling comedian, who took the part of Blinkey Bill in the production.

His photograph then was featured in the illustrated magazines and the audiences at the Shaftesbury Theatre were enthusiastic over his performance. To-day he is among the stranded artists who are receiving relief from a fund established on their behalf in consequence of the non-production of the spectacle.

GEN. PICQUART DIES AFTER AN ACCIDENT

Famous Defender of Dreyfus Suffered a Fall from His Horse Last Week.

WAS IN HIS 60TH YEAR

First Banished and Then Imprisoned for His Championship of Dreyfus—Later Reinstated.

AMIENS, Jan. 19.—Gen. Marie Georges Picquart, Commander of the Second Army Corps, who was one of the most prominent figures in the Dreyfus case, died here to-day.

He was in his sixtieth year.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Gen. Picquart was thrown from his horse last Wednesday and severely injured about the head. His fall also aggravated a malady from which he had long suffered, namely, uremic poisoning.

The body will be cremated, and the funeral, by Gen. Picquart's expressed desire, will be of the simplest character.

The newspapers of Paris publish long appreciations of the General's courage throughout the Dreyfus affair.

Although men like Reinach, Clemenceau, and Zola were prosecuted by the French Government for their advocacy of Dreyfus, Georges Picquart has been generally regarded as the principal martyr of the cause.

When he succeeded Col. Sandherr as the Chief of the Secret Intelligence Bureau in June, 1895, Gen. Picquart was a firm believer in the guilt of Dreyfus. He had occupied the post but a few days, however, when one of his spies brought in from the German Embassy a letter card which proved that Esterhazy was in secret communication with the German Military Attaché. Picquart's investigations first had the approval of his immediate superior, Gen. Gonse, but later both Gen. Gonse and the Chief of the General Staff, Gen. de Boisdeffre, hampered and discouraged him in every way. Gen. Picquart finally demanded the arrest of Esterhazy as the real author of the famous "bordereau." There quickly followed an order directing Picquart to go on a mission to the west of France. Later he was sent to Tunis.

Afterward Picquart found that he was the object of a plot to ruin him by implicating him in an alleged attempt to substitute Esterhazy for Dreyfus as the writer of the bordereau. He consulted Maître Leblois and placed in his hands a sealed packet containing the proofs of Esterhazy's guilt and his own innocence. Then Picquart was recalled to Paris as a witness at the Esterhazy court-martial, and there he was accused of communicating to an unauthorized person the secrets of his office. He was convicted and sentenced to dismissal from the army.

In June, 1898, Picquart was again brought before a court-martial on a technicality because of his efforts on behalf of Dreyfus and was put in prison, where he remained until June 8, 1899, when he was provisionally released.

After Dreyfus was declared innocent by the Supreme Court Picquart was restored to the active list of the army. He was for a time Minister of War and later Commander of the Second Army Corps.

$150,000 FOR A HOLBEIN.

Lord Caledon Sells the Celebrated Portrait of Thomas Cromwell.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Holbein's famous portrait of Thomas Cromwell, Earl of Essex, known as the "Caledon Cromwell," which has been in the possession of the family of the Earl of Caledon for many years, has been sold for over £30,000 ($150,000) to Thomas Agnew & Sons, the London art dealers.

Lord Caledon, who is 28 years old, is a Lieutenant in the First Life Guards and owns about 30,000 acres. He is an Irish peer, with seats at Caledon House, County Tyrone, and Tyttenhanger Park, St. Alban's, Hertfordshire. The Cromwell portrait, which has been for many years at Tyttenhanger Park, St. Albans, Hertpanel 30 inches by 24½ inches. It has been rarely seen at public exhibitions. The date is put at about 1532-34.

Apart from the large price which has been paid, the transaction is notable from the circumstance that very few Holbeins remain in private collections. There are probably now only four to be found outside public art galleries.

The portrait which has just changed hands is regarded as one of the finest examples of Holbein's work.

RUN OVER SCHOOLBOYS.

American Motorists Not Blamed for Accident in Switzerland.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

GENEVA, Jan. 19.—Five Swiss schoolboys, the eldest 10 years old, who were tobogganing, to-day dashed under an automobile containing three American visitors traveling from Basel to Berne. The owner of the car gave the name of Watson of Boston.

Four of the boys were seriously but not mortally hurt. The Americans, who gave every assistance, were allowed to continue their journey, as the accident was not their fault. Further complications are not expected.

CLIFF BURIES 300 JAPANESE REFUGEES

Sakura Volcano Again Active and Earthquakes and Subterranean Noises Recommence.

A WISCONSIN MAN'S STORY

T. R. Hoyer Visited Sakura the Day After the Great Eruption—300,000 Persons Need Relief.

KAGOSHIMA, Jan. 19.—Fresh eruptions of the volcano of Sakura-jima, which recently caused such widespread devastation, occurred to-day. They were accompanied by earthquakes and violent subterranean noises.

Three hundred refugees from Sakura were buried under a falling cliff in a neighboring village to-day. One hundred bodies have been recovered.

TOKIO, Jan. 19.—A graphic narrative of the eruption and earthquakes which on Jan. 14 devastated the island of Sakura and the town of Kagoshima, destroying hundreds of lives, is given today by Theodore R. Hoyer of Wisconsin, who was a witness of the terrorizing occurrences. He says:

"The volcano of Sakura-jima resembled a Niagara of fire from which, time after time, masses of half-molten stone were hurled long distances.

"On the night of Jan. 14 a loud explosion was heard and was followed by a flash of flame and ashes spreading for thousands of feet into the air and over the land. At the same time broad streams of lava could be seen flowing down the slopes to the sea, while the forest trees on the mountain sides caught fire and quickly spread the flames to the houses of the numerous little villages nearby.

"The entire western coast line of Sakura seemed to be ablaze, and a strong wind carried smoke and ashes to all quarters.

"From Kagoshima, on the opposite shore, the people fled in panic-stricken crowds, many of them ascending the steep sides of Shiroyamo Mountain.

"A visit was made the following morning to within a short distance of Sakura, but it was impossible to reach the shore in the small native boat, owing to the great floating field of pumice stone.

"The principal crater of Sakura-jima was a wide gap running for a mile along the side of the volcano, and below this were smaller craters emitting smoke and flames. Beneath these yawning gaps were heaps of lava, gradually settling down as they cooled. The two old craters of the volcano had been forced into one by the destruction of the dividing ridge."

In Kagoshima the trains are again running, and many of the stores have been partly reopened.

The Governor of Hokkaido estimates that about 300,000 persons on the island of Kiushiu will need relief, and that about $3,500,000 will be required.

Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan Coming.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan will sail for the United States on Wednesday. His medical adviser urged him to curtail his work on this side while recovering from influenza, hence he has expedited his departure, in order to spend a few days in the United States with his married son before filling his preaching engagements there.

Havana Band for Panama Fair.

HAVANA, Jan. 19.—The government of the City of Havana decided to-day to send the municipal band to the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco. An appropriation of $12,000 was made for the journey of the members of the band and another of $5,000 for the acquisition of new instruments. The same band attended the Chicago World's Fair.

TAKES MAN FROM COURT PEN

Commissioner Davis Finds His Story Is True and Gains His Freedom.

Commissioner of Correction Katherine B. Davis visited Essex Market Court yesterday. Miss Davis inspected the detention pen of the court, which is thirteen by ten feet. In it were seventy prisoners. She said it was more like the Black Hole of Calcutta than the detention pen of a modern court room.

Commissioner Davis questioned the prisoners. She learned that fifteen of them had been sent from the Municipal Lodging House as vagrants. Among the fifteen was Henry Cordes, who said he had intended to go to a Seventh Avenue bakery where he was to be put to work as a dishwasher yesterday morning. Instead he had been sent to court.

He said he was afraid he would lose the place. Miss Davis took Cordes over to the bakery in her motor car and found that his story was true. She returned to court with him and gave her information to Magistrate Freschi. The Magistrate discharged Cordes, remarking:

"Why doesn't Supt. Yorke use common sense?"

Supt. Yorke said last night:

"Cordes said nothing to me about having a job. If he had, I should have given him the benefit of the doubt and let him go. I am not anxious to send men to Blackwell's Island, and give them the benefit of every doubt. Cordes was with us nearly every night in December and fifteen out of the eighteen nights in January."

South Celebrates Lee's Birthday.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 19.—Throughout the South, and notably in Virginia, the 107th anniversary of the birth of Gen Robert E. Lee is being observed to-day. Practically all industrial activity ceased for part of the day and the banks, public and private schools and many business and manufacturing plants were closed. At all Confederate veterans' gatherings Gen. Lee's farewell address to the army of northern Virginia was read.

STRAUS SEES PERIL IN W. B. WILSON PLAN

Ex-Secretary of Commerce Opposed to Sending Officials Abroad to Halt Undesirables.

NEW EVILS WOULD RESULT

Advice for Aliens from Our Consular Officers the Needed Remedy of Present Abuses, He Says.

Oscar S. Straus, ex-Secretary of Commerce and Labor, expressed vigorous dissent yesterday to current proposals for the restriction of immigration at its source. Mr. Straus made an exhaustive study of similar proposals during his term of office and his analyses of them resulted in the failure of Congress to enact into law bills which provided for the transfer to foreign countries of immigration officials with power to stop would-be immigrants before embarkation. He said yesterday:

"Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor has recently given out a number of interviews wherein he expresses sympathy for the immigrants who are excluded on their arrival in this country and are deported under our immigration laws, and recommends as a remedy the transferring of the machinery for exclusion from the United States to foreign countries.

"The percentage of exclusion varies largely with the attitude of the immigration officials, whether they are fair-minded, or prejudiced against the entire subject of immigration. This percentage has varied in the past five years from eleven in 1,000 to twenty-three in 1,000. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, 19,938 were debarred at our ports as against the admission of 1,197,892, or about twenty in 1,000, which number is offset by the voluntary departure of more than 308,000.

"The fact is our immigration responds to industrial conditions, as is shown, for example, by the fact that the immigration of the year ended June 30, 1907, of a little more than 1,200,000 not only fell off the next year to 782,000, but was accompanied by the departure from our shores in that year of nearly 400,000.

"The variation of the percentage of exclusion is based mainly upon the interpretation placed upon the provision in the immigration laws 'likely to become a public charge.' The interpretation of this provision depends upon a construction, which is more or less arbitrary, made by boards of inquiry.

"That the exclusion and deportation of immigrants involve a human tragedy is apparent, and that it is desirable to lessen, and, if possible, eliminate this tragedy growing out of our exclusion laws, will be admitted by all. But, to transfer the power of exclusion from our shores to foreign countries is providing a remedy which is infinitely worse than the disease. In order to obtain the right from foreign nations to station American officials in their countries who shall have the power to allow or prevent intending emigrants to come to America, we must concede to such nations, including Russia, the right to station their officials in our country, vested with the right to concede or refuse to Americans the right to go to foreign countries. In other words, we would have to concede to such officials a distinct element of our sovereignty. As Chancellor Kent says:

"'No citizen can be sent abroad or under the existing law of the land prevented from going abroad, except in those cases in which he may be detained by civil process, or upon a criminal charge. The constitutions of several of the States have declared that all people have a right to emigrate from the State and have prohibited the interruption of that right.'

"It would clearly be not only against such a fundamental right, but contrary to the basic principles of our Government from the earliest times. By a Federal law of 1868, which forms a part of the Revised Statutes of the United States, (Section 1999,) it is provided that expatriation is a natural and inherent right and that any restriction which impairs that right is declared inconsistent with the principles of the republic. What could be more in violation of those principles than to place it in the power of foreign officials in our country to prevent American citizens from going to foreign countries?

"It is not to be presumed that any self-respecting foreign nation, even if it should concede, which I very much question, to American officials to prevent the emigration of its subjects to America, would do so without demanding the reciprocal right for its officials in regard to our citizens.

"To place such a right in American officials stationed in foreign countries as is proposed by Secretary Wilson and by several bills that have been introduced into Congress would—from other grounds—be highly undesirable. Such officials would have jurisdiction not over 1 per cent., but 100 per cent. of all immigrations and from their decision—from a practical point of view—there would be no appeal, as is now the case from the immigration officials of the various ports of entry to the Secretary of Labor. This is aside from the danger of bribery and corruption on the part of immigration officials stationed in the separate countries of the world.

"To grant such a right of officials of foreign Governments, such as Russia, located within this country, would be practically vesting such officials with the power to enforce writs of 'ne exeat,' by preventing to the extent this power is exercised our citizens from leaving this country for foreign lands.

"The remedy for the evil in order to minimize the inhumanity attendant upon exclusion is very simple, and can be readily applied without the evils referred to. That remedy is for our Government through its Consular officers and through the Division of Information, to make known in a simple and understandable manner the provisions of our immigration laws, and to attach to our Consulates at the principal ports of departure competent immigration officials, who will advise intending immigrants as to whether or not they would be likely to be excluded.

"By this method, the number would be largely lessened, if not almost entirely eliminated, and, furthermore, if an immigrant took ship contrary to the advice of such officials he would be forewarned. And, finally, by disseminating such information it would prevent intending immigrants from pulling up stakes to a much larger extent than if they had to come before immigration officials stationed at the ports of departure."

TWO ON SUBWAY TRACKS.

Suicide in Grand Central—Attempt Failed in 72d Street.

Two aged men threw themselves in front of onrushing trains in the Subway yesterday—one in the Seventy-second Street station and the other at Grand Central. O. A. Jenks, 60 years of age, a retired real estate operator, of 225 West Seventy-ninth Street, had his left arm so badly mangled at Seventy-second Street that it was found necessary to amputate it after his removal to the Polyclinic Hospital. The second victim of despondency, Leopold Goldstein, 62 years, a retired wholesale upholsterer, of 116 West 144th Street, was instantly killed in the Grand Central Station.

Late last night it was said at the hospital that Jenks had a good chance to recover, although his condition is critical. Jenks said money troubles had caused his attempt at suicide.

Leopold Goldstein leaped from among the crowd at Grand Central Station late in the afternoon and timed his jump to such a nicety that he was struck in mid-air, hurled forward and crushed between the platform and the train. He lived with his wife and two married daughters. One of his daughters later expressed the opinion that ill-health was responsible for his act.

"I am not at all certain that my father committed suicide," she said. "Of late he has been subject to attacks of faintness, and this has caused him much anxiety and made him despondent."

To Keep Their Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Hatkoff of 121 East Eightieth Street will celebrate their golden wedding to-morrow at the Hotel Astor. They were born and married in Russia and came to this country in 1864. Among those who will be present at the festivities are four sons—Isaac, Samuel, Louis and Alfred; four daughters—Mrs. William J. Hirschfeld, Mrs. William Hepner, Mrs. M. Jesse Henry and Mrs. William Goodman; several grandchildren and one great grandchild, Dorothy Hirschfeld, daughter of Clarence E. Hirschfeld.

H. L. Pratt Gives Camp for Boys.

Officers of the Brooklyn Young Men's Christian Association announced yesterday that the new Summer camp for boys was a gift to the organization from Herbert L. Pratt of that borough. Mr. Pratt gave the $25,000 with which the site was purchased. The property, of seventeen acres, is at Woodvale, Staten Island. It has a frontage of 450 feet on Prince's Bay.

MAKE WIDE SEARCH FOR C. B. BOSTWICK

Thousands of Circulars Ask for News of Missing Princeton Graduate.

FRIENDS THINK HE IS ILL

Fear That He Has Lost His Memory—Cigar Dealer Tells of a Strange Caller.

The whereabouts of Charles Byron Bostwick, Secretary-Treasurer of the A. J. Watts Company, is still a mystery. Mr. Bostwick disappeared two weeks ago and a diligent search for him has been carried on since that time by the Police Department and by private agencies employed by his wife and family.

Mr. Bostwick left his apartment in the Life Building, 19 West Thirty-first Street, on Sunday morning, Jan. 4, and told his wife that he was going to his office in the Hudson Terminal Building, at 30 Church Street. He promised to return home early in the afternoon. When he had not come back at dark Mrs. Bostwick became worried.

Persons entering the Hudson Terminal Building on Sunday are required to sign a register, and from this it was ascertained that Mr. Bostwick had not visited his office, for his name was not on the register. From Sunday night until Tuesday morning members of Mr. Bostwick's family made a private search for him, and on Tuesday the police were notified. Thousands of copies of a circular containing this description and a reproduction of a photograph have been circulated:

> Charles Byron Bostwick, American, aged 42 years, 5 feet 4 inches, 175 pounds, blue eyes, dark brown wavy hair, smooth face, pitt marked; stout build, good teeth, physical and mental condition poor.
> Dark brown overcoat, velvet collar; dark gray suit, white striped shirt, turndown collar, dark necktie, black stockings, black low-cut shoes, and gray fedora hat.
> Laundry marks, A 224, 9 224.
> Has scar on nose from an operation.
> Clothes made by T. Vaughan, 8 West Forty-fifth Street, New York.
> May have the name of C. D. Belden in his pocket.

Mrs. Bostwick said yesterday that her husband had suffered from acute neuritis for two months before his disappearance and that for three days he had complained of severe pains in his head. The theory that the neuritis caused a loss of memory has been advanced by physicians whom Mrs. Bostwick has consulted.

A few days ago a man walked into a cigar store in Eighth Avenue between 111th and 112th Streets and asked the clerk if he recognized him.

"This neighborhood seems familiar to me," he said, "but I don't know who I am or where I live."

The clerk did not know the man, but when a photograph of Mr. Bostwick later was shown to him he said that in some ways it reminded him of his caller.

Until last October the Bostwicks lived in Ninety-first Street near Central Park West and the general neighborhood of the cigar store was familiar to Mr. Bostwick. The police think that possibly the cigar man's caller was Mr. Bostwick.

Mr. Bostwick graduated from Princeton in 1896. He was secretary of his class for life and is well known to many Princeton men in the city. He was an active member of the Princeton Club.

TO SILENCE LYLE CHIMES.

Agreement to Stop Clock's Striking at Night Ends Legal Battle.

The legal battle over the Lyle chimes at Tenafly ended in a compromise yesterday before Vice Chancellor Lewis in Jersey City, when, though the neighbors who defended the bell music outnumbered ten to one the petitioning detractors, it was agreed that the clock should not strike after 7 P. M. until Tenafly should be up and about again in the morning, and that the chimes should be silent at night save, perhaps, for a hymn or two at curfew. The neighborhood dispute has been in progress during the absence of Mrs. Julia Gertrude Lyle, who is in Egypt.

The chimes are at the top of a fifty-foot tower erected on the Lyle estate in Tenafly in memory of the late John S. Lyle, last member of the original Lord & Taylor firm to survive. Not long before his death, when a man in his nineties, he was married to his nurse and she inherited his fortune.

About the chimes there is a vast difference of opinion in Tenafly, several residents certifying that their music was so pleasant as to aid in the enjoyment of comfort, rest, and sleep, whereas Mrs. Alice M. Bailey swore that the chimes had robbed her of comfort and peace and had impaired her digestion and nerves. She said that she had tried stuffing cotton into her ears, and that she had actually had to go as far as Atlantic City to get some sleep.

COL. RUPPERT BUYS HAFFEN BREWERY

Sale Involving $700,000 Is One of the Largest Made in the Bronx.

TO DISCONTINUE BUSINESS

Land on Which Brewery Stands Will Be Used as a Site for Modern Office Buildings.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, one of the large property owners in New York, purchased the big Haffen brewery in the Bronx yesterday for about $700,000. While the sale was the largest that has occurred in that borough for some time, of still greater interest to those living in the Bronx is the announcement from the Haffens that when Col. Ruppert takes possession of the property the brewery business under the name of Haffen will be discontinued.

For more than sixty years the Haffens have been among the leading brewers in the Bronx. The father of the present members of the firm, the J. & M. Haffen Brewing Company, came to this country from Bavaria and settled at Melrose, then a small village not incorporated into New York, in 1850. Soon after he established a small brewery. The business grew rapidly, and for more than half a century the Haffen brewery has been one of the substantial landmarks at its present site, on the block front on the west side of Melrose Avenue, between 151st and 152d Streets. The President of the company, Mathias H. Haffen, and the Secretary, John M. Haffen, are sons of the original founder, and they are brothers of Louis F. Haffen, ex-President of the Borough of the Bronx. He was never associated with his brothers in the brewery business.

Mathias Haffen said last night that when Col. Ruppert takes possession of the property the brewing of beer there will cease and he will retire from the firm. John M. Haffen will continue the name of the J. & M. Haffen Brewing Company, but its business hereafter will be devoted entirely to real estate investments and caring for the extensive realty holdings of the Haffen family.

The old brewery site has become too valuable for its present use. It is within two blocks of the Third Avenue elevated line and Subway stations, at Third Avenue and 149th Street, which is the centre of the banking, shopping, and theatre life of the Bronx, and property in the vicinity has advanced in value in the last five years. The brewery lot has a frontage of 230 feet in Melrose Avenue and 150 feet in each side street. The price paid for the plot averages more than $20 a square foot, which is one of the highest prices ever paid for a large parcel of Bronx realty.

Col. Ruppert said last night that he had no immediate plans for improvement of the brewery plot. It would be used, he said, for one or two high-class commercial buildings, and if conditions were favorable the work of improvement would be begun in the Summer.

MISS KENNEDY WAS ROBBED

Nurse Unable to Tell More to Police —Cashier's Story Investigated.

Miss Margaret Kennedy, a trained nurse, who was found hysterical and ill Sunday night at Third Avenue and Forty-second Street, was in such a serious condition in Bellevue Hospital yesterday that detectives were not permitted to question her concerning the statement she made to the police to the effect that she had been dragged into a house and held prisoner from Saturday until she managed to escape on Sunday night.

Miss Kennedy was known also as Bertha Meyers. A gold watch and $10 which the nurse had when she left Brooklyn were missing when the police found her. The police have a theory that she may have been dragged into a hallway and robbed, and was suffering from the nervous shock.

Detectives of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station had a similar case to investigate yesterday. Miss Elizabeth Kingston, 28 years old, cashier in a hotel, and living at 102 West Sixty-fourth Street, told the police that she had been lured into a house near her home on Sunday night, had been robbed, and then thrown down a stairway and carried to the sidewalk. Her money, $3, and gold neck chain were taken, she said. The police searched the house indicated, but were unable to get any evidence to corroborate the young woman's statement.

GOLDWATER HEADS BOARD OF HEALTH

Dr. Lederle's Successor Known as Expert on Affairs of Hospitals.

AT MOUNT SINAI TEN YEARS

Mayor Expects to Name Water Commissioner and Corporation Counsel This Week.

Dr. Sigismund S. Goldwater, Superintendent of Mount Sinai Hospital, was appointed by Mayor Mitchel yesterday as Commissioner of Health to succeed Dr. Ernst J. Lederle. Before the Mayor took office he offered the appointment to Dr. Goldwater, who declined on the ground, it was said, that his outside interests would not permit him to take it. Last week Dr. Lederle urged the Mayor to act as quickly as possible, and when the matter was again put up to Dr. Goldwater he accepted.

The new Commissioner is one of the best-posted men on hospital affairs in the country. He is a graduate of the medical department of the New York University, and has been connected with Mount Sinai Hospital since 1903. Since 1908 he has been a municipal expert in hospital construction, being connected in this capacity with Bellevue andAllied Hospitals. He is also advisory expert to the Presbyterian Hospital, the New York Hospital, the Montefiore Home, and many other hospitals throughout the country. He is Vice President of the New York Academy of Medicine, Secretary of the Associated Out-Patient Clinics of the City of New York, President of the American Hospital Association and an honorary member of the British Hospitals Association.

The only important places in Mayor Mitchel's Cabinet yet to be filled are those of Corporation Counsel and Water Commissioner. George V. Mullan, the Mayor's former law partner, may yet be selected as Corporation Counsel. The Mayor expects to fill both places before the end of the week.

George Blumenthal, President of Mount Sinai Hospital, said last night:

"Mayor Mitchel intimated to me some time ago that he would like to appoint Dr. Goldwater to the position of Commissioner of Health, provided Mount Sinai Hospital would relinquish its claim on his services. The trustees of the hospital, in full appreciation of the fitness of Dr. Goldwater for the place, and putting all preferences aside and considering the best interests of the city at large, at a special meeting held yesterday afternoon granted to Dr. Goldwater leave of absence for his duties as Superintendent without pay for an indefinite period."

The Mayor gave instruction yesterday to all his heads of departments that he expected them to establish working hours from 9 A. M. until 5 P. M. every day and longer if necessary and to see that all employes kept those hours. The regular working hours heretofore have been from 9 A. M. until 4 P. M. Mayor Gaynor established the same rule but after the first year of his administration it was seldom complied with.

The trouble between Superintendent Louis F. La Roche of the Park Department and Park Commissioner Ward which arose over the fact that Mr. La Roche had signed a contract for forage in the Queens Park Department, was adjusted yesterday by the Mayor. Mr. La Roche is to be transferred from the Park Department, but he is to retain his present salary of $4,000 a year. Mr. La Roche went to the Park Department from the Finance Department, where he was receiving $2,500 a year as an examiner, and it was said that he would be either transferred back there or get a deputyship in some other department.

One of the Mayor's visitors yesterday was James M. Curley, the Mayor-elect of Boston. Mr. Curley said he had come to New York to get manufacturers to go to his city. He said he wanted manufacturers who employed 500 men or over and as an inducement for them to go to Boston and he said he was willing to offer free land and free railway sidings.

"During the last few years," he said, "Boston has expended $35,000,000 for playgrounds, &c., and only $3,000,000 to encourage industries. One of the planks on which I was elected was to encourage business industries to settle in Boston and I agreed to give up $1,000 of my $10,000 salary for the purchase of land for these industries. Now I am ready to live up to my promise."

DR. BIGGS HEALTH CHIEF.

Nominated for State Commissioner and Quickly Confirmed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—The nomination of Dr. Herman M. Biggs to be State Commissioner of Health, was sent to the Senate to-night by Gov. Glynn and promptly confirmed. Dr. Biggs succeeds Dr. E. H. Porter, who was appointed by Gov. Higgins, his term having expired.

Senator Murtagh in moving immediate confirmation, spoke of the exceptional qualifications of Dr. Biggs. He said the nominee stood preeminent as a bacteriologist and a sanitarian, and complimented the Governor on obtaining a man of Dr. Biggs's ability for the important post.

Senator McClelland of New York cordially seconded the motion, saying the State was assured of an efficient Health Department under Dr. Biggs. The nomination, Senator McClelland said, was evidence of the Governor's good judgment.

Senator Wende of Erie also paid a tribute to Dr. Biggs and seconded the motion of confirmation of the nomination at once. The confirmation was unanimous.

ASTOR'S RELATIVE FIGHTS CUSTOMS TAX

Mrs. Thompson, Formerly Miss May Van Alen, Says She Is a Resident of England.

ONLY A VISITOR HERE

"I Have Done My Best," She Asserts, "to Persuade Mr. Thompson to Leave New York.

Mrs. Griswold A. Thompson, who before her marriage was Miss May Van Alen, granddaughter of Mrs. William Astor, was before the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday as a witness in proceedings to determine whether she was a resident of this country under the tariff law. She was accompanied by her husband and by her counsel, James F. Curtis, formerly an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Judge Waite presided.

Mrs. Thompson opposed the action of the customs authorities at Boston in demanding duty on jewelry, clothing, and other articles, which she brought to this country when she arrived on the Arabic on Oct. 16. She asserted that as a resident of a foreign country she was entitled to enter the articles duty free. After a hearing before Charles S. Hamlin, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in Washington, Mrs. Thompson paid the duties demanded under protest, although she proved that some of the jewelry and wearing apparel were purchased in the United States prior to her departure from this country. These articles were allowed to enter free.

Mrs. Thompson testified that she considered herself a foreign resident, as she had made her permanent home since 1886 with her father, James J. Van Alen, who lives at Rushton Hall, Northamptonshire, England. She acknowledged that she had visited this country frequently, and had made long visits at Newport and this city, but she denied that these visits made her a resident of the United States. Mr. Thompson testified that he lived in this city, and before his marriage to Miss Van Alen, which occurred in London on Sept. 24, he lived with his father in bachelor quarters at 16 East Sixteenth Street. Soon after his wedding Mr. Thompson returned to this country, and his wife followed several weeks later. They were living now, he said, at 375 Park Avenue.

Joseph F. Tumulty, brother of the President's secretary, represented the Attorney General and cross-examined the witnesses. Mr. Tumulty failed to shake Mrs. Thompson's testimony that she regarded England as her permanent home.

"I have done my best," she testified, "to persuade Mr. Thompson to leave New York and live in England, but so far without success."

A list of the articles in dispute was put in evidence. It embraced diamond and other valuable rings, bracelets, brooches, necklaces, wrist watches, and other trinkets in addition to articles of wearing apparel, hats and feathers. Their appraised value, it was said, was $22,000, the duties on which, at the rate of 60 per cent., was estimated at approximately $13,200.

The gowns and jewels in dispute were contained in twenty-five trunks at the time Mrs. Thompson arrived at Boston. Her maid, it was said, was found wearing a magnificent fur coat under her outer garment. While the Boston officials accepted the statement of Mrs. Thompson that some of the jewelry was purchased in this country and sent to her as wedding presents, duty was collected on most of her belongings.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Judge Waite took the papers in the case and reserved decision. Counsel were asked to file briefs in the case. It is expected that Mr. Tumulty, representing the Department of Justice, will maintain that the status of Mrs. Thompson is similar to that of Mrs. Florence Bache, wife of Jules S. Bache, the New York banker, who, several months ago, was held to be a resident of this country by both the General Board and the United States Court of Customs Appeals.

FORD BONUS NEXT WEEK.

Long Island City Employes Must Wait on Bookkeeping Delays.

Contrary to expectations, the 400 employes of the Ford automobile factory in Long Island City will not receive their first installment of the $10,000,000 bonus set aside for the workmen of that concern in their pay envelopes to-day owing to the fact that the vast amount of bookkeeping necessary to inaugurate the bonus scheme has not been completed.

In addition to their usual pay the men will receive a slip in their envelopes telling them why they are not paid the bonus this week and that the company will be ready by next week to make the payment which will date from Jan. 12, when the bonus order went into effect.

NEW BODY TO WORK FOR PUBLIC SAFETY

Society Organized at Hotel Astor for Crusade to Lessen Traffic Perils.

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION

Representative Men and Women on Board of Trustees—"Safety First" the Slogan.

The proposed "safety first" movement in New York took definite form last night by the organization of the Safety First Society. Its object is to make the streets, transportation lines, and buildings of the city as safe as scientific knowledge, adequate laws, and the greatest care can make them.

To obtain this result, the Safety First Society proposes to consolidate and extend the present unrelated activities of civic organizations, automobile clubs and associations, public service corporations, and insurance companies, and to conduct a vigorous publicity campaign to impress upon all users of public streets and places their duties with respect to public safety.

The meeting held last night at the Hotel Astor was presided over by Ralph Folks, Secretary of the Borough of Manhattan. It elected a widely representative Board of Trustees for the ensuing year, composed of the following:

Gen. George W. Wingate, Chairman Brooklyn Committee of Public Safety; William Phelp Eno, J. A. Ritchie, Interborough Rapid Transit Company; Lee Shubert, Sam S. & Lee Shubert, Inc.; Harry A. Bullock, Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company; E. R. Hardy, Secretary Insurance Society of New York; George Keegan, New York Railways Company; Arthur Williams, President American Museum of Safety; Miss Florence Guernsey, President City Federation of Women's Clubs; Robert Grier Cooke, President Fifth Avenue Association; Marcus A. Dow, New York Central Lines; Timothy Healy, President International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen; Ralph Folks, Secretary Borough of Manhattan; A. B. Cumner, Society of Automobile Engineers; Mrs. William Grant Brown, ex-President City Federation of Women's Clubs; R. W. Meade, President Fifth Avenue Coach Company; H. R. Swartz, Vice President Yellow Taxicab Company; E. E. Rittenhouse, Equitable Life Assurance Society; Miss Frances Perkins, Committee on Safety; Thomas W. Churchill, President Board of Education; Mrs. Robert Francis Cartwright, Chairman Public Safety Committee, City Federation of Women's Clubs; Frank G. Webb, Long Island Automobile Club; Jefferson de Mont Thompson, President Broadway Association; Robert Lee Morrell, Manhattan Automobile Club; Robert S. Binkerd, Secretary City Club; Charles A. Stewart, Automobile Dealers' Association; John E. Woodruff, and Frederick H. Elliott.

A meeting of the trustees will be held at the earliest possible date for the election of officers and the appointment of an Executive Committee. Until organization is completed, Frederick H. Elliott will act as Secretary, with offices at the Hotel Astor.

A resolution was adopted commending Fire Commissioner Adamson for General Order No. 3, and requesting the heads of all other city departments to issue similar orders to their subordinates.

A letter was also read from Controller William A. Prendergast offering any assistance within his power.

Zane Grey's New Novel—The Light of Western Stars

She didn't know she was married, and when she found out—well, the story is told in Zane Grey's new novel, "The Light of Western Stars," just published. She was a New York girl and things happen from the minute she gets off the train in the little cattle town just this side the turbulent Mexican border. "The Light of Western Stars" is not rip-snorting border fiction by any means, but a man's size novel—a swinging tale of reality—every incident natural, and for that reason all the more exciting. It reveals a life you would like to live yourself. It all happens to-day—and this is the best day to get this new novel.

HOW TO GET NEXT TO A VACANCY

Thousands of vacancies occur daily. Many of them may be just your fit. Tell your story frankly in a "Situation Wanted" ad. in The New York Times. It is worth knowing that the next to the last page of The Times is where employers usually look first when in need of competent help.

Feel Out of Sorts?

It's a good idea to look for the cause!

One common, but often unsuspected cause is coffee-drinking. Yet some persons seem able to get along with coffee—at least for a time. But when headachy, bilious days come; breakfast or some other meal doesn't taste good; and the day's work goes wrong. (Ever feel that way?)—then it's time to find out for sure if coffee is causing the trouble in your case.

There's a subtle, poisonous drug, "caffeine," in coffee that interferes with the normal functions of body, brain and nerves, and has a lot to do with one's comfort and progress.

Suppose for a test you try the simple expedient of quitting coffee and using well-made —a pure food-drink made of choice wheat. It has a delightful, Java-like flavour but is absolutely free from caffeine or any other drug.

POSTUM

After ten days or two weeks you will be able to decide whether to go back to coffee troubles, or stick to Postum and peace and comfort.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular Postum—must be well boiled.

Instant Postum—doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water and adding cream and sugar to taste.

Grocers everywhere sell both kinds.

MAGAZINE
Postmaster General

Your copy of the February METROPOLITAN will be a few days late. The Postmaster of New York held up our early mail, explaining that, in his judgment, the reproduction in this number of sculptures by Paul Manship, who won the first prize in the present exhibition of the National Academy of Design, was unmailable. On an appeal to Washington the magazine was finally released. We regret the delay resulting from this preposterous action, and we sincerely protest against what we believe was an unwarranted and arbitrary exercise of power on the part of the New York Postmaster. Bewildered and pained, we are at a loss to explain how any representative of the American people could see the slightest reason for closing the mails to our beautiful reproduction by Rotogravure of Paul Manship's creations, to which the greatest art authorities in the country awarded first honors. In our enthusiasm we believed our reproduction of art subjects by the new Rotogravure process—the first time in a big magazine—was a master stroke of publishing enterprise, and we still believe that the American people—the progressive men and women of the country, to whom the METROPOLITAN appeals—will agree with us. The action of the New York Postmaster seems to us the more blind and pernicious because he has singled out for his attack one of the very few magazines which does not admit to its pages so-called "sex" fiction and objectionable advertisements. We beg of our readers that they will carefully examine the Rotogravure section in the February METROPOLITAN and tell us whether, in their judgment, the action of the Postmaster is not a serious menace to the liberty of the citizen and the freedom of the press?

PITCHER FORD JOINS FEDERAL LEAGUE

Reported in New York That He Has Signed with Outlaws—Conference in Chicago.

It was reported in New York last night that Russell Ford, a pitcher of the New York American League Club, had wired to President Frank Farrell that he had signed a contract to play in the Federal League. The report gained circulation so late in the night that Mr. Farrell could not be reached to ascertain the truth of the rumor.

The report came from such an authentic source that it hardly can be doubted.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Developments to-day in the newest baseball war left both sides—the aggressive outlaws of the Federal League and "organized ball"—confident of success. Predictions that the new league would give up the ghost in a short time were made by President Johnson of the American League and President Murphy of the Chicago Nationals.

Lack of preparation in a number of towns, although the opening of the season is less than three months away, was given as a leading reason by prophets who expect the Federals' end soon.

Meantime, at the headquarters of the Federal League there was a busy scene all day. According to Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federals, there are forty ball players in town and "most of them were up here to-day," as one of them put it after watching the crowd in Gilmore's office.

Among the visitors were Russell Ford and Ed Sweeney, the New York Americans' battery, both of whom were closeted with Tinker and President Weeghman of the local club for some time. Whether either or both of them had signed contracts with the Federals was not announced.

Howard Camnitz, the former Pittsburgh pitcher, traded to the Philadelphia Nationals, had a private discussion with "Doc" Gessler, the Pittsburgh manager.

Despite reports that Killifer of the Philadelphia Nationals and Kirkpatrick of Brooklyn had not signed with the Federals, President Gilmore this afternoon exhibited contracts signed by these men.

A total of thirty-three major league players have signed with the league, he said, eight of them having joined the new organization since Saturday.

Infielder McCarthy of Pittsburgh was a caller at the office early this evening and conferred with Tinker. Felix Chouinard, formerly of the Chicago Americans, and later with Des Moines, also consulted with the Federal Leaguers and intimated that he would sign with them.

William Brennan, National League umpire, this afternoon signed a three-year contract with the Federals. Just before he signed he received a telegram notifying him that a new contract with the National League had arrived at his home in St. Paul. Seven more umpires of high class are on their way here to talk with the Federal leaders, Gilmore said.

Weeghman repeated to-day that he would stand by the new league, declaring that since the stormy meeting of Saturday he was sure it would be a success. In this connection President Murphy claimed to have information that Weeghman's protest at the meeting against "carrying three clubs" resulted in a verbal attack on him that "created wounds that cannot be healed."

$6,000 OFFER TO CLARK.

Cincinnati Catcher Sought by Buffalo Club of Federal League.

Thomas Clark, catcher for the Cincinnati National League baseball team, who with Kling caught the majority of the games last year for Tinker's team, yesterday received a telegram at his home on Corona, L. I., asking him to start for Buffalo at once to talk terms with Manager Schafly of the Federal League team of that city. Six thousand dollars for the season was the salary offered.

Clark said yesterday that he had refused to sign for August Hermann thus far because the owner of the Reds had not met his demand of $6,000 salary. Clark intimated he might go to Buffalo to talk matters over, but said he was in no hurry to sign with any one.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 19.—President August Hermann of the Cincinnati National League Club said he had received no demand from Thomas Clark for $6,000 for the coming season.

"I have received no such demand from Clark, and further, do not care to discuss the Federal League," said Mr. Hermann.

Ball Players' Contracts Approved.

John K. Tener, President of the National Baseball League, yesterday announced that thirty-three contracts with players had been approved and officially promulgated. Among the lists of names are those of Arthur Fletcher and George J. Burns of the Giants. Cincinnati has twenty-two of its men signed up, and the Bostons three. Chicago has signed two of its players. The full list of those whose contracts have been approved and promulgated is as follows:

New York—George J. Burns, Arthur Fletcher.

Cincinnati—R. C. Hoblitzell, J. C. Rowan, M. Berghammer, Earl H. Yingling, J. A. Niehoff, Henry K. Groh, (for three years,) J. C. Benton, Frank C. Mellon, Maurice W. Uhler, W. D. Kellogg, Charles B. Leer, Irving M. Porter, Wayne Barham, Karl T. Adams, Alfred Narveson, E. H. Hanna, R. M. Couchman, Phil Douglas, C. M. Markle, R. R. Ingersoll, Alfred von Kolnitz, Edward Kipper.

Boston—Walter J. Maranville, John C. Martin, Leslie Mann.

Chicago—Bert Humphries, (three years,) John J. Corriden.

Terms have been accepted by six men of the Boston Nationals, but their contracts have not been promulgated as yet. These men are Richard Rudolph, Fred Herche, Lawrence Gilbert, Otto Hess, Richard Crutcher, and Willard Meikle.

Kling Released; Quits Baseball.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 19.—August Herrmann, President of the Cincinnati Baseball Club, announced to-day that John Kling, the catcher, who was with the local team last season, had been given his unconditional release. Kling had an agreement with the Cincinnati club that he was to be released outright if he did not want to play in 1914.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 19.—"I am through playing ball," said John Kling when told to-day of the announcement of his unconditional release by the Cincinnati Baseball Club. Kling is in business here. "Rumors of a possibility that I might sign with this or that club in case of unconditional release never had a particle of foundation," he declared.

Tigers Swinging Into Line.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 19.—The contracts of Pitcher George Dauss and Paddy Bauman, second baseman, have been received by the Detroit American League Baseball Club, according to official announcement to-day. It was also stated the club had been informed that Shortstop Owen Bush had mailed his signed contract from Indianapolis, but it has not been received here. Federal League offers have been made to the three players.

The Detroit Club also received to-day the signed contract of Pitcher Miles Main, who was drafted last Fall from the Buffalo International League team. It was announced to-night the club will leave for Gulfport, Miss., for Spring training on Feb. 28.

Association Players Stay in Line.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The American Association is not suffering seriously from Federal League raids, according to information which reached President Chivington here today. A telegram to the league head said the Louisville club had fixed up every one of its players for the ensuing season, signed contracts having been received from all except two, one of whom has agreed to the terms, while the other has mailed his contract. The Louisville club is the second in the association to announce a complete roster, Kansas City having signed all of its men. Other clubs were late in sending out contracts.

EBBETS HOPES FOR TINKER.

Believes That Shortstop Will Report to Superbas in Spring.

Over the telegraph wires from Chicago yesterday came words of cheer from President Charles H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn club to Vice President Ed McKeever. It is about Joe Tinker. Try as hard as he can, Joe simply can't keep his name out of the papers.

President Ebbets wired that he firmly believed, after his talk with Tinker in Chicago, that the insurgent shortstop would play with Brooklyn this year. It was Tinker who sought the conference with Ebbets in Chicago, and not the other way around. Ebbets says that he did not make an offer of $40,000, but informed him that the original offer of $5,000 a year for three years, with the $10,000 bonus, still held good. Ebbets says that he does not believe that the Federal League season will ever open.

President Ebbets's telegram to McKeever is as follows:

> I did not seek interview with Tinker. I did not offer him $40,000. That is a joke. I did not offer anything in excess of our first and only offer; was not turned down, nor did Tinker say he was through with organized baseball forever. Furthermore, I am more firmly convinced than ever that Joe Tinker will report to the Brooklyn club for Spring practice, and that the Federal League will never start the season.
> C. H. EBBETS.

From this telegram it is believed that Tinker is weakening and is not so confident of the Federal League's welfare as he was. So many major league players have turned Tinker down during the last week that it is believed he will think better of the Brooklyns' offer. Tinker probably realizes that if the Federal League fails to make good, he would be welcomed back to the ranks of organized baseball, and, knowing this, he has not hesitated to make as much publicity as possible over the so-called war on the major leagues. If Tinker comes back to Brooklyn he knows that all this talk about him will make him a bigger drawing card than ever. President Ebbets is going to stop in Chicago for a few more days. He expects to see the Federal League blow up at almost any time.

Arthur Fletcher, the Giant shortstop, has renewed his contract for next season. Fletcher was approached by the Federal League, but he paid no attention to their offer. President Hempstead expects that most of the other players will return their contracts this week.

D. Leroy Reeves, secretary to President John K. Tener of the National League, paid his first official visit to headquarters yesterday. After saying "How'dy" to folks, Mr. Reeves took off his coat, rolled up his sleeves, opened his desk, and went to work. From now on he will be a regular fixture at the National League offices, and will spend Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of each week here. The other days of the week will be spent with Gov. Tener in Harrisburg.

Mr. Reeves did not talk about National League affairs. He says Gov. Tener will do all the talking and is well qualified. Mr. Reeves is not losing weight over the threatened raid of the Federal League, and predicts that the National League will open, as usual, in April, will close, as usual, in October, and, after that everybody, as usual, will go "dippy" about the world's series.

Gov. Tener's next visit here will probably be on Tuesday, Feb. 10, when the National League will hold its schedule meeting in this city. In the meantime, Gov. Tener will conduct those affairs of the league which require his attention from Harrisburg through Mr. Reeves.

Secretary Reeves will soon take up the matter of the home-coming celebration for the Giants and the White Sox on March 6, and he will act with Secretary Heydler and Secretary Foster in carrying out the National League's end of the arrangements. President Ban Johnson will appoint a committee from the American League to act with this committee.

Secretary Heydler is making arrangements to enlarge the National League headquarters here, as the present offices are not large enough. Great quantities of records have accumulated at headquarters and more room is necessary. The new offices will also be in the Metropolitan Tower.

It developed yesterday that the suggestion for placing a Federal League club in Corona, L. I., has been strongly advocated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. Some time ago, International League club officials were approached by the Interborough interests, and it was suggested at that time that the Jersey City franchise be transferred to Corona. President Barrow, it is stated, would not consider the proposition. Then the Federals were approached. It was the intention of the Interborough Company to build not only a big baseball park in Corona, but also an athletic field for other branches of sport, and a large amusement park. It is doubtful, however, if the project will be developed, unless a baseball franchise is obtained for the park. Woodside, which is not far from Corona, was also suggested as a possible site for one of the International League clubs, but this was also turned down.

President Barrow of the International League stated yesterday that he did not believe that Long Island was a desirable place to establish a baseball club, and he did not think even the Federal League would attempt to put one there. In relation to the reported transfer of International and American Association clubs to stave off the invasion of the Federals, Mr. Barrow said that he did not anticipate any changes this year, but next season might see a shift in the circuits.

Thirteen Games for Trinity Nine.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 19.—The Trinity College baseball management apparently does not regard the number "13" with superstition, for its schedule for the coming season, announced to-day, contains that number of games. It follows:

April 25, Bowdoin, at Hartford; 29, Rhode Island State, at Hartford; May 1, Yale, at New Haven; 2, Stevens, at Hartford; 6, Worcester Tech., at Hartford; 9, Brown, at Providence; 13, Norwich Academy, at Hartford; 16, Wesleyan, at Hartford; 20, Wesleyan, at Middletown; 23, Williams, at Williamstown; 27, Y. M. C. A. College, at Hartford; 30, Wesleyan, at Middletown; June 6, New York University, at Hartford.

Zimmerman Signs for $7,000 a Year

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Henry Zimmerman to-day signed a three-year contract at an annual salary of $7,000 to play third base for the Chicago National League Club. The new contract is for the seasons of 1915-16-17, his present contract with the Cubs holding over the coming season. The terms were not announced, but were given out by a friend of Zimmerman.

American League's Umpire Staff.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Eight of the nine umpires who will officiate in the American League were announced to-day by President Ban Johnson. The list includes, Sheridan, O'Loughlin, Connolly, Dineen, Evans, Egan, Hildebrand, and Schill. The only new one is Schill.

AMERICAN OLYMPIC FUND IS STARTED

A. A. U. President Calls for $2,000 from Union's Treasury for Berlin Games.

The apathy exhibited by England and Germany as nations in respect to the next Olympic games, to be held in Berlin in 1916, evidently has had a stimulating effect rather than a deterring one on the movement in the United States. The announcement was made yesterday that the Amateur Athletic Union, the governing body of amateur athletics in this country, would donate $2,000 to start the fund which will be required to send the United States team to Berlin. This donation will in all likelihood be followed by similar sums from the usual sources long before the time arrives for the selection of the members of the team.

Last week it was announced from Berlin and London that the movements to have formidable representations at the big games were far from popular among the substantial classes of the two nations. The Socialists in the Reichstag voted down a motion for a fund from the national treasury to carry out the elaborate plans for the games which Emperor William has announced will be the greatest of modern Olympic meets. This set back on the part of the German legislators will hardly prevent any serious hitch in the plans of the Athletic Union, for wealthy Germans have assured the German Olympic Committee of their financial support.

In England, however, a totally different state of affairs exists, as to all appearances the participation of a team to represent Great Britain in the Berlin sports has never been popularly received. Among some of the sportsmen in the tight little isle the games were declared to have too much of a professional side to be worthy the serious competitive attention of Englishmen, while with others it was the opinion that if England could not be represented by a winning team it were better not to have any sort of representation.

Up to last week when it was spread broadcast that the committee in charge of the proposed fund started by the Duke of Westminster admitted that it was futile to continue its quest for the amount of money asked for in support of the 1916 British Olympic team, it was fancied that there was little doubt of England's being represented, and well represented, despite the apathy in connection with funds.

It now develops that the words of wisdom spoken by James E. Sullivan to members of the British Olympic Council when he was in England last year immediately following the announcement at the request for $500,000 to create a crack British team contained much truth, which has since been brought home to the originators of the scheme. At that time Sullivan told the members of the council that he felt that they had made a great mistake in asking for such a large sum, as in the event of their inability to secure anything like the amount it would look like a failure.

In furtherance of the plan to safeguard American interests in the coming games, President Alfred J. Lill, Jr., of the Amateur Athletic Union yesterday instructed James E. Sullivan, Secretary of the union, to issue a call for a mail vote on the proposition to give $2,000 to the American Olympic Committee as the nucleus of a fund for the United States team.

It is thought that the various associations and officers of the organizations will vote unanimously in favor of the donation.

In addition, the individual clubs of the union will be requested to subscribe direct to the Olympic team fund, pledging a given sum to the Olympic Committee Treasurer, Julian Curtis, to be paid in full or in instalments, as may be convenient.

It is estimated that more than $150,000 will be necessary to transport and quarter the United States team of one hundred or more athletes who will represent this country in 1916. It is understood this sum will have to be in hand or pledged some months in advance of the date of the games in order that every arrangement may be made for the comfort of the athletes, trainers, and others who will make the trip to Berlin.

FOR NEW FIREARMS LAW.

Revolver Association to Draft Bill on Sensible Basis.

Active steps were taken last night at a meeting of the United States Revolver Association in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory to draft a sound and sensible law governing the sale and possession of firearms and one that will be acceptable to the Bankers' Association, the burglary insurance companies, and others. The Executive Committee was authorized after seeking legal aid to draft such a bill.

First Vice President Capt. Reginald H. Sayres suggested that there should be a team match open to all nations at the San Francisco Exposition in 1915, and that the United States Revolver Association offer prizes for revolver and pistol shooting at that time. He also suggested that the association train and enter a team. These, and his later suggestion that a special fund be started at once to defray the expenses of sending a revolver team to the Olympic games in Berlin in 1916 were put in the form of resolutions and unanimously adopted.

The officers elected for 1914 were: President, Col. W. H. Whigam of Chicago; First Vice President, Capt. R. H. Sayre, New York; Second Vice President, C. C. Crossman, St. Louis; Third Vice President, C. W. Linden, San Francisco; Fourth Vice President, R. J. Mullikin, Baltimore, and Fifth Vice President, H. H. Sear, Beverly, Mass.; Secretary-Treasurer, J. B. Crabtree, Springfield, Mass. Those present included C. S. Axtell, J. B. Crabtree, Capt. R. H. Sayre, J. E. Silliman, T. A. Davis, A. L. A. Himmelwright, R. Douglas, Norman D. Douglas, H. D. Ekerold, A. P. Lane, and J. A. Baker, Jr.

Publicity Hurt Federal, Says Hanlon

BALTIMORE, Jan. 19.—A contract was let to-day for the grading of the Federal League grounds here and work will start in a few days. Director Edward Hanlon of the local club, who returned from Chicago today, said that the Federal League was in a stronger position now than at any other time. He added that too much publicity had played into the hands of the opposition and there would be no publication of names of signed players until the league was ready to show its strength.

RACE TO BE CALLED OFF.

Kolehmainen and Kiviat Cannot Run for World's Championship.

Through their announcement that Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finn who wiped out most of the American distance records both indoors and outdoors last year, and Abel Kiviat, the holder of the world's 1,500 meter record, would take part in a two-mile race for the championship of the world next Saturday, at the games of the Fourth Company, Thirteenth Regiment, the management appears to have stirred up a hornets nest which will be the means of having the event canceled if they fail to accede to the demands of James E. Sullivan in their observance of the rules.

Mr. Sullivan has pointed out to the sponsors for the sports that no such race can be held, and, as a member of the Council of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which takes precedence over the Metropolitan Association Registration Committee, and even the Amateur Athletic Union, has shown the guardsmen athletes the error of their ways in their announcements.

At the recent Federation session in Berlin which was attended by Mr. Sullivan in behalf of the A. A. U. of the United States a rule was agreed upon to prevent the indiscriminate holding of championship events, as well as to curtail the inclination of promoters to "boost" contests as being for world's honors when no such title could be involved. The rule reads as follows:

> The championships of the Olympic games only shall be regarded as championships of the world in the respective branches of field and track sports. No other championship of the world may be held in addition to these, whether under the title of championship of the world, European championships, American, or Asiatic championships, or any other name of the kind. The committee, however, may decide on and grant exceptions to this rule. Every member of the federation shall have the right to hold its national championships according to its rules and regulations.

The military athletes have been notified that they must recall all of their announcements as far as relates to the race being for the championship of the world or anything else, as there is no power here able to grant them the sanction for such a competition.

COLUMBIA SPORTS PROBE.

Student Board to Investigate the Athletic Association.

Following the attacks on the policies of the Columbia University Athletic Association which have been printed in The Columbia Spectator for the past few weeks, the Student Board of Representatives has finally decided to make a thorough investigation of the entire department. If it is found that radical changes are needed the committee is empowered to make recommendations which will be brought before the ruling bodies. The student committee chosen for the investigation is made up of J. S. O'Neale, '14, pitcher on the 'Varsity baseball team; A. L. Graham, '14, business manager of Spectator; A. C. Rothwell, '14, a veteran of the 'Varsity crew, and C. F. MacCarthy, '14, Chairman of the board and a veteran of the four-oared crew.

The first step of the committee will be to delve into the charges made recently in The Spectator, and sift them to the bottom. The preliminary work will be done at once, but the real investigating will be left until after the mid-term examinations, which begin on Wednesday and continue two weeks. The committee is expected to make its report about the middle of February.

NAVY BOY WINS BOUT.

Willie Brown Defeats Billy Meyers at Olympic A. C.

Willie Brown, the ex-champion bantamweight of the United State Navy, won by a narrow margin in the ten-round boxing bout with Billy Meyers of Harlem at the Olympic A. C. last night. The honors were about even up to the seventh round, when the sailor cut loose and landed several telling blows on Meyers's face and body. He rushed him to a corner, where he showered him with punches, but Meyers came back in the next round and held his own. Brown again became very active in the tenth round, and made a strong finish, staggering the Harlem boy once with a hard smash to the jaw.

Bob Lee, a colored heavyweight, boxed ten rounds with Bert Whirlwind, a colored welterweight from Philadelphia. Although Lee had a decided advantage of weight and reach, the Quaker negro held him off for ten rounds by running into clinches and avoiding Lee's wild swings. There was very little boxing in this bout, as the men were in clinches most of the time. In the other bout, Artie Edwards and Kid Goodwin boxed ten fast rounds, with the honors even.

Johnston's Stable to the Fore.

"Called in the eighth on account of darkness," for years a common finish in baseball, has found its way into boxing. Such was the result of the bout between Young Mike Donovan of New York and Tommy Connors of Scranton, scheduled to go ten rounds at the Peerless A. C. of Wilkes-Barre last night. Young Mike was sailing along to an easy victory, according to Manager Jimmy Johnston, who 'phoned all the way from Wilkes-Barre after the bout, when the lights went out.

"For seven rounds Young Mike had all the best of it," declared Jimmy, "and he was going along at a fast clip in the eighth when suddenly the hall was plunged into darkness. The hall is lighted with gas, or it was lighted that way up to the eighth round. I couldn't learn whether the quarter meter supply ran out or whether it was a plan to save Connors from a harder beating without tossing in the towel and admitting defeat. Anyway the light stayed out and Mike gets the popular verdict and the bout goes into the record books as an eight-round affair instead of ten."

Yale Seniors' Admiration Vote.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 19.—Henry H. Ketcham of Brooklyn, N. Y., captain of last year's Yale football team, is the man most to be admired, and Percy G. Cornish, Jr., of Albuquerkue, N. M., another member of the eleven, is the most popular man and best all-around athlete in the class, according to the vote of the Yale academic senior class as contained in the compilation of class statistics, announced to-day.

BRITTON WINS FAST BOUT WITH GLOVER

Chicagoan's Aggressiveness Earns Him Honors at National Sporting Club.

Jack Britton of Chicago, showing more aggressiveness than he displayed in any of his previous bouts in this city, gained the honors over Mike Glover of Boston in ten fast rounds at the National Sporting Club last night. The match was a return affair, the pair having come together two months ago at Brooklyn. The punching and boxing ability which Glover showed on that occasion were not in evidence last night, and the Bostonian did not look like a winner at any time after the fourth round.

The ringside weights were 134¾ pounds for Britton and 137¼ pounds for Glover. When they faced each other in the centre of the ring there was no noticeable difference in size and neither had any advantage in height or reach. Defensive cleverness stood out strongly at every stage of the bout, and both boys wasted as many swings as were landed. The opening round was a masterpiece of defensive work, not a solid punch being landed during the three minutes, although each started several promising swings.

Britton tore in against Glover practically all the way, and it was due to his aggressiveness that the bout developed as much speed as was shown. In the seventh round Britton, after showing up strongly in a fast exchange, suddenly dropped back to a defensive attitude and did not lead for a full minute. Glover danced round and shot out his left several times, but did no damage, as Britton was backing away all the time. Before the round ended Britton was again setting the pace.

The punch that Glover employed in the recent bout at Brooklyn, when he dropped Britton in one of the early rounds, did not deter Jack from forcing matters last night. He followed Glover around the ring, driving him to the ropes time and again and forcing the Bostonian to cover up under a shower of punches. Britton's wallops did no great damage, but they reached home about three times as often as the Glover punches. Britton did his most effective work with his left, which he shot straight to the face or hooked to the stomach. Most of the punches that he started with his right landed on Glover's crossed arms or were wasted in space when the Bostonian backed away.

Glover made one strong spurt in the third round. He shot out a dozen stiff lefts to Britton's face in this chapter and forced Jack to cover up or back away during the greater part of the round. In this one round Glover did the forcing and jumped inside Britton's swings whenever Jack tried to counter as he came in. Britton missed repeatedly, but he came back strong again in the fourth and forced Glover around the ring, as he had been doing in the second round. At the same time that snappy left jab of Glover's faded from view and Mike was content to let Britton do all the forcing.

In the closing rounds Glover showed more boxing ability, evidently realizing that little chance of success rested on a single punch as he had been figuring in the early rounds when he wasted a dozen right uppercuts which started down near the floor. After getting only one of the first seven rounds Glover came back strongly enough to hold Jack even in the eighth and ninth rounds, but in the tenth Britton again showed an attack that brooked no opposition, and he outpointed Glover by a wide margin in the final round. Britton took more punches during the bout then he is accustomed to take, but at the same time he handed out far more than usually, even when he is boxing a man of no such ability as Glover possesses. Both were strong all the way, and there was no knockdown. The only signs of damage was a bleeding nose which Britton started for Glover in the opening round.

The six-round semi-final resulted in a victory for Billy Galvin over Billy Lewis. Galvin weighed 155 pounds and Lewis was four and one-quarter pounds heavier.

Carpentier Knocks Out O'Keefe.

NICE, Jan. 19.—Georges Carpentier, the French heavy weight champion, knocked out Pat O'Keefe of Ireland to-night in the second round. O'Keefe went to the floor with a right hook to the jaw and stayed there. In the first round O'Keefe was also floored, and seemed to have little chance at any time against the Frenchman.

After the fight Carpentier was challenged by "Kid" McCoy, the former American heavyweight, and by George Gunther of Australia. He said he would take on McCoy.

Coroner Exonerates Boxer Kirby.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Jan. 19.—A Coroner's Jury last night exonerated Charles Kirby, a middleweight pugilist, of responsibility for the death on Saturday of Philip Schindler, who was fatally injured in the sixteenth round of a boxing contest here on Friday night. The jury found that Schindler came to his death as the result of injuries to his spinal cord during the boxing contest. Every one connected with the fight was exonerated. Kirby, who had been in jail, was released.

Gunboat Smith to Box Willard.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 19.—Gunboat Smith, champion white heavyweight, and Jesse Willard were matched yesterday to fight a twenty-round boxing contest in this city on July 4. Willard's manager is said to have guaranteed $7,500 to Smith, win, lose, or draw. The men boxed here last May, when Smith won a decision from Willard.

Clabby and Petroskey to Box Feb. 12

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 19.—Jimmy Clabby and "Sailor" Ed Petroskey, whose illness last week caused a postponement of their boxing bout planned for last Saturday, were rematched to-day to meet Feb. 12 at Vernon. Eddie Campi, the San Francisco bantam, and Kid Williams of Baltimore also were matched for a twenty-round go at 116 pounds ringside, Jan. 31.

DOUBLES RACQUET DRAW.

National Championship to be Played Here This Week.

Six teams will compete in the national amateur doubles racquet championship to be held on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday on the courts of the New York Racquet and Tennis Club. For the first time in many years Philadelphia will not be represented. This is due to the absence of Robert K. Cassatt in Europe and the inability of George H. Brooke to get a partner. Lawrence Waterbury, the national singles champion, has entered, and his partner will probably be Payne Whitney. Should the latter be unable to play, Mr Waterbury will team up with another member of the New York Racquet and Tennis Club. George C. Clark, Jr., is also drawn for the opening day's play, but has yet to name his partner. Boston is represented by George R. Fearing and H. D. Scott, two veterans; Chicago will send C. G. Osborne and G. A. Thorne, and St. Louis will have Dwight Davis and J. W. Weur.

Two games will be played on Thursday. In the opening match G. C. Clark, Jr., and partner will face their clubmates, George M. Heckscher and Stanley Mortimer, while Lawrence Waterbury and partner are drawn against the Chicago pair, C. G. Osborne and G. A. Thorne. In the upper half of the draw for the second day's play G. R. Fearing and H. D. Scott will play the winners of the first match, while the lower half will bring together J. W. Weur and Dwight Davis and the successful pair in the second contest. The final match will be played on Saturday. The draw follows:

Thursday, 11:30 A. M., G. C. Clark, Jr., and partner, New York Racquet and Tennis Club, vs. George M. Heckscher and Stanley Mortimer, New York Racquet and Tennis Club; 1:30 P. M., C. G. Osborne and G. A. Thorne, Chicago Racquet Club, vs. Lawrence Waterbury and partner, New York Racquet and Tennis Club.

Friday, 11:30 A. M., George R. Fearing and Hugh D. Scott, Boston Racquet and Tennis Club, vs. winner of Clark and partner-Heckscher and Mortimer match; 1:30 P. M., J. W. Weur and Dwight Davis, St. Louis, vs. winner of Osborne and Thorne-Waterbury and partner match.

Saturday, 1:30 P. M., winners of semi-final round.

ARMY BLANKED ON ICE.

Princeton Hockey Team Wins by 5 to 0 at West Point.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Princeton beat the army at hockey to-day by a score of 5 to 0. The game was hard fought throughout, the Cadets showing much aggressiveness and a greatly improved game. The team work and passing for Princeton brought them victory in the first half, which ended 4 to 0 in their favor. Although Royce and Redfield made several long rushes for the army in this half, they were unable to get the puck through Winants, who played a star game at goal. Strong, the army's goal stopped some hard shots, but a little better goal tending would have kept Princeton's score down.

MacCall got the first goal for Princeton after ten minutes of hard play, taking a pass from "Hobey" Baker and shooting it through. Baker, who had his hands full to-day, got the second tally a moment later, when he charged down the rink and into the Army's net with the puck.

The second half only went five minutes, because of darkness, but during that period Shenstone, who went in for Baker at rover, skated the rink's length with the rubber and shot it past Strong in the gathering twilight for the Tiger's fifth goal. Cowan and Baker were the Princeton stars, while Royce and Milburn did good work for the Cadets. Line-up:

Army.	Positions.	Princeton.
Strong	Goal	Winants
Milburn	Point	Haskell
Prunired	Cover point	Emmons
Harris	Centre	McCall
Royce	Rover	Baker
Redfield	Right wing	Kilner
Crawford	Left wing	Cowan

Goals—McCall, Baker, Cowan, (2,) Shenstone. Substitutes—Laughlin for Winants, Shenstone for Baker. Penalties—Crawford, 2 minutes; Royce, 1 minute. Timekeeper—Cadet Rees. Referee—Lieut. Hayes. Umpire—Lieut. Purdon. Time of halves—15 and 5 minutes. Game called on account of darkness.

Irish and Wanderers on Ice.

The first game between the Irish-American and Wanderers Hockey Club teams will take place to-night at the St. Nicholas Rink. Both teams play the snappy, close checking game, and the contest should prove to be one of the most exciting games in the race for the championship.

Winners with the Cue.

The round-robin 18.2 balk line billiard tournament which has been in progress at Paul's Riverside Billiard Academy was completed last night, with J. S. Wood the winner. Wood defeated E. Z. Parker in the final by a score of 200 to 173 in forty-seven innings. His average was 4 12-47. Alex Field finished second and Parker was third. The high average of the competition was made by Parker, 5 28-38. Wood and Field were tied for the high run, each having 40. Another 18.2 balk line tournament will commence at Paul's on Thursday night, when the first game will be played between Emanuel Miller and Dr. J. W. Bracken.

The opening of the 18.2 balk line amateur billiard tournament for the Jenkins Cup began at Doyle's Billiard Academy last night. Sylvester Levy defeated S. Cortelyou by a score of 125 to 74. Each player is rated at scratch. Levy won in thirty innings and his average was 4 5-30. His high runs were 20 and 15, while Cortelyou had runs of 15 and 10. To-morrow night's game will bring together Avery and Katow.

George Sutton of Chicago, who is soon to play Willie Hoppe for titular honors at 18.2 balk-line billiards, was defeated in the first block of his match with Calvin Demarest at Keeney's Billiard Academy in Brooklyn last night, by the score of 400 to 393, in thirty-two innings.

Pootie Wins Tin Whistle Golf.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 19.—F. B. Pootie of Jefferson was the gold medal winner in to-day's tin whistle golf play on the six-point system. Twenty-seven qualified for future rounds.

LOSES MATCH WITH BORROWED FOILS

Dr. Marcovici's Weapons Protested After Winning in the First Round of Fencing.

Prohibited from the use of his Italian foils, Dr. E. Marcovici, an Italian surgeon studying in New York, last night was defeated in the final round of the novice foils competition for the Dr. Graeme M. Hammond prize at the New York A. C. city clubhouse, Fifty-ninth Street and Central Park South. Dr. Marcovici scored a clean sweep in the first round, having but eight points recorded against him. In the final round E. Strauss, one of the judges, protested on the ground that Dr. Marcovici's foil guards were 4½ inches in width, the American rules stipulating 4 inches as the maximum. The Italian fencer was stripped of his weapons and finished the competition with borrowed foils, but his lack of familiarity with the weapons handicapped him and he lost three of the four bouts.

The competition was won by F. D. O'Connor, New York A. C., after a three-cornered tie with R. Stahl, New York Turn Verein, and C. Cathcart of the same organization. In the final round each foilsman won four bouts and lost one, but under the new point system of scoring O'Connor was adjudged the winner owing to the fact that he had but 13 points scored against him, while Stahl and Cathcart were charged with 17 and 18, respectively. The bouts were keenly contested, although several were disposed of in quick order. Dr. Hammond, the donor of the prize, while acting as referee on one of the strips, was touched four times with the points of the contestants' foils and retired. The summary:

Strip No. 1.—F. D. O'Connor, New York Athletic Club, defeated W. Wienrich, New York Turn Verein, 5—1; R. Stahl, New York Turn Verein, 5—4; W. F. Staukamp, Crescent A. C., 5—0; H. H. Davis, West Side Y. M. C. A., 5—2; R. Stahl, New York Turn Verein, defeated W. Wienrich, New York Turn Verein, 5—0; W. F. Staukamp, Crescent A. C., 5—1; H. H. Davis, West Side Y. M. C. A., 5—4; H. H. Davis, West Side Y. M. C. A., defeated W. Wienrich, New York Turn Verein, 5—1; W. F. Staukamp, Crescent A. C., 5—1; W. Wienrich, New York Turn Verein, defeated W. F. Staukamp, Crescent A. C., 5—1.

NEW 18-HOLE GOLF LINKS.

Bronx County May Reconstruct Van Cortlandt Park Course.

There is a movement on foot in Bronx County to lay out a new 18-hole golf course on the big hill in Van Cortlandt Park, and a report says there will be need for new links as the number of enthusiasts of that game is increasing. The new course was planned a long time ago, but was never carried out because so many persons are swinging golf clubs on the old course all day long that it would be dangerous for workmen to attempt to make any changes.

Congested conditions in Van Cortlandt Park have been discussed recently in various taxpayers' associations of the Bronx. It is now suggested that golfers be charged a fee of 25 cents when driving from the first tee and the money be devoted to the improvement of the links.

"If a charge were made," said a Bronxite, "it would discourage a great many persons who have not real fondness for the game. It would also have the effect of eliminating those who merely 'swat' the ball, or miss it and use pointed expressions. In short, it would give the real golfers a chance."

The clubhouse in the park is at present used by the Scottish-American G. C., New York G. C., New York Newspaper G. C., and Squadron A., and another club is being formed. The links are supervised by Jules Burgevin, who has been retained by the new administration.

JUMPER HIGHBRIDGE HOME.

Old Steeplechaser Did Not Win Abroad—Handicaps Too Heavy.

Highbridge, the jumper that John R. Fell sent abroad in the Fall of 1912 in the hope of winning the Liverpool Grand National steeplechase of last year, is home again. He returned on the Minnewaska of the Atlantic Transport Line Sunday night. The old horse stood the trip well and he will probably be heard from among the best of the jumpers when the season opens. James Frayling, who fitted Highbridge for all of his good races in America went with him to England and also returned with him.

Though Highbridge did not win a race while away his performances were creditable and although he fell at the first fence in the running of the Grand National Steeplechase that mishap was in no measure a disgrace. Of the twenty-two that started there were only two that completed the course without a tumble and third money was taken down by Carsey who was remounted after he had fallen. Covertcoat was winner, with Irish Mail second.

The big son of Bridgewater and Duross was treated very harshly by the handicapper in England and when the weight he packed in handicaps is taken into consideration his showing was a remarkably good one. He was started six times in England and besides the Grand National the only other time he came to grief was in the running of the Cheshire Handicap Hurdle, in which he took up 175 pounds.

Trainer Frayling later took him to Germany but he met with no better success there, though he finished second in a steeplechase among the best horses.

It is probable that Gifford A. Cochran will be the next American sportsman to make a bid for the Liverpool Grand National. His jumper Post Boy is now in Ireland and it is Cochran's intention to point him for the race. While it would be a notable achievement for Mr. Cochran to win a victory with Post Boy it would not be a satisfying American triumph for the reason that Post Boy is Irish bred.

MORE RACING THIS YEAR.

Belmont Park, Saratoga, and Empire City in New York Circuit.

While no announcement has yet been made of the racing plans for the coming season, beyond the fact that a number of stakes have been closed, the probable schedule has been discussed by representatives of the various racing associations.

It is expected that the season will be more pretentious than in 1913 and probably the start will be made earlier. Last year Belmont Park opened its gates on May 30 (Decoration Day). For the coming season the start will not be made until some time in May, according to all that has been considered up to this time, but it will be earlier in the month. It has also been tentatively decided that the New York dates will not all be confined to Belmont Park and Saratoga. The Empire City course at Yonkers will undoubtedly have a meeting and should there be racing each day, instead of three days a week, one other of the Long Island tracks will be opened. Saratoga will take the month of August as formerly, but whether there will be any September racing over the city tracks is a question that has not yet been decided.

Bonne Chance Makes Turf Record.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Jan. 19.—Bonne Chance, Major Jefferson Livingston's great racing mare, established a new world's record for a circular track when she ran one mile on the Juarez Jockey Club course here yesterday in 1:37.

Columbia Grammar Beats Leal.

The basket ball team of Columbia Grammar School defeated the quintet from Leal's School of Plainfield, N. J., by a score of 31 to 27, on the former's court yesterday. The game was exciting from the start, Columbia Grammar leading throughout by a safe margin. This game was the third victory in four days for the team. The score:

Leal School.	Position.	Col. Grammar.
Dickerson	Right field	Cohen
Krom	Centre	Frenkel
Schneider	Right guard	Robbins

Goals from field—Dickerson, (5,) Stewart, (3,) Krom, (4,) Cohen, (3,) Harris, (4,) Frenkel, Robbins, Vernam, (4.) Goals from foul—Dickerson, (3,) Cohen, (5.) Referee—Mr. Gussenrode.

Manhattan Wins at Basket Ball.

The Manhattan College basket ball quintet defeated the All Hollow Institute aggregation in an exciting game yesterday afternoon on the floor of the Eighth Regiment Armory, by the score of 26 to 16. Superior passing and accurate shooting won the game for Manhattan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—All future athletic relations between the University of Virginia and Georgetown University will be broken off. Announcement to this effect was made here to-day following the receipt of a letter from Albert Lefevre, Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Athletics of the University of Virginia, to the Rev. Francis X. Anglim, S. J., Faculty Athletic Director, Georgetown University.

The break came as the result of the communication which charged breaches of the eligibility agreement between the two universities, which are said to have occurred on the Georgetown football team each year since 1909. In consequence, the annual football games between the two universities, as well as all other athletic contests, will be given up.

The present break is the third since Virginia and Georgetown started relations in 1895. In that time each institution has won seven football games and two ties have resulted.

Xavier Beats Fordham Prep.

The Xavier High School basket ball team defeated the Fordham Prep. five at Xavier's gymnasium yesterday afternoon by a score of 42 to 32.

ASSISTANT POSTMASTERS' TENURE.

We have received from a Brooklyn correspondent a note relating to the exemption of the places of Assistant Postmasters from the competitive test for appointment to which they are at present under the law subjected. It includes the following query:

> Is it not a fact that the incumbents were all appointed without any test whatever and solely as a reward for political services rendered to the party in power up to March 4, 1913, and "covered" into the classified service in order to prevent the incoming Administration from removing them in the manner in which they were appointed, viz., by action of the Postmasters?

It is true that the great body of the Assistant Postmasters were covered into the classified service by the order of June 30, 1912, though we believe that some 270 vacancies occurring since that time have been filled by competition. We should ourselves much prefer, when offices are classified, that the incumbents should be required to pass a competitive examination. That has not been the practice in the past, and Mr. WILSON is the first President to propose it, as he has done in the case of the Third Class Postmasters. But our correspondent is in error in supposing that the Administration is prevented from removing the classified officers. That can be done at any moment when the appointing officer chooses to put his reasons on record and to give the man whom he wishes to remove not a hearing, or a trial, but simply a chance to explain. The only reason for removal which is not permitted by law is political favoritism. This certainly gives all the range that could possibly be demanded by the good of the service.

What the rider to the Post Office bill does is to try to remedy a minor and passing wrong by a much greater and more lasting one. It would take some 2,400 places in which vacancies can be made for any good cause, and turn them over to the officeseekers. This it would do in spite of the fact that any change which may be needed could be made by the President at any time on his responsibility. We think that this is a bad thing for the service and for the interest of the Democratic Party. If it be persisted in, we think that it would be the right and the duty of the President to veto the bill to which the objectionable rider is attached. And we are confident that he would do so.

THE DELAWARE & HUDSON STRIKE.

When workers strike for higher wages or shorter hours there is a simple and concrete question which the man in the street understands. Unionists understand the Delaware & Hudson strike, which terminated last night, but it requires some explanation to the ordinary man, meaning the average non-unionist. He remarks that the union struck to compel the employment of men whom the railway did not want to employ. That seems a topsy-turvy relation between the men who earn wages and the men who pay wages, a sort of force majeure upon the stronger by the weaker. The time has passed when the unions are the weaker party in a contract of employment. Unions now not only bargain upon equal terms, they oversee and enforce the collective bargain which the law allows them to make. That is the manner in which there arises, as in this strike, a collision between the discipline of the railway upon its workers and the discipline of the union upon the railway. It is a question of fact why the men were discharged, but it is not necessary to know the facts to understand the rationale of the strike. The men disputed the railway's version of the discharges, and struck on that issue before arbitration could be tried.

That is where the union was wrong as matter of principle, even if right upon the facts. A collective bargain does not take away the legal right to strike, but it does substitute an agreement creating a prior obligation upon both parties to be guided by the agreement in settling disputes. If the railway was wrong in its discharges the fact could be shown, and the wrong remedied. The railway did not refuse this redress. It would have been time enough to strike when the railway refused such redress for wrong done, if any. By resorting to a strike the union broke the agreement.

POLICE DEPARTMENT REFORMS.

A few of the fifty-one changes in the administration of the Police Department, recommended in the report of the Curran Committee last August, which Mayor MITCHEL will put into effect at once may not turn out to be as advantageous as is hoped. But by far the larger number of them are clearly much-needed reforms. The new Headquarters' vice squads and the secret service squad must be in operation some time before the effectiveness of their work can be judged. On the other hand, the proposed measures for the systematizing of the department's work are all admirable, while the restoration of the homicide, Italian, and pickpocket squads essential to the efficiency of the force, and the rules regulating the duties of the police surgeons and the management of the Bureau of Repairs and Supplies indicate careful and intelligent study of those branches of the subject. The removal from the control of the police of the work of boiler inspection and the Health Department's inspection work is certainly a commendable reform.

Even more important are the changes for which legislative sanction will be required, and, of course, we may assume that this will be promptly forthcoming. It is true that our police should be removed from State control; in no other department is home rule more essential. An eight years' term for an efficient Commissioner, who cannot be removed without formal proceedings, will serve to encourage the occupant of the post to exert himself to the best of his ability and will greatly increase his authority. A salary of $10,000 is not too large for a competent Commissioner, by any means. The pay of patrolmen has already been increased in accordance with the recommendation of Mr. CURRAN'S Committee. Under the new conditions we may confidently look for increased police efficiency and a cessation of police scandals.

THE FUR SEAL CHARGES.

It will not do for Mr. CHARLES NAGEL, ex-Secretary of Commerce and Labor, to say that the charges preferred against him, against GEORGE M. BOWERS, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, and DAVID STARR JORDAN, Chairman of the Advisory Fur Seal Board, and others, by the special agents of the Rothermel Committee investigating the fur seal fisheries in Alaska are a "thrashing over of old straw." Instead, they involve a turning over of new pelts.

There are two new things in these charges which indicate that a continuing conspiracy to trespass upon the fur-seal herd has been going on during the entire period of the lease of the North American Commercial Company. The first thing was the discovery on the fur seal islands by the Rothermel agents, Mr. HENRY W. ELLIOTT and Mr. ANDREW F. GALLAGHER, of the "Carlisle rules," ordered May 14, 1896, which prohibit the killing of "yearlings and seals having skins weighing less than six pounds." This legal regulation, now first published, appears to have been violated under the management of DAVID STARR JORDAN, in charge of the islands in 1896, and by his successors until 1904, when the Hitchcock rules were introduced, lowering the permissible weight of skins to five and one-half pounds. The second piece of news is the report of "Exhibit F," on the catch of sealskins taken on the Pribilof Islands on July 7, 1913, the day the special agents landed, which shows that over one-third of them had been "loaded" with blubber and salt to make them come up to a legal limit which had been reduced to five pounds.

Of the 400 skins, 139 were found not to exceed thirty-four and one-half inches in length—that is, they were removed from clubbed yearlings in violation of the law. The entire consignment of skins is in cold storage in this country, together with the certification of the Government agents as to their weights and the testimony of the native skinners and salters that the practice of "loading" has been the rule for the last fifteen years.

The length of a yearling sealskin on the animal, from the tip of the nose to the root of the tail, varies from 36½ inches to 41 inches. When removed for commercial purposes, the skins average three inches shorter. Mr. WALTER I. LEMBKEY, accused in the Elliott-Gallagher report of falsely certifying the 139 yearling skins, testified before the House Committee on Expenditures on July 11, 1911, that the average length of a yearling sealskin, prepared for market, is 36½ inches. The official reports of sales in the London markets during most of the years of the North American Commercial Company's lease show annual quotas of thousands of sealskins not exceeding this length.

There is abundant evidence that male and female yearling seals cannot be distinguished in the drives of the slaughterers. It is a violation of the laws to kill the female seals, yet in his report on the condition of the fur-seal herd in 1909 Mr. G. A. CLARK, Assistant in Charge of Fur Seal Investigations, said:

> There has been on the killing grounds since 1900 a constant struggle on the part of the leasing company in the closing years of its concession to get every possible skin from the declining herd. Its work has been aided by a high arbitrary legal quota and by a lowered minimum weight of skin, enabling it to gradually anticipate the quotas of succeeding years by killing younger animals. As a result, there has occurred in these years the close killing to which the herd has ever been subjected. Aside from the diminishing supply of male life on the breeding grounds in 1904, this is shown in the fact that, though the herd has declined two-thirds in size, the quota has never fallen more than one-third in size, as compared with that of 1897.

Mr. CLARK'S report was suppressed by the Government officials at Washington, the Rothermel agents charge, and further violations of the law were authorized by them. The losses since 1896 due to the illegal and ruthless slaughter of seals is calculated by the investigating experts at not less than $48,000,000. If the new evidence reviving the old charges of conspiracy to trespass upon the Government's property is sufficient, and if it be proved that the Government officials knowingly misrepresented the case to Congress, criminal prosecutions and suits for heavy civil damages will ensue.

A TOO SWEEPING INDICTMENT.

Cardinal O'CONNELL does no more than his plain duty when he denounces the sins of contemporary society. They are many and flagrant, and the evil influences that beset youth in this hour cannot be too strongly condemned. The Church should use its influence to abate the nuisances and evils which seem to threaten the stability of the social fabric. All decent citizens will sympathize with the Massachusetts Cardinal's protest against bad plays, vulgar dances, immoral literature, coarse conversation, and fashions in dress which violate good taste. But the moral reformer who goes too far in his denunciations of social vice is likely to defeat his own purpose. The present vogue of dancing as a social pastime is not indicative of the growth of immorality in society. Some dancing is indecent, just as some of the magazines are needlessly vulgar. But only an insignificant minority of the men and women who make up contemporaneous society favor low amusements, dress without regard to decency, read vile books, and haunt those moving-picture shows which the police watch so closely.

Cardinal O'CONNELL'S indictment of society therefore is entirely too sweeping. We are not all bad, by any means. Not all of us are cloaking inherent evil propensities under a pretense of uplifting our fellow-men by talking and writing continually about things evil. There are many more good people in the world than bad. Society is more decent than it has been in any other epoch of the world's history. Nevertheless, there are serious evils to be combated, and we hope that the Cardinal, with some sensible amendment of his indictment, will keep up the good fight.

THE CITY AND ITS RAILROADS.

If Mr. MALCOLM R. MCADOO, whose letter is published elsewhere on this page, is right in his contention that the City of New York as the owner and builder of the subways is subject to the general railroad law, precisely like a private corporation organized only for building and operating railways, then the Public Service Commission's new subway and station plans at Forty-second Street will have to be modified. Under the railroad law a private railroad corporation cannot abandon any part of its line; enjoying the right to condemn property for its use, it assumes the obligation to operate in perpetuity. The Court of Appeals has ruled that the city's relation to its subways is that of a proprietor, it is not governmental in its character.

But with the approval of the Public Service Commission, the Interborough Company, which is the city's lessee, proposes to abandon its regular service over its Forty-second Street line, maintaining two tracks where the line turns into Times Square merely for emergency use. It is Mr. MCADOO'S belief that this would be a violation of the law, that the city cannot abandon any part of its subway lines. That is a point of law, but there is another important consideration which the Commission has strangely overlooked. After inflicting very great but unavoidable injury and loss upon the merchants and property owners at Forty-second Street during the period while the subway is under construction, it is now proposed that they shall be deprived of the benefit accruing to them from the operation of the road. If the proposed abandonment of this part of the service is illegal, so much the better. Then right plans will be substituted for the proposed wrong plans, but the moral obligation is hardly inferior to that imposed by the law. It would be an outrageous wrong put upon the property owners and the business men at Forty-second Street now to take away from them what it cost them so much to acquire.

Besides, if continuous daily operation over this part of the line is to be abandoned, then the Interborough tracks under Broadway at the south end of Times Square should be removed so that the B. R. T. Company's Broadway line may at the point be built at the first level. The use of these obstructive tracks for emergencies would be but a poor compensation for the inconvenience put upon the patrons of the B. R. T. line by forcing them to descend to the lower level to reach the trains. The present plans are objectionable; they have not been and cannot be successfully defended.

BE PATIENT.

The urgent need of better accommodations for the United States Courts and the Federal District Attorney's offices in this city amply justifies the measures Attorney General MCREYNOLDS and District Attorney MARSHALL are taking to occupy the rooms in the Mullet Post Office Building, soon to be vacated by Postmaster MORGAN and his staff, and quarters as well in a neighboring building. But it seems a pity that so large a sum as $200,000 must be expended on this temporary work when the need of a new Federal building in this city is so well understood at Washington and the people of New York are anxious for the removal of MULLET'S unsightly example of architecture of the Reconstruction Period from the City Hall Park as quickly as possible and the restoration of that part of the park which it has incumbered for a whole generation to its original uses.

Senator O'GORMAN has a bill before Congress to authorize the construction here of a building to accommodate all the United States courts and the District Attorney's offices, with room to spare for the use of other officers of the National Government. There was some talk quite recently of a sightly civic centre in Manhattan where a site could be found for this proposed new building and others. But we must be patient.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

He Needs a Sense of Proportion.

EDWARD BEARDSLEY, though by fair assumption long exposed to the mollifying and refining influences suggested by the name of his county, which is Chautauqua, has for a week been carrying on with an astonishing measure of success an open war against the Government of the United States as represented by the local authorities. Single-handed he has kept them at bay, and so respectful are they of their antagonist that they have contented themselves with laying siege to his fortress. While his ultimate surrender seems inevitable, from present indications it will be with military honors and on conditions formulated by him, not them.

If BEARDSLEY wrote without assistance, as seems probable, the address "To the People of Chautauqua and the State of New York," which came from him on Sunday, it reveals that he is a man of some education and no little power of expressing himself lucidly on paper—not a common ability in, or, for that matter, out of, rustic circles. Whether "edited" or not, the address goes far toward explaining what the man has done.

It shows him to be what a harsh critic—one of the deputies, for instance, at whom he has been taking an occasional shot with his Winchester—would call a victim of egomania. Others will see him as merely exhibiting in somewhat more than ordinary degree that fierce resentment of interference with his private affairs which is a natural consequence of isolated living. That he objected as he did to the removal of his children from his care and control, cannot, of course, be commended, but he seems to have had something like an excuse for resistance in the irregularity of the papers served on him, and, after all, hardly any home is a worse place for a child than are the great majority of country poorhouses. Perhaps that in Chautauqua is an exception to the rule, but BEARDSLEY went too far, rather than in a wrong direction, in endeavoring to prevent the proposed disposition of his big brood.

Presumably a very pig-headed person, he nevertheless excites a little sympathy by his appeal as a parent to parents, as well as by his courage—in such marked contrast with the discretion of his besiegers—and though he is waging an absurd and foolish warfare, one does glimpse vaguely in it a trace of heroism, misguided but admirable. That is a peculiarity of courage—it is the fundamental, primordial virtue, and nobody can help liking it, no matter by whom shown or in what cause.

He Has One Admirer At Least.

Chautauqua County is not alone in developing self-appreciation. Not many more remarkable letters have ever been received in this office than is one that comes to us from an address in this city, signed, for publication, "The American Poet," and as a guarantee of good faith with a name that has been notable in this vicinity ever since early Colonial days. In order that our readers may judge for themselves whether it is amusing or pathetic we give it in full:

> Opposed in narrow places, I appeal to a world more wide. I have written an Indian epic poem containing over 6,000 rhymed lines. Were this work placed before the impartial public men would no more lament the decline of poetry, for here is the greatest song of love and war that was ever composed; but in seeking a publisher I offer pearls in vain.
> I am prepared to appear before any literary tribunal and prove in one hour's recital that a poet of the highest rank is now living; yet do I feel that never will such hearing be accorded. I must pay with my life the prophet's debt to envy, and not while I live will my song be accepted. They that have me denied would have mocked the Son of Mary—would have crowned with thorns the King.

A postscript "begs" that if this communication be printed it may appear just as written, "though of course with defective spelling corrected," and a stamp is inclosed for its return if not available. The spelling is beyond criticism—except by the simplifiers—and the availability is obvious. The letter, however, is written on lined paper, and our Poetry Editor says that hardly once in all the years during which he has been engaged in a trade so much more dreadful than that of the samphire gatherer has he been moved to accept verses written on paper of that kind. It is not, he declares, that he has an idiosyncratic antipathy to lines on paper, but that the verses written on it are always bad. That's as may be, and, anyway, perhaps "The American Poet" uses unlined paper for epics.

Like Scenes in the Middle Ages.

Though the march of the Mexican refugees from Presidio to Marfa has lacked the element of desperate fear which urged them through the desert between Chihuahua and Ojinaga, it nevertheless combined not a little of the tragic with the picturesque and the pathetic, and, as an episode in, or resulting from, modern war, it seems strangely anachronistic.

In quite mediaeval fashion, the distinction between combatants and non-combatants disappeared. Soldiers and civilians mingled on the mountain road, and women and children shared with men the toils and hardships of the journey. All prisoners, in a way, and going, as they knew, to imprisonment likely to be of considerable duration, they yet were docile and grateful to the alien troops, hitherto not loved, who were the helpers and protectors rather than the guards of the strange company.

Probably a few of them can remember when Texas, too, was Mexico, and none was, till recently without a sense of grievance and resentment that the boundary was moved to the southward. To the change, however, most of these fugitives owe their lives, and that fact doubtless has much to do with their present contentment with their lot.

Being so numerous, they are expensive guests or wards, and the cost of their entertainment will add appreciably—perhaps—to the foreign debt which Mexico of late so recklessly has been piling up. They will learn that the "gringos" are not such a bad lot, and in that there may be some real advantage.

AMERICAN GIRLS ABROAD.

Their Ideas of "Sex Equality" Make Them Weak Before Temptation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The writer, who has lived abroad for many years, and is thoroughly conversant with conditions in European countries, has read with great interest your Berlin correspondence in yesterday's edition headed "To check slander about students," and would say regarding this very important subject that grave danger does exist for young girls unattended and unchaperoned in European cities, especially on the Continent, owing largely to disregard of the conventions which, there, must be considered to a much greater extent than on this side of the water. Such can be readily traced back to the demoralizing effect of suffrage teachings in many of our girls' schools and colleges. For back of the same, mildly speaking, is the "bohemian idea," which means that a girl can do with impunity all that the boy does or can do, and is capable of taking care of herself under all circumstances or environments.

It is unfortunately a well-known fact that many suffragists are outspoken in their advocacy of the "free love" doctrine, while the opinion of a very large percentage tends in that direction. The "propaganda" carries such a tendency, although some of its followers may not yet be fully conscious of the fact. It must be readily understood by people who have lived abroad that girls with such views are readily drawn into the maelstrom of bohemianism, and in many instances to its greatest depths, when not placed under proper guardianship.

The danger, therefore, does not lie in sending young girls to Europe for study, but in primarily subjecting them to the virus of false teachings, and then sending them abroad not properly chaperoned.

When the mother, a near relative, or friend, cannot accompany a young girl, she should be placed under the protection and chaperoned by an experienced lady, thoroughly conversant with conditions, preferably an American, and such can be found in all the large European cities, and where addresses are not known they can be readily obtained by writing to the pastors of the American churches, the American Embassies or reliable friends residing in the city to which the girl is to be sent.

SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE.

Spanish Clubs Formed to Help United States Capture It.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Going over the figures recently published in THE TIMES apropos the amount of foreign trade handled by the leading countries during 1913, it appears that the American business man is still waiting for the foreign trade to come to him instead of going after it. But it will not come, and it is useless to wait for our Latin-American friends to learn our language and business methods and then come to deal with us. Considering the strong competition for their trade, we must go after them, and see whether we cannot come to an understanding with them.

Some have already started. The Board of Education is spending heavy sums yearly teaching Spanish in its different institutions, the most important of which is the Commercial High School of Brooklyn. This school gives a four-year course in the Spanish language, and it is more complete than that given in any other public school in Greater New York. Yet the course provided by the Board of Education is not thorough enough to enable a fair percentage of students to fill a place in a business house where Spanish may be used. In view of this fact, a Spanish Club was organized four years ago in the aforementioned school, with the object of fitting the student for practical work. The club is still in existence, and will exist on account of the good work it has done for the school.

Recently a club was organized under the name of "The Spanish Commercial Club." Its members are young men making use of the language in their daily business, (export and import,) and it is their intention to help the school club in its activities. This club wishes to notify the American business man that the Board of Education, with the help of such outside activities and organizations, is preparing young men to go into the possibilities of our foreign trade and is anxious to be advised.

CONSUMERS SHOULD UNITE.

Co-operative Buying Would Help to Lower Cost of Living.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Samuel Untermyer would protect consumers from extortionate trusts through a price-fixing commission. Why should not consumers themselves unite to take a hand in price-making, in which they have such a vital interest? First-hand sales are now made by the trust to the middleman, who, as a class, has no incentive to lower prices to consumers, but does control the distributive machinery which permits and promotes high prices. The consumer is given no effective hearing in the determining of final prices.

In England millions of consumers are organized in local groups, which in turn are federated. The representative of consumers having some $800,000,000 of purchasing power is listened to, and finds a way to get goods at prices based upon the necessary cost of production.

Has not the time come for American consumers to cease discussing and organize in their own behalf, as other large interests have done? It is quite possible that organization on the Rochdale co-operative plan or some similar plan would make a difference which would be indicated by a real reduction in the family budget.

SUBWAY PLAN ILLEGAL?

Mr. McAdoo Says City Cannot Abandon Existing Tracks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to me that the legal side of the Times Square and Forty-second Street situation is being overlooked. I am not a lawyer, but am familiar with the railroad law, the Public Service Commissions law, and the Rapid Transit act of the State of New York of necessity on account of my profession, and based upon this knowledge which is, however, that of a layman, I believe that if the proposed plans of the Public Service Commission for stations at Times Square are carried out, thereby necessitating an abandonment of the operation of a thorough service through Forty-second Street, the city will be confronted with a serious legal complication.

The Court of Appeals in its decision of Dec. 17, 1909, as fully reported on Pages 341 to 365 of the Annual Report of the Public Service Commission for the First District of New York for 1909, Volume I, defines the status of the subway as follows:

> The work undertaken by the City of New York in constructing its subway was proprietary, not governmental, in its character.
> The city was permitted, but not required, to build the subway. It was a business enterprise on its part, through which money might be made or lost, the same as if it had been owned by a railroad corporation.
> The use of the street for the subway is not a street use as that term is known in the law, but is one foreign to the purpose for which the street was created. Not being a street use, although a public use, liability attached to the city in favor of the owner of the fee in the street to the same extent as if a railroad company had constructed its road beneath the surface thereof, and such owner is entitled to the full value of his property actually taken, &c.

The decision of the court in effect is that the subway, although owned by the city, is subject to the railroad laws just as is any railroad corporation. The railroad law gives railroad corporations the right of eminent domain, i. e., the right to condemn property for railroad use, or to acquire or condemn permanent and perpetual underground rights, easements, and rights-of-way for the construction, operation, and maintenance in perpetuity of railroads.

The right to condemn carries with it the obligation to operate. No railroad has the right to condemn properties until it has had made a map and profile of the route adopted by it in each county, certified by the President and engineers of the corporation or a majority of the Directors, and has filed them in the office of the Clerk of the County in which the road is to be made, and until it shall have given written notice to all occupants of lands over which the route of the road is so designated.

Every railroad corporation has the right to make changes, prior to or during construction, by a vote of two-thirds of all its Directors, in the route or any part of the route of any part of its road, but after such road is built and placed in operation Section 24 of the railroad law provides that no portion of the track of any railroad as described in its certificate of incorporation shall be abandoned.

The plans for stations as now designed by the Public Service Commission at Times Square, if carried out, will render it impossible to operate all parts of the subway as described in its certificate of incorporation and as built.

I do not believe that the Public Service Commission or any other body is vested with the right to make such changes in the construction of the present Subway as will necessitate this, or that the Public Service Commission or any other body has the right to abandon operation over any part of the tracks of the same.

Censorship of Billboards.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The recent action of the Bill Posters' Association in adorning various fences with the splendid multicolor "Nativity" leads to an inevitable train of thought. The members of the association propose to continue this good work by exhibiting other elevating pictures from time to time. This excellent idea will tend to make the members who post illustrations of a debasing nature consider the incongruity between a "Nativity" and a "Lure," and many other such vicious pictures.

So that this picture, the original of which is in the Church of the University of Notre Dame, Indiana, will have the credit of starting the bill posters on the right track. They will in future, let us hope, draw the line strictly as to pictorial affronts to decency. They have started well. Let the good work go on.

Protection Against Chills.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As regards the warding off of cold chills, a subject discussed by C. E. U. recently in THE TIMES, permit me to say there is no better means than deep breathing. When one is inactive the blood flows through the arteries mainly, the extremities of the body thereby becoming chilled, but when one becomes active, thus causing the diaphragm to work and inflate the lungs fully, the blood is sent coursing through the veins and the entire body is warmed.

THE STORK'S MISTAKE.

The longest while I've putted out a basket ev'ry night,
And then I've run to see, as soon as
came the morning light,
There's never any baby in it 't all!

And ev'ry time we go out on the water in a boat,
I coax and coax until they take me
where the lilies float,
They're always empty 'cept for buzzy
bees!

Some people think the kind you find in hollow stumps is best;
They're always empty, only once I found a little nest
Of funny teenty naked chirpy birds,

I don't b'lieve that they ever come in cabbages, do you?
I think they're fooling; it don't sound to me exactly true,
But when one's cut I always stay to see.

And oh, dear me! I don't think it's the very leastest fair!
Last night the stork brought two across the street, and left them there.
That one was meant for me I'm certain sure.

I b'l'eve I'll go across and say in just my p'litest voice:
"Of course one baby's truly mine, but you may choose your choice."
Then, course, they'll give the bestest one to me.

CORA LAPHAM HAZARD.

THE PUBLIC DEFENDER

Offsets the Public Prosecutor in Los Angeles.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Among the reforms recently effected in Los Angeles was the creation of the office of Public Defender. The county charter provides for an officer whose duty shall be to defend persons accused of crime in the Superior Court, when financially unable to employ counsel, upon request of such persons or upon order of the court. In matters of a civil nature he must represent persons without means in recovering sums due for labor and other demands not exceeding $100. He must also defend such persons when unjustly harassed by others. Provision is made for the payment of costs from the county treasury.

From time immemorial the Government has provied an attorney to prosecute cases against persons accused of crime and a Judge or jury to make decision; but no proper provision has been made for an attorney to present the side of the accused. It is true that courts appoint members of the bar to defend the poor, without compensation or for a nominal fee, but such appointments generally fall to youthful and inexperienced lawyers or, in many cases, to attorneys who chance to be in the court room at the moment of arraignment. It is not fair to the attorneys to be called upon to work without compensation, and it is not fair to the accused to be compelled to stand trial under such circumstances. A person accused of crime should have just as able and industrious an advocate to represent him as the Government provides for the purpose of prosecuting him. If he does not have such a defense he does not enter court on an equal footing. To deny him such a defense is to thwart the spirit which pervades the administration of criminal law. The Government provides skillful and experienced lawyers to prosecute; it should do no less for the defense.

It may be contended by some that the District Attorney can safeguard the rights of the accused in all cases. Doubtless more care is taken by prosecuting officers in cases against the indigent than in other cases, and very properly so. Both in theory and practice, however, it is impossible for the prosecutor to represent both sides. The law imposes upon him the duty to prosecute the accused and makes no provision for him to defend. If one officer could act for both sides there would be no need for either a prosecutor or defender, for the Judge could handle the matter alone. In practice the prosecutor cannot represent the accused, for long usage has so defined his duties that public opinion, the ultimate arbiter in popular government, demands a vigorous prosecution. It is unreasonable to contend that the prosecutor can safeguard the rights of the accused.

Prosecuting attorneys daily are pitted against able lawyers employed by accused persons of means. They necessarily become skillful, wary, and vigorous in the conduct of the cases. It would not be natural to expect a sudden change from the habit thus formed upon the arraignment of an indigent defendant.

The calls for the services of the public defender in civil matters have already become so numerous as to make of the office a veritable legal county hospital. The amount for which we are allowed to sue is small, but the small claims for wages and the like are more important to the poor than are large claims to the wealthy. We are able to adjust many such claims without action at court and can bring about quick results. The creation of an office to handle matters of this kind fills a crying need. Hitherto in Los Angeles, as in many other cities, such work has been done through the Legal Aid Society, which has been supported by voluntary subscriptions and which has been greatly hampered by lack of funds and other facilities. The work is now being systematically handled with abundant financial support provided by the county.

TOM L. JOHNSON'S ESTATE.

Appraisal Shows Cleveland Man's Holdings in This State.

Tom L. Johnson, four times Mayor of Cleveland, who died in Cleveland on April 10, 1911, left a gross estate in New York of $212,136 and a net New York estate of $90,881. Several parcels of real estate near Fort Hamilton in Brooklyn, left to him by his mother, Mrs. Helen L. Johnson, were appraised at $170,650.

Mr. Johnson had pledged 621 bonds and 8,538 shares of stock in the New Jersey & Pennsylvania Traction Company as security for certain debts. He retained, however, an interest in these stocks and bonds amounting to $14,810. He had a claim for $9,100 against the estate of his brother, Albert, and had money due him amounting to $17,576. Since Mr. Johnson died intestate, his property goes to his wife, Mrs. Margaret J. Johnson; his son, Loftin E. Johnson, and his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Mariani. Mrs. Johnson and Charles M. Bates of Trenton, N. J., were appointed administrators of his estate.

STEEL TESTIMONY RESUMED

Competition of Smaller Concerns Taken Up at St. Louis Hearing.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 19.—Competition between the smaller steel manufacturers was unusually active in 1913, according to the testimony of Arch McGregor of Springfield, Mo., who was the first witness to-day at the hearing here in the Government suit to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation.

Mr. McGregor testified that of 2,000 tons of various steel goods which he bought last year 90 per cent. came from the American Steel and Wire Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation. The American Steel and Wire Company, he said, at times reduced its prices to meet competition, but he said he dealt with that firm not because of its price quotations but because of the quality of its goods.

Thomas J. Frier, purchasing agent of the Wabash Railroad said that he bought rails and other supplies on competitive quotations. Quotations varied, he said, and the firm making the lowest bid got the business.

Witnesses for the defense are to be examined at the St. Louis hearing.

500 STEEL MEN GO BACK.

Wisconsin Company to Take On 1,500 More Next Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The Wisconsin Steel Company, the second largest metal plant in the Calumet district of Chicago, to-day took back 500 of its former employes and announced that 1,500 more would be put to work before next Monday.

The action of the steel concern, following that of the Illinois Steel Company, which last week opened its gates to 3,000 steel workers, occasioned great joy in South Chicago.

"Prospects are bright," said D. E. Rose, Superintendent of the Wisconsin Steel Company, "and we look forward to a year of big business. Everything will be going full blast soon."

PUTS CHICAGO FIRST IN FINANCE ZONE

PLEAS FOR RESERVE BANK

Bankers Want Too Much Territory, Leaving Little Capital for Other Cities, Says McAdoo.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 20.—This city was advocated to-day as the logical location for the second largest Federal Reserve Bank to be established under the currency law. The leading bankers and business men of the West, Middle West, and the Northwest were united in their testimony before Secretaries McAdoo and Houston that this city's "zone of influence" entitled it to this recognition. The single exception to such a plan came from a delegation representing Minneapolis.

James B. Forgan, President of the First National Bank, said:

"I believe that all of Illinois should be included in the Chicago territory. All of Iowa and Michigan should be included, if only eight regional banks are to be established. If Minneapolis or St. Paul should not receive a reserve bank, then the Chicago district should include Minnesota and the Dakotas. Nebraska, also, should be included, and we have a good claim to a large part of Ohio and Kentucky."

"If you take up that territory," said Secretary McAdoo," there would be but three-fourths of the capital left for the other seven banks. If the suggestion of the New York bankers that they be given the predominant bank should be accepted, in addition to your request, there would be 75 per cent. of the capital apportioned between New York and Chicago. That wouldn't leave much for the other cities."

"That question is for you to decide," responded Mr. Forgan. "From out point of view Chicago is the centre, and New York is only on the circumference of the financial circle of the country."

"You would make the New York bank a branch of Chicago, then?" suggested Mr. McAdoo, to the laughter of the audience.

"I would," responded the Chicago banker.

"What cities would you say should have reserve banks?" asked Secretary McAdoo.

"My belief is," replied Mr. Forgan, "that such banks should be established in New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco, St. Paul or Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Baltimore or Philadelphia."

George M. Reynolds, President of the Continental and Commercial National, said Chicago should have a bank with a capital of $24,000,000, while New York's bank should have a capital of $28,000,000.

"The whole scheme of the regional banks as I look at it," said Mr. Reynolds, "is somewhat of an experiment, and I have not complete confidence in the scheme yet. I believe that we should start with the smallest number of banks possible, and let the additions grow as a matter of evolution."

John G. Shedd, President of Marshall Field & Co., said the territory which should be credited to Chicago should run south to a line drawn eastward from St. Louis, north to the Canadian border, west to include Montana and Colorado, and eastward to Ohio.

"I take it for granted," Mr. Shedd added, "that this effort is being made to facilitate business through the natural arteries and channels. I take it for granted that the natural movement of business in this country is from the West to the East and by the same logic from the Southwest to the Northeast."

J. G. Rounds of Des Moines, Frank Epperson of Eddyville, Q. M. Davis of Iowa City, and John McHugh of Sioux City urged that not only Iowa but Nebraska and that part of South Dakota served by Sioux City banks should be included in the Chicago territory. It was inconceivable, they contended, that Iowa should be annexed to any financial centre other than Chicago.

Similar arguments were put forward by George H. Russell and William G. Gray of Detroit.

"We do the bulk of our business with Chicago," said Mr. Russell. "It would be a great error to attach us to some Eastern territory. Later, when more banks are established than the original eight contemplated, Detroit will wish to have a regional bank of her own."

Joseph Chapman, Vice President of the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis, urged that that city should have a reserve bank. He added that he believed the New York bank should be as large as possible.

"The New York bank should stand as a bulwark between Europe and the United States," he said. "Europe will be more impressed with the scheme the larger you make the New York bank."

OPPOSES ALASKAN RAILWAY.

Proposed Federal Road a Step Toward Socialism, Says McCumber.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The bill proposing the building of a Government railway in Alaska was attacked to-day by Senator McCumber as the first step toward "the realm of paternalistic and socialistic government." There is an agreement for a final vote on the bill on Thursday.

Amendments adopted to-day by the Committee on Territories would provide for the taking over by the Government of any existing lines necessary, would limit the cost to $35,000,000 and the length of the proposed line to 1,000 miles.

Senator McCumber said experience had shown that it cost the Government twice as much as a private concern to operate any enterprise. Arguments for agricultural development in Alaska, he said, were without merit, the fact being that the great majority of the products named in statistics read into the record came from districts accessible by sea, or which it was not proposed to tap with the projected railroad.

Referring to a statement of Senator Clarke of Wyoming that naval tests showed that Bering coal was unsuitable for the navy, Senator Jones replied that he had a letter from a former member of Congress saying that the coal used in the naval tests was not properly gathered, and did not furnish a fair sample of the product of the Bering field.

$350,000 GIFTS TO YALE.

Raise Endowment for University School of Religion to $1,200,000.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 19.—Announcement was made at a meeting of the Yale Corporation to-day that gifts and pledges of $350,000 had been obtained for the development of the Yale Divinity School into a University School of Religion. These gifts will increase the endowment of the school to over $1,200,000.

Among the gifts were $100,000 from Mrs. D. Willis James and Arthur Curtiss James of New Haven; $80,000 from Mrs. Stephen Merrell Clement of Buffalo, N. Y., and an anonymous gift of $100,000, the latter to found a chair of social service.

Other gifts to the university include the endowment by Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Hotchkiss of New Haven of two scholarships of $500 each in memory of their sons, Royall and Philo, who were killed in the railroad wreck at North Haven last September.

A portrait of James Gates Percival, Yale 1815, the poet and geologist, was presented to the corporation by Harvard University.

Dr. J. S. Haldane of Oxford, England, a brother of Lord Haldane, was chosen as Silliman lecturer next year.

MRS. GILBERT, BRIDE OF CAPT. DUGMORE

Widow of H. Bramhall Gilbert Married to British Army Officer at Her Home.

50 AT WEDDING BREAKFAST

Bridal Pair to Live in Waverley Abbey, Surrey, and New York—Bridegroom Fought in Africa.

The wedding of Capt. Cyril Patrick William Francis Radclyffe Dugmore, late of the British Army Corps and now on the reserve of officers, and Mrs. Lilla B. Gilbert, widow of H. Bramhall Gilbert and a daughter of the late William V. Brokaw, was celebrated quietly yesterday at 12 o'clock in the apartment of the bride at 903 Park Avenue. The ceremony took place in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends, the Rev. Father William Martin of St. Patrick's Cathedral officiating.

Mrs. Gilbert wore an afternoon gown of deep rose red velvet, trimmed with sable, a velvet hat of the same shade, trimmed with red roses and sable, and carried a large sable muff. Miss Florence W. Gilbert, her second daughter, was her maid of honor and only attendant. She was gowned in sapphire blue velvet, trimmed with chinchilla fur, and her blue velvet hat was trimmed with chinchilla. She carried a muff of blue tulle, matching her costume in color.

Capt. Dugmore's best man was Henry Campbell Graef. There were no ushers. The apartment was decorated with masses of American Beauty roses in tall vases. After the ceremony a breakfast was served to about fifty relatives and guests, who included the Brazilian Ambassador and Mme de Gama, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford V. Brokaw, Dr. Preston Satterwhite and Mrs. Satterwhite, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Renshaw, W. G. Brokaw, ex-Ambassador John G. Leishman, Mrs. Harry Campbell Graef, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Nixon, Mrs. Lloyd Bowers of Washington, Mrs. Gouverneur Kortright, Miss Elise W. Ladew, Miss Betty Gilbert and Harry W. Gilbert, Col. Charles Page Bryan of Chicago, Thomas Kearney, E. C. Jones, Harvey Ladew, and Lawrence Atterbury.

Capt. Dugmore and his bride have taken Waverley Abbey in Surrey, England, which was at one time the property of his great-grandfather, Lord Brougham of Vaux. They intend to spend six months of each year in England and six months in New York and at Sunshine, Mrs. Dugmore's country estate at Great Neck, L. I. They will sail in May to remain in England until October.

The engagement was announced in these columns on Oct. 9. Mrs. Dugmore has three daughters, Mrs. Howard P. Renshaw, the Misses Florence and Betty Gilbert, and a young son, Harry W. Gilbert.

Capt. Dugmore is a son of the late Capt. Francis S. Dugmore, who died in 1898. His mother, the Hon. Evelyn Dugmore, lives at Brockhurst, Guernsey, Channel Islands. She is a granddaughter of Lord Brougham of Vaux. Capt. Dugmore was born in 1868, entering the Prince of Wales's Regiment in 1894. He served in the East African Arab war, the Uganda mutiny, and the South African war and received many medals. Following the Uganda mutiny he was made a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order.

MISS PERKINS A BRIDE.

Married to C. Talbot Smith-Hanan in Church of the Transfiguration.

The wedding of Miss Florence Amelia Perkins and C. Talbot Smith-Hanan was solemnized yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Church of the Transfiguration. The Rev. Dr. George C. Houghton performed the ceremony. There was no reception, but on their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hanan will give a reception for them at 1,073 Fifth Avenue.

The bride wore a coat costume of white ottaman silk trimmed with bands of skunk and topped with a small white hat. She carried white roses and gardenias, and walked to the altar with her mother, who gave her in marriage.

The attendants were Miss Madeline Whittier, gowned in purple velvet, and little Miss Alberta Barnard Crafts, who, as flower girl, wore a frock of Irish lace and batiste. They both carried large bouquets of yellow and white roses.

J. Bernard Miller, Harvard, class of '14, an old friend of Mr. Smith-Hanan, was best man, and there were four ushers, Allen Story, Edward Jordan, Lloyd Rider Stark, and Albert Sumner Church. The bride's going away costume was of seal brown broadcloth with a turban to match. Mr. and Mrs. Hanan left on the 12:28 train for Palm Beach to be gone three months. Mrs. Hanan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Rodman Perkins of Providence, R. I. Her father is ill at his home.

At the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hanan, the latter wearing a costume of taupe velvet and osprey-trimmed taupe tricorn hat; Mrs. Virginia Sands, Mrs. A. B. Crafts, Miss Eunice Parker, Miss Elizabeth Hanan, and her fiancé, the Duke Arturo di Durazzo, Mrs. L. J. B. Somerville, Miss Amittai Somerville, Mrs. Alice Foster, and Mrs. Albert Hanan.

Van Slyke-Stearns Wedding.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Rob Roy Converse of Rochester, N. Y., have issued invitations for the marriage of their sister, Miss Katherine Carlton Stearns, to George W. Van Slyke of Albany, N. Y., which is to take place next Saturday at their home. The couple will go to Panama on their bridal journey, and will make their home in Albany on their return.

TWO RECITALS.

Lillian Wiesike and Karel Havlicek Contribute to a Day's Music.

Miss Lillian Wiesike, a singer unknown to the wider musical circles of New York, who is described as a "lyric soprano," gave a recital yesterday in Aeolian Hall, in which she showed a voice of pleasant and individual quality and some skill in making use of it. But neither the voice nor the skill, nor the artistic feeling and temperament back of them, was sufficient to make Miss Wiesike's offerings of great importance as a part of the public musical doings of New York.

Her aims are high, and her efforts are praiseworthy on this account. Her programme contained a number of the best and most artistic songs of the lieder singer's repertory, ranging from old airs by Marcello and Lotti and songs by Beethoven, Schubert, and Schumann, to later ones by Brahms, Wolf, Reger, and Strauss. And for accompanist she had the superlatively finished artist, Mr. Coenraad V. Bos. Much might be said of the various excellences of his accompaniments. The singer's performance pleased a friendly audience of considerable numbers.

At the same time in a smaller place, the Little Theatre, another artist new to New York and apparently still less widely known, gave a violin recital, Mr. Karel Havlicek. He is American born, notwithstanding his Bohemian name, and is said to have gained his training partly in Europe, partly in this country. He showed serious purpose and no inconsiderable talent and musical feeling in Veracini's D minor sonata; a large, if not beautiful, tone and a considerable but not yet finished technique. His delivery of cantillena has something of breadth and dignity. He was hardly wise in putting Paganini's D major concerto on his programme, for the only value and interest that composition can be made to possess is through a brilliant, sweeping, and technically perfect performance of its bravura passages; and Mr. Havlicek's performance had not enough of those qualities. His intonation, except in the most difficult of these figures, was good. He is young and should develop artistically.

WILL GIVE DRAMATIC FETE.

Suffragists to Celebrate Leaders' Birthdays at Biltmore Feb. 16.

The first woman's organization to christen the new Hotel Biltmore will be the New York State Woman Suffrage Association, Mrs. Raymond Brown, President, which will have a dramatic tea and fête on Monday afternoon, Feb. 16, to celebrate the birthdays of the late Miss Susan B. Anthony and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw. Many persons connected with the stage will take part in it.

Only a beginning has been made in this list and already the patrons are Harrison Grey Fiske, Daniel Frohman, Montague Glass, Winthrop Ames, Bayard Veiller, Christie MacDonald, George Cohan, William A. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil de Mille, Percy Mackaye, Charles Rann Kennedy, Rose Stahl, George Middleton, Julie Opp, Alexander Carlisle, Crystal Herne, Mary Nash, Louise Drew, Anne Swinburne, Kittie Cheatham, Jane Cowl, and Frances Starr.

Among those who will take part in an entertainment to be given are Edith Wynne Matthison, Laurette Taylor, Lydia Lopoukowa, Florence Fleming Noyes, and Pilar Morin.

Pouring tea will be Grace George, Blanche Bates, Jane Peyton, Lillian Russell, Margaret Wycherly, Louise Closser Hale, Alice Fischer, and Billie Burke, each having a special table.

In England the League of Professional Women is one of the most prominent among th suffrage workers, and this is the beginning of a general interest in this country. General dancing will close the afternoon.

N. F. LENSSEN GIVES DANCE.

Siwanoy Country Club Election.

The members of the Siwanoy Country Club elected the following officers at its annual meeting in Mount Vernon last night: George R. Coughlin, President; A. E. Lane, Vice President; W. G. Brogan, Secretary; William A. Brophy, Treasurer. The Siwanoy Club moves to its new golf course on May 1, and last night's meeting was in the nature of a celebration.

Son Born to Philip Livingstons.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Livingston of 1,071 Fifth Avenue are being congratulated on the birth of a son yesterday. Mrs. Livingston was Miss Juliette T. Benedict.

Euchre for Stage Children's Fund.

For the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase a house at Atlantic Highlands, a euchre party will be held next Monday afternoon at the Hotel Astor under the direction of the Stage Children's Fund. The price of the home which the stage children wish to buy as a Summer resort is $8,500, and a series of card parties and other entertainments will be given in order to raise the necessary amount. Prizes for next Monday's euchre have been donated by Julia Marlowe, Frances Starr, De Wolf Hopper, Laurette Taylor, and other well known actors and actresses.

"Manon," with Caruso and Farrar.

The tenth week of the season of the Metropolitan Opera Company was inaugurated last night with a performance of Massenet's "Manon." Geraldine Farrar appeared in the title rôle, and Caruso was Des Grieux, while Dinh Gilly sang the rôle of Lescaut. The others were Mmes. Maubourg, Sparkes, Duchene, and Savage, and Messrs. Rothier, Reiss, de Segurola, Ananian, Reschiglian, and Begue. Mr. Toscanini conducted.

"House of Bondage" Shown Again.

"The House of Bondage," a play raided by the police when it was produced in the Bronx, was presented at the Longacre Theatre last night. But the police, who watched the production closely last night, did not raid the Longacre Theatre as they had done in Cecil Spooner Theatre.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Aborns have specially engaged Bertha Shalek for the role of Santuzza in the forthcoming production of "Cavalleria Rusticana" at the Century Opera House. Lena Mason will sing the role of Musetta in to-night's first performance of "La Boheme" instead of Irene Langford, originally announced.

A concert will be given in aid of the McDonough Memorial Hospital for Colored People to-morrow evening at the Manhattan Casino. Europe's orchestra will play, and the soloists will include Harry T. Burleigh, baritone, and Melville Charlton, pianist.

MISS DONNELLY ACTS PLAY OF HIGH COLOR

Angel Guimera's "Maria Rosa" Develops a Soul Tragedy to Its Gory Finish.

LOU-TELLEGEN ASSISTS

Former French Actor, Now Speaking English, Plays in Florid but Effective Style.

MARIA ROSA, a play in three acts, by Angel Guimera, translated from the Catalan by Jose Echegaray, English version by Wallace Gillpatrick and Guido Marburg. Thirty-ninth Street Theatre.

Hunch	George Graham
Salvador	Geoffrey C. Stein
Quirico	E. L. Fernandez
Tomasa	Maude Odell
Ramon	Lou-Tellegen
Maria Rosa	Dorothy Donnelly
Colas	John Arthur
Chicote	Charles Ashley

Drama of a highly colored sort acted in broad, vivid splashes, is provided in Angel Guimera's "Maria Rosa," which, like the same author's "Marta of the Lowlands," has been done by Wallace Gillpatrick and Guido Marburg into English that reflects the original. And like the other play, this one's chief interest for an alien audience lies in the steady upbuilding to a tragic climax, with a sullen suggestion of retributive vengeance underlining even its mirthful scenes. These, indeed, are interesting in respect to their reflection of the color of character and country but like the play in its entirety a great deal of their effect evaporates in translation to a new environment. Thus, with one actress whose speech suggested "Georgia" or "Caholina," and others in the cast with either Northern, Eastern, or Western peculiarities of emphasis and enunciation, not to speak of the French actor, doing remarkably well in the English tongue, but still French in spite of it, the suggestion was polyglot to say the least. All of which made it a bit difficult at times to feel "in the atmosphere."

Nevertheless, and in spite of the lurid developments, this Catalanian romance of love, hate, jealousy, and revenge is so admirably put together that it does enforce and hold the interest. And there is an astonishingly well-effected climax in the final act, with its gay description of the wedding between Maria Rosa and the man who has been responsible for her husband's death, his rival's revenge in the gift of a skin of wine, into which the latter's blood trickled the day Maria Rosa first met him, and finally the murder of the new husband by Maria Rosa after he has made confession in a scene of drunken boasting.

All these things developed with splendid contrasts of light and shade both in the text, and the situations serve to convey the sense of a play that has been constructed by one who knows his trade. Remains then the question of whether it is the type of play for which our audiences are inclined. And thereupon enters the plea of reasonable doubt.

To begin with, the process of development is frequently clogged with the sort of verbal felicity which, however descriptive of character and emotion, serves to retard the action. And since the color is only superficial, that is to say, put on by actors who in most instances do it rather badly, it does not provide especial reason for rejoicing.

To Miss. Dorothy Donnelly, a well trained and experienced actress, is intrusted the difficult rôle of Maria Rosa, and she conveys admirably its varying moods of devotion and distress. The tragedy, indeed, is fought out in this woman's soul. For Maria Rosa, devoted to the memory of her dead husband, ultimately finds herself attracted to Ramon, his supposed friend, who has sent him to prison and to death. And there is exceptional imaginative power in the passage in which Maria Rosa describes a dream in which the face of her husband and this new love merge themselves into one. Here, as in many other scenes of the play, there is necessity for something like the exalted acting of the old-time tragedy school, and Miss Donnelly played with a very considerable simulation of variety and sincerity.

Curiosity, too, was largely centred in the appearance of the French actor, Lou-Tellegen, seen here before with Mme. Bernhardt, and now speaking English, which, as has been said, he does very well. His method is florid, and his acting last night, while it had undeniable power and considerable fluency, was always of a rather obvious sort. In the first two acts resourcefulness seemed lacking and his villainy was written too plainly on his face. Neither Maria Rosa nor any one else would have been long deceived. In the final act there was more subtlety and power. But the composition of the rôle as a whole suggested facility in melodrama rather than a finer style of acting.

The others did about as well as could be expected under the circumstances, be expected under the circumstances.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Julian Eltinge yesterday began rehearsals of "The Crinoline Girl," a new melodramatic farce by Otto Hauerback, with interpolated musical numbers by Percy Wenrich. "The Crinoline Girl" will open at Atlantic City Feb. 9.

When "Help Wanted" is presented here Feb. 9 the cast will include Grace Elliston, J. C. Miltern, Katherine Emmett, Charles Richman, Lois Meredith, Charles A. Abbe, Lorraine Huling, and Jessie Ralph.

May Buckley has joined the Princess Players, and will appear at the Thirty-ninth Street house of single-act drama next week, in the new productions now in preparation under the direction of Holbrook Blinn.

Marcus Loew last night telegraphed THE TIMES from Palm Beach denying that he had discontinued entirely the use of the films manufactured by the so-called "moving picture trust" in his theatres. While he is using the films of the "independents," Mr. Loew said that he was also using photo plays made by the "trust."

An unnamed "Fantasy in Seven Fragments" will be presented at the Hotel Astor Friday afternoon under the auspices of the United Theatrical Association, with a professional cast of players. This association has been formed to promote an interest in the drama, and this will be its first production. The title of the play, the name of the author, and the names of the players will not be announced until after the production.

Walker Whiteside sails this morning on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie to see two plays now running in London. From there Mr. Whiteside will go to Budapest and Berlin, returning in February.

Lydia Kyasht gave two new dances at the Winter Garden last night, replacing "Harlequin and Bluebird," which she presented for her first New York appearance. The two numbers consisted of "En Rose," a pas de deux with music by Bion, and "In Love," another pas de deux, with music by Kressler.

The performance of "Zabern" at Adolf Philipp's Theatre is not scheduled for to-morrow night, as announced in Sunday's TIMES, but for Wednesday night of next week.

The incidental music played during the opening performance of "Maria Rosa" at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre last night was written by Samuel Barlow, the twenty-one-year-old son of City Magistrate Peter Barlow. Young Barlow is a student at Harvard, where he is in his senior year. He came down from Cambridge yesterday to see the new play, but will return to his studies this morning.

WM. G. GARDNERS, HOSTS.

Give Dinner and Dance at Hotel Knickerbocker—The Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gunther Gardner gave a dinner, followed by a reception and dance, at the Hotel Knickerbocker last night. There were about fifty guests at dinner, and additional guests, numbering about 200, were invited in for the reception and dancing.

Mr. Gardner and his wife, who was formerly Miss Marion Edith Regan, arrived here recently on a visit to Mrs. Gardner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Regan, from Buenos Ayres, where Mr Gardner has been the British Vice Consul. The entertainment was for their friends, prior to their departure for the South for a month's stay, when they will return to sail for Denmark, where Mr. Gardner has been appointed to represent the British Government.

Mrs. Gardner, in old rose and white chiffon, received in the large reception room on the second floor, with Mrs. Regan. The rooms were decorated with Spring flowers, and the dinner table in the long dining hall was banked with pink sweet peas. The gold service was used. The ballroom, which opens off the reception room, was decorated with Southern smilax, palms, and white marguerites.

Among those invited were Gov. Martin J. Glynn and Mrs. Glynn, Mayor John Purroy Mitchel and Mrs. Mitchel, Sir Courtenay W. Bennett, British Consul General in New York, and Lady Bennett, Senator and Mrs. James A. O'Gorman, Robert F. Wagner, Dudley Field Malone, Collector of the Port, and Mrs. Malone, C. di Rosa, Italian Consul at Boston; Richard Nogsworthy and Gerald Shepherd of the British Consulate of this city, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Williams, Perez de Palgar of the Spanish Diplomatic Service, ex-Gov. and Mrs. John A. Dix, Mr. and Mrs. E. Clifton Tower, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Polk, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Moore, Mrs. Charles Kohler, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rickert, Mr. and Mrs. de Saulles, Capt and Mrs. Armstrong, Dr. Wendell Phillips and Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Peter Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Northrup, Mr. and Mrs. John Maher, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Wilson Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Casse, Mr. and Mrs. J. Maher, Enrico Caruso, and Antonio Scotti.

Also the Misses Alice and Anna O'Gorman, Olga Kohler, Mildred Dockstader, Ethel Hollingshead, Katherine E. Force, May Wagner, Edith Phillips, Alice Herbert, Regina Rodriguez, Yvonne and Genevieve Butler, E. C. Tower, Nils Florman, Henri Harnickell, Harold Content, James Butler, Jr., Cornelius Sullivan, Capt. J. P. Drouillard, Alfred Swiles, Clyfford Trevor, Duke di Durazzo, and Edwin Bronson.

De Lancey Nicoll, Oakleigh Thorne, Mortimer L. Schiff, Howard Page and Bernard M. Baruch are shooting this week on the latter's place in South Carolina.

RABBI WISE CENSURES STAGE

"Clearing House of Cesspool Exploitation," He Says at Luncheon.

Forbes-Robertson, who is in the final week of his last New York engagement at the Manhattan Opera House, was the guest at a luncheon given in his honor yesterday afternoon at the Fifth Avenue Restaurant by a number of New York clergymen who would encourage Shakespearean drama.

The presiding minister at the luncheon was Dean Grosvenor of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Boynton, former Moderator of the Congregational Churches of America; the Rev. Dr. Percy S. Grant of the Church of the Ascension; Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Rabbi of the Free Synagogue; the Rev. Dr. Charles J. Smith, of the Lutheran Church; the Rev. Dr. J. Lewis Hartsock, of the Methodist Episcopal Church; the Rev. Dr. Harold Pattison, of the Baptist Church; Dr. Walter Laidlaw, Director of the work of the New York Federation of Churches; the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, of the Bedford Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn and President of the Clerical Conference, and the Rev. John Haynes Holmes of the Church of the Messiah.

Dr. Walter Laidlaw introduced Rabbi Wise. Dr. Wise referred to Sir Johnstone as an educator and because of that those who were present should claim fellowship with him. He accused the stage to-day of being a clearing house of cesspool exploitation, and it was refreshing that a man of the pure mind and lofty purpose of Forbes-Robertson was still left to the theatre. He regretted that the stage had not more men of the type of Sir Johnstone who, he said, had dedicated himself to a great art in a great way. In response Forbes-Robertson said:

"It is undoubtedly true that a number of plays have been presented in New York City that never should have seen the light of day. I do not believe, however, that the series of questionable plays presented here and in England will have any serious effect on the theatre-going public of America and England. I am prone to believe that the great American and English publics may b trusted to choose for themselves in these matters."

He declared that the Church and Stage had many things in common in regard to the uplift of humanity, and they were united together in spirit at least.

"The Fatal Wedding," a moving picture drama made from the melodrama by Theodore Kraemer, was presented at the Palace Theatre yesterday afternoon, where it will be on view for the remainder of the week. "The Fatal Wedding" is the first film made by Klaw & Erlanger, who formed a $5,000,000 corporation last Summer for the purpose of manufacturing feature photo plays. The picture now being shown at the Palace will be followed by other films from Klaw & Erlanger's studios, and will be shown in all parts of the world. "The Fatal Wedding" is one of the most pretentious film plays ever manufactured in this country.

Colni Joins Century Opera.

Jacques Coini, who as stage director for Oscar Hammerstein was associated with some of that impresario's most important productions at the Manhattan Opera House and in London, has joined the Century Opera House forces and will begin next September, when the Century company opens its Philadelphia season. Another former Hammerstein employe, Alberto Bimboni, took up his work yesterday at the Century Opera House as an assistant conductor.

THE WEEK IN THE THEATRES.

Others are the Imperial Comedy Four, quartet; Two Gingerups, dancers; Salanta, comedian; Manley, Hart, and Leigle, comedy sketch; Musical Coates, instrumentalists, and black and white photo plays, which are changed daily.

"The Seven Mischief Makers," a tabloid musical comedy, heads the bill at Proctor's 125th Street Theatre. Others are Mattie Choate and company in a comedy sketch, Chester Johnstone and his company of bicyclists, Henry Murphy, comedian; Goldie Mohr, comedienne; Pierce and Knoll, comedy skit; Frances Powers, character, comedienne; Rose Marston and company in a comedy skit; Two Kilties, musical novelty; Dancing Maddens, swift steppers; Flying Geers, aerial artist, and black and white photo plays. There will be an entire change of bill on Thursday.

Bert Williams tops the bill at Keith's Colonial Theatre. Others include Lydia Barry in a song repertoire, Rigoletto Brothers, Jesse Lasky's "Three Types," presenting reproductions of famous paintings; Mrs. Gene Hughes and company, playing "Youth," by Edgar Allan Woolf; Franklyn Batie, in a song repertoire; Ryan and Lee, mirthmakers; Ward and Weber, dancers, and Rayno's dogs.

Keith's Alhambra Theatre has Jesse L. Lasky's "Redheads," Ray Cox, in a new cycle of songs and characterizations; Melville and Higgins, in "Just Married"; Six American Dancers, presenting a new series of dances; Andy Rice, comedian; Hayward Stafford company, in "The Devil Outwitted"; the Asahi troupe of Japanese entertainers, C. H. O'Donnell, in a dramatic sketch called "Flashlight Cragin"; the Randalls, delineating "Seventeen Minutes in Arizona."

At Keith's Bronx Theatre is Liane Carrera, Anna Held's daughter; Edwin Stevens and company, in "The Troubles of R. & J."; Kathleen Clifford, Norton and Nicholson in a dramatic cartoon, Will Oakland and company, presenting "At the Club"; John and Mae Burke, playing "A Ragtime Soldier"; Monroe and Pusey, "Just Blacked Up"; Hibbert and Kennedy, comedians; Schiavoni troupe of European acrobats, and the Aerial Shaws.

The attractions at the Eden Musee this week include the world in wax collection, the cinematograph every hour, the band concerts afternoon and evening, and, as a special added attraction, Dunninger, the magician and illusionist.

At Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre is Trixie Friganza, Jesse L. Lasky's "Clownland," Marie Lo and company in "Porcelain," Nine White Hussars, Fred Duprez, Ed Vinton and his dog Buster, Levis and Doty, Morris and Beasley in "The Manicure Shop," Cooper and Eshell, Three Arthurs, Judge and Gaill, comedy acrobats, and Proctor's photo plays.

"Swift & Company's sales of beef in New York City for the week ended Saturday, Jan. 17, averaged as follows: Domestic beef, 12.46 cents; imported beef, 10.18 cents per pound."—Adv.

FOLIES MARIGNY OPENS.

Vaudeville Acts Between Dances on 44th Street Theatre Roof.

The Folies Marigny, on the roof of the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, was opened last night after the performance of "The Girl on the Film" in the theatre below. The newest dancing resort has been entirely changed since it was used as a roof garden theatre last Summer, all of the orchestra seats having been removed and a dancing floor substituted. Around the edge of the dance floor are tables and a restaurant is run in connection with the place.

Between dances by the public on the floor a vaudeville entertainment is given on the stage, last night's bill being contributed to by Dorothy Toye, the singer with the soprano and tenor voice; Oy-Ra and Dorma Leigh, dancers from "The Girl on the Film"; Nana, another dancer; Oscar Lorraine, the violinist, and Hirschel Hendler, known as "The Poet of the Piano." The last number was Marcel's Living Statues in new poses.

The dancing on the ballroom floor was under the leadership of Joan Sawyer and Lew Quinn. As the evening progressed several of the company of the Winter Garden appeared, among them Bernard Granville, Howard and Howard, Roszika Dolly, and Lillian Lorraine.

PROF. RUDOLF GENEE DIES.

Noted Shakespearean Scholar, Poet, and Editor.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Prof. Rudolf Genee died to-day. He was born in 1824 in Berlin. Early in life he was the editor of The Danziger Zeitung, and later of The Coburger Zeitung. He was a noted Shakespearean scholar and the author of many books.

Prof. Genee was a dramatic poet of no inconsiderable power. He was a graduate of the celebrated Grey Cloister Gymnasium and the Royal Academy of Arts. In 1859 he became editor of The Danziger Zeitung, and in 1861 of The Coburger Zeitung. From 1865 to 1887 he lectured on Shakespeare's works in the leading university centres of Germany. He was not only an authority on Shakespeare, but on the drama in general, writing works on the English mystery and morality plays and the history of the theatre and drama in Germany. Prof. Genee wrote extensive biographical and critical works on Mozart, Goethe, Bismarck, Schlegel, and other prominent figures in German history.

Major Richard P. Morle.

Major Richard P. Morle, United States Commissioner, died Sunday afternoon at his home, 137 Fort Greene Place, Brooklyn. He was born in the Island of Barbados, West Indies, in 1843, and at the age of 20 years he came to New York and entered the office of the then District Attorney Tracy. In 1879 he was appointed Deputy Clerk of the Circuit Court and the District Court. Later he was appointed a District Court Commissioner, but when Congress put this post out of existence he became a United States Commissioner. This position he held until his death. Major Morle entered the Forty-seventh Regiment in 1872 and rose to the rank of Captain. In 1879 he was transferred to the Thirteenth Regiment and was made Captain of Company F. He resigned two years later, but re-entered the service as Captain of Company K, from which he was elected Major. Major Morle is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. William G. French, and two sons, Richard G. and Kenneth Morle.

Alice Holmes, Blind Poet, Dies at 92

Miss Alice A. Holmes, the blind poet, whose writings were well known years ago, died on Sunday afternoon at the home of her niece, Mrs. Kolb, at 280 Union Street, Jersey City, in her ninety-third year. She was born in Winfarthing, Norfolk County, England, and came to America when she was 9 years old. On the voyage smallpox broke out among the passengers and Miss Holmes was stricken. The sailing vessel took seven weeks to reach quarantine and remained there for two months. When Miss Holmes was finally released she was blind, the result of the disease. Miss Holmes attended the New York Institute for the Blind for many years and while there was a roommate of Fannie Crosby, the hymn writer. Miss Holmes had published several volumes of verse.

WASHINGTON TRUST IN CORN EXCHANGE

Merger Will Add $10,000,000 to $68,000,000 Resources of the Big Bank.

EVEN EXCHANGE OF STOCK

President Page of Trust Company to Become a Vice President of the Merged Concern.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the absorption of the Washington Trust Company by the Corn Exchange Bank when the stockholders of both institutions met and ratified the terms of the merger agreement. The consolidation will be effective on Jan. 26, when the office of the trust company at 253 Broadway will become the Washington branch of the Corn Exchange Bank.

The resources of the Corn Exchange will be increased materially by the merger, as the Washington Trust has about $10,000,000 to add to the $68,000,000 of the Corn Exchange. The capital of the trust company is $500,000, and it has a surplus of about $1,300,000. Dividends have been paid on its stock at the rate of 16 per cent. a year since its organization in 1889. Yesterday's meeting of the stockholders was its twenty-fifth.

The terms on which the merger were made were an even exchange of stock after the Washington had paid out $50 a share, which brought its book value on approximately the same basis as that of the Corn Exchange stock. The total resources of the Corn Exchange Bank on Dec. 9 were $82,876,509. Its capital stock is $3,000,000, and its surplus and undivided profits $5,334,649.

As a result of the consolidation, Francis A. Page, President of the trust company, will become a Vice President of the Corn Exchange. Mr. Page has been with the company since its organization, serving in many capacities up to Secretary, Vice President, and, finally, President.

He said last night that there would be no change in the clerical force now employed in the trust company after it became a branch of the Corn Exchange. Both Mr. Page and Walter E. Frew, President of the Corn Exchange, expressed gratification at the outcome of the negotiations between the two institutions, which have been in progress for some time.

The Corn Exchange Bank is one of the strongest institutions in the city, either State or national. It has many branches throughout the city, the number of which has been increased from time to time. The present acquisition is of much more significance than the mere increase of one in the number of these branches.

The officers and Directors of the Corn Exchange Bank are: William A. Nash, Chairman; Walter E. Frew, President; William H. Nichols, Vice President; Frederick T. Martin, Cashier; David Bingham, Howland Davis, Robert A. Drysdale, William F. Havemeyer, Clarence H. Kelsey, Jacob Langeloth, Philip Lehman, Charles W. McCutcheon, Andrew Mills, Henry Schaefer, J. Louis Schaefer, William Rhinelander Stewart and H. B. Vaughan.

The officers and Directors of the Washington Trust Company are David M. Morrison, Charman; Francis H. Page, President; George Austin Morrison, Phineas C. Lounsbury, and Moses S. Lott, Vice Presidents; George W. Toerge, Secretary; Joseph C. Baldwin, Jr., Charles M. Clark, Robert A. Drysdale, Roswell Eldridge, Walter E. Frew, Brent Good, H. J. S. Hall, George E. Ide, George W. Jenkins, Harry K. Knapp, John P. Munn, William A. Nash, John J. Pulleyn, William A. Putnam, J. Louis Schaefer, Clarence W. Seamans, Henry Steers, George Gray Ward, William F. Whiting, and Lucius K. Wilmerding.

It will be noted that the two institutions already had a number of Directors in common.

DROWNED OFF BATTLESHIP.

Chief Steward South Missing from Wyoming—Body Not Recovered.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Forest E. Louth, chief commissary steward of the battleship Wyoming, flagship of the Atlantic fleet, is supposed to have fallen overboard and drowned last Thursday. Rear Admiral Badger, commanding the fleet, sent a wireless telegram to the Navy Department to-day from Culebra Island that Louth was missing.

The Wyoming was at sea when Louth disappeared. The battleship was stopped as soon as he was missed and a thorough but fruitless search was made for his body. Louth had been in the service seven years. His home was in Rochester, N. Y., where his father, Richard J. Louth, lives.

WANT CHOATE AS REFEREE.

Banking Firm Writes to New York Railways Company Directors.

The banking firm of Swartwout & Appenzeller has written a letter to those Directors of the New York Railways Company who were selected to represent the company's adjustment mortgage income bondholders, asking that the company consent to refer to Joseph H. Choate as referee the matter of figuring proper reserves. If this is not acceptable the firm asks that the company get ready a defense in a friendly suit to establish a method of setting aside reserves from earnings.

The bankers say that a portion of the company's income which should go to pay the full interest on the 5 per cent. income bonds has been placed in a reserve to meet damage claims and other expenses in a way contrary to the indenture under which the bonds were issued.

SEEK WIDER JURISDICTION.

Up-State Utilities Commissioners Would Suspend Rate Increases.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—The Legislature was requested to-night by the up-State Public Service Commission to broaden the latter's powers to conform with those of the Interstate Commerce Commission in some particulars. It especially desired legislation which would give it authority to suspend rate increases by public utility corporations pending investigation of their reasonableness. Additional jurisdiction over "long and short haul" rates and the enactment of laws which would provide a penalty for the careless naming of rates to shippers by carriers' agents were also asked for.

Another request was for the enactment of a statute prohibiting the acquisition by one telephone company of the plant and property of another company without acquiring its franchise.

Travis H. Whitney, Secretary of the Public Service Commission of the First District, yesterday carried to Albany, for presentation to the Legislature, the annual report of the commission.

From this it appears that up to the end of last year the commission had expended $56,007,193.63 on the construction of the present Subway system and that contracts had been actually let calling for an expenditure of $93,864,437.42, more than half the total amount which the city must contribute toward the dual system. The new contracts awarded during the year amounted to $24,292,474.50, and more than $14,000,000 was actually paid out during the year to subway contractors for work done. On Dec. 31 there were eighteen contracting firms at work, and they were employing on the average 8,000 men a day. When the work under the recently awarded contracts was well under way it was reckoned that there would be about 10,000 men employed.

The commission makes a special plea for the grant of $1,500,000 for grade crossing elimination work.

Railroad Men Tell of Cost of Full Steel Equipment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Federal supervision of railway car equipment through the medium of the Interstate Commerce Commission rather than through the hard-and-fast rules of legislative enactment was urged upon Congress to-day by witnesses before the Safety Appliance sub-committee of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. The hearing was devoted to the various pending measures calling for the use of all-steel cars on all the interstate railroads of the country. R. H. Aishton, Vice President of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, and Charles A. Post of New York, President of the Railway Business Association, made the principal statements.

Vice President Aishton said that conditions on interstate railroads were so different that an express Congressional statute which sought to regulate the matter in detail would be unworkable.

Mr. Post presented some very striking statistics as to the cost of introducing all steel cars on all interstate roads. To replace all the wooden cars with steel cars, Mr. Post said, would cost the railroads $600,000,000.

NO BREAK WITH PRESIDENT.

Senator Hughes Calls Such Reports Silly and Mischievous.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Senator Hughes of New Jersey denied to-night a report that he would break with the President because Thomas C. Haight of Hudson County had been elected by the President to fill the vacancy on the United States District bench in New Jersey.

"I backed my candidate for the judgeship to the best of my ability," said Senator Hughes, "and told the President to-day why I thought he ought to have been selected. But the final responsibility for selecting the Judge rested with the President, after all, and if he decided on Mr. Haight on the advice of the Attorney General and Secretary of War Garrison, I am not going to quarrel with him. These recurring reports of a break between the President and me are silly and mischievous."

Senator Martine was present with Senator Hughes at the White House today, and took part in the discussion of New Jersey matters. Senator Martine had his own candidate for the district judgeship, James Connelly of Elizabeth. There is no doubt that when Mr. Haight's nomination is sent to the Senate both Senators Hughes and Martine will vote for confirmation.

REFUSES TO ARBITRATE.

American Printing Co. Can't Afford Higher Wages, Official Says.

Special to The New York Times.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 19.—The American Printing Company is unwilling to arbitrate, even with the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation as the judge of differences existing between the corporation and the striking folders and hookers. This was the declaration of Nathan Durfee, Assistant Treasurer, at the meeting held in the Aldermanic chambers in City Hall to-day. "We feel that we are paying all we can afford to pay for work done," he said.

Albert Hibbert, Secretary of the United Textile Workers of American, said the day of the strike Mr. Durfee called him up and accused him of pulling the men out. The strikers made no proposition other than more pay or less work for what they were getting.

The striking operatives—there are upward of 1,000 of them—want an advance in wages to $12 per week for 600 pieces of narrow goods or 400 pieces of wide goods.

PLAN TO NEUTRALIZE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Overman's Resolution Also Reiterates Our Purpose to Make Them Independent.

SEEK FOREIGN RECOGNITION

Wilson Asked to Make Treaties with Powers Acknowledging Neutrality and Independence When Granted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The first step toward consideration by the Senate of the question of Philippine independence was taken to-day when Mr. Overman of North Carolina introduced a joint resolution reiterating the purpose of the United States ultimately to set up an independent Government in the island. The resolution also requests the President to negotiate treaties providing for the permanent neutralization of the island.

Before introducing his resolution Senator Overman showed it to Senator Bacon of Georgia, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, who expressed approval of its general purpose, and indicated that it would soon be taken up by his committee. Secretary of State Bryan was not consulted.

The resolution states that "it is the purpose of the United States to cease exercising sovereignty over the Philippines Islands as soon as may be, with justice to them and honor to the United States, and that it is the preference of the United States to accomplish this purpose by establishing an independent Government in the islands."

The President is requested to consider the expediency of opening negotiations with the Governments of Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia, Spain, Italy, and Japan, with a view of effecting a joint treaty by which it shall be provided that the independent Government in the Philippines, when established by the United States, shall be recognized and protected.

Pending the establishment of this Government the islands would be considered neutral territory. When established the Philippine Government would be requested to agree to maintain an equality of trade relations with all the signatory powers, and in the event of war between any nations to remain neutral.

Further provision would be made in the treaty that such concessions as might be made to the United States in the establishment of the independent Government should be recognized by all the signatory powers.

FOR STATE LAW REVIEW.

Root's Bill to Provide for Test of Constitutionality Again Reported.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Senate Committee on the Judiciary voted favorably to-day on the bill introduced by Senator Root to enable the Supreme Court to review decisions of State courts declaring State statutes in conflict with the Federal Constitution. Under the existing law, an appeal may be made to the Supreme Court on the constitutional question only if a State court upholds the validity of the act.

A similar bill by Senator Root passed the Senate last session, but did not reach a vote in the House. It is one of three bills urged by the American Bar Association for the reform of the judicial practice.

"The particular case which best illustrates the reason for such action," comments the committee on the bill reported, "is the Ives case in New York, in which the Court of Appeals of New York held that the particular Workmen's Compensation law which had passed the State Legislature was a violation of both the Federal and State constitutions and the Fourteenth Amendment to the constitution. The people of New York have changed their constitution so as to permit of a Workmen's Compensation law and have passed such a law. They have no means of securing a review by the Supreme Court of the question whether such a law would violate the constitution."

The bill reported does not grant the right of an appeal, but only of review under a writ of certiorari.

The field of dispute between State and Federal courts, which has given rise to many bitter controversies over jurisdiction, was materially narrowed in a series of decisions announced to-day by the Supreme Court.

In a Vermont case the court upheld the right of railroads to initiate proceedings to test State rates in the Federal courts, rather than in the Supreme Court of Vermont.

In a Kentucky case the court announced that State courts must accept as true alleged facts set forth in petitions for removing cases from State to Federal courts.

MAY SUBPOENA JOSLYN.

Senate Committee Wants to Know About Canadian Advertisements.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Chairman Overman of the Senate Lobby Committee declared to-day that if George Joslyn of Omaha, Neb., President of the Western Newspaper Union, did not come to Washington voluntarily he would be subpoenaed to testify on the charge that his concern had been paid by the Canadian Government to furnish to American newspapers "patent insides" containing favorable representations of agriculture in Canada.

His announcement followed a brief Senate debate, in which various opinions of the tide of American emigration across the border were expressed.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

DAVID M. KAHN & CO., INC.—A petition has been filed against David M. Kahn & Co., Inc., dealers in furniture, 120 West 125th Street, by these creditors: Ebert Furniture Company, $331; Sieling Furniture Company, $383; Baldknob Furniture Company, $148, and Red Lion Furniture Company, $381. FLANNEL LINES OPENED.

Prices Unchanged in the Main—Small Advances on Some Goods.

Prices on napped goods for 1914 were named yesterday by several prominent cotton goods houses. The Amoskeag Manufacturing Company made prices that showed practically no change from those quoted a year ago. Two new fabrics were shown yesterday by this company for the first time. These were Panola cloth, a plain domet, and Tunis cloth, a twilled domet. Both of these fabrics were opened at 7½ cents in bleached and in solid colors. Other fabrics opened by this firm and the prices asked follow: 1921 cloth, fancy, 8¾ cents; 1921 cloth, plain, 8 cents; Teazle Down, 9½ cents; Clover cloth, 8 cents, and Smyrna cloth, 7½ cents. The last-named cloth showed the only real change, being dropped a half cent from last year's level. A record business was reported on all of these goods, the Western buyers confirming reports that had been heard regarding depleted stocks in that part of the country and the need of re-stocking both by wholesalers and retailers.

At the store of Woodward, Baldwin & Co. it was said that prices would be named on their lines to-day. No decline is looked for, while some advances may be asked. Heavy goods were opened by the Hunter Manufacturing and Commission Company at the same figures as last year, while light goods prices, which have not yet been given out, will show advances ranging from 2½ to 4 per cent. The advances will be due, it is said, to the fact that these goods were sold last year at relatively lower levels than heavy goods. Clarence Whitman & Co.'s prices ranged from the same as 1913's up to a 5 per cent. advance. Prices have not yet been made by Smith, Hogg & Co., while Catlin & Co. will put values on their goods to-day.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The receipt of applications for hospital clerk, men and women, Grade 2, will be closed by the Municipal Civil Service Commission at 4 P. M., Friday.

The medical examination for rodman, Grade B, will be held to-day. Notices to 378 candidates have been sent out.

The name of John P. Shanahan has been certified from the preferred list of third grade clerk for employment in the office of the General Medical Superintendent.

The names of Erne E. King, Minnie M. Blackley, and Margaret A. McGroarty have been certified for appointment as Supervising Nurse at $900 a year.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission will hold an examination at the New York Customs House to-morrow and Thursday for translator, men and women, to fill a vacancy at $1,400 a year in the office of Naval Intelligence, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. Competitors will be examined in French, German, and Italian. The tests in each of the languages will consist of two general (not technical) extracts to be translated into English, and one each to be translated from English into the language called for, without the aid of dictionaries. Age, 20 years or over on the date of the examination.

EDUCATION NOTES.

A leave of absence without pay until Sept. 1 for restoration of health has been granted to Mary C. Ceeley, clerk to District Superintendent Kidd and to the local School Boards of Districts 2 and 3, Manhattan.

It has been decided to hold the sessions in the evening recreation centres in the Manhattan Trade School and in Public School 10, Manhattan, from 8 to 10 P. M.

The Board of Education has made regular the appointments of John Downie and Mrs. Susan J. Downie as caretakers at the Parental School.

The next meeting of the Board of Education will be held on Jan. 28.

The Board of Education has fixed the pay of Theodore H. Ernst, machinist in the Bureau of Buildings, at $4.50 a day.

The Board of Estimate has been requested to appropriate $2,423.49 to the Special Trade School Fund.

The Board of Education has appropriated $2,088.50 corporate stock for additional work under the contract of Durkin & Laas for the general construction of Public School 39 addition, the Bronx.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat and corn receded in yesterday's trading, and oats was steady. Wheat closed at ⅛ to ⅝c. lower, with corn ⅛ to ¼c. off. Cotton ended the day with gains extending from 1 to 6 points, after advancing with fair strength early in the day. Provisions and cotton oil were firm.

WHEAT.

The wheat market felt the absence of outside demand, and as holders were discouraged and inclined to sell. Prices were heavy throughout the session, closing ⅛ to ⅝c net lower. The news of the day was by no means one-sided. In fact there were enough bullish features to have stimulated quite a substantial gain had there been a broader interest manifested. The foreign markets were heavy owing to large world's exports, which amounted to 14,624,000 bushels, compared with 13,600,000 last week and 11,520,000 last year. Reports from Argentina said that the weather was favorable to the movement, and that foreign bids were at a lower level. The spot markets abroad were also lower, and the foreign situation as a whole was not very encouraging for export sales of American wheat.

Receipts at Western points were slightly smaller than last week, and the visible supply in the United States decreased 1,392,000 bushels; bonded wheat decreased 434,000; Canadian decreased 264,000, making a total decrease of 2,990,000 bushels in America, compared with a decrease of 587,000 last year.

In the local cash market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at 97¾c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York; No. 2 red, $1.00¼, nominal, elevator, domestic; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, 99⅝c, free on board, and No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.01⅜, free on board.

NEW YORK PRICES.

CORN.

The corn market was nervous, and, while there were several rallies, the undertone was easy, and final quotations were ⅛ to ¼c net lower. Receipts were larger at interior points, and the visible supply gained 1,068,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 328,000 last year.

The foreign markets were rather heavy, and Argentina was again offering old corn in parcel lots at 67c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York. World's exports were 3,538,000 bushels, compared with 4,758,000 last week and 5,441,000 last year.

In the local cash market No. 3 yellow corn was quoted at 71c, cost, insurance, and freight, to arrive.

OATS.

The oats market ruled steady with small offerings from the country and on a decrease of 1,000,000 bushels in the visible supply compared with an increase of 523,000 last year.

The local cash market was quiet, standard white being quoted at 45½ to 46c, No. 2 46 to 46½c, No. 3 45 to 46c, No. 4 44½ to 45½c, ordinary clipped white 44 to 46c, fancy clipped white 46½ to 47c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market experienced a further advance, with fairly active buying by strong interests, prompted by firmness in the hog position. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 45,000; estimated for Tuesday, 30,000. Kansas City received 9,000 and Omaha 7,000.

COFFEE.

Receipts of coffee at Brazilian points have not fallen off as predicted; in fact, the movement appears to be increasing, Sao Paulo yesterday reporting 31,000 bags, and, as cost and freight offers from Brazil were 10 to 15 points lower, bulls were discouraged and withdrew their support from the market, with the result that prices declined 23 to 26 points, and practically wiped out all of last week's gain. The total sales for the day aggregated 46,000 bags. One of the discouraging factors in the market is the fact that bullish predictions have not been verified, and that leading authorities have constantly been deferring the realization of bullish developments to some later date. The European markets were also lower, Havre closing at a net decline of 1¼f., while Hamburg was ¼ pfennig lower. Private reports said that there was a [illegible] in Rio, but, while this was expected to interfere somewhat with shipments, it was not expected to affect receipts.

In the local spot market prices were easier, with Rio 7s quoted at 9⅛c and Santos 4s at 13¼c.

The total warehouse deliveries in the United States last week were 141,707 bags, against 137,946 bags the previous week and 140,235 bags last year. Of the total amount New York had 71,296 bags.

COTTON.

After an early advance which carried prices into new high ground for the movement, the cotton market met considerable realizing and lost most of its improvement, with the close steady at a net gain of 1 to 6 points. In a general way the early strength seemed to reflect a more bullish view of trade conditions, and some little broadening of outside demand. The buying movement, however, did not become active enough to suggest any general revival of outside interest, while the advance of nearly 75 points from recent low prices, combined with talk of rather bearish private ginning returns and a feeling that the technical position had weakened, seemed to inspire a good deal of profit taking. [illegible] the market was firm at an advance of 5 to 10 points and active months sold 13 to 15 points net higher during the early trading. After the [illegible] of this advance, however, the demand became less active, while realizing became a little more general as soon as prices developed a tendency to sag off. The close was at the lowest level of the day.

An early rumor that returns in one of the prominent Southern statistical bureaus showed a ginning of 160,000 to 175,000 bales for the first half of January appeared to attract little attention.

Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged to ⅛c higher. A better demand was reported for spots from the New England mills, but the bulk of the private advices received here from the South attributed the buying to exporters or Southern spinners. The local market for spot cotton was quiet, and 10 points higher, at 13.00 for middling upland; sales, nil; delivered on contract, 2,500 bales.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil market was firm, and prices rose 5 to 10 points from Saturday's close, although the volume of business was not large. The firmness in lard stimulated further buying for Western account, and there was evidence of a moderate outside demand. The cash and export demand was not active.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Pressure has continued to fall over the central, eastern, and southern portions of the country, resulting in unsettled weather, with local rains and snows and a marked rise in temperature over this extensive area.

In the West and Northwest pressure is rising rapidly, accompanied by a fall in temperature to nearly normal conditions, except in the Plains States, and there were light snows in the Northwest and rains and snows from the Rocky Mountains westward.

There will be snow and rain Tuesday from the Lake region and the Upper Ohio Valley eastward and scattered rains in the South Atlantic States, followed by generally fair weather Wednesday, except in New England. There will also be scattered snows Tuesday in the Northwest and in the central Rocky Mountain region, followed by fair weather Wednesday.

Elsewhere the weather will be fair Tuesday and Wednesday. It will be warmer Tuesday in the Atlantic States and colder in the Plains and West Gulf States, the Lower Missouri and Upper Mississippi Valleys, and colder Wednesday east of the Mississippi River.

Winds for Tuesday and Wednesday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate southwest, becoming variable, probably shifting to north by Tuesday night; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate south, becoming variable by Wednesday and shifting to north; South Atlantic Coast, moderate south and southwest.

FORECASTS TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York—Rain in south, snow or rain in central and north portions Tuesday, warmer in east. Wednesday, unsettled and colder, probably local snows; moderate south winds becoming northwest and north by Wednesday.

Southern New England—Snow or rain and warmer Tuesday. Wednesday, unsettled and colder, probably local snows or rains; moderate south and southwest winds shifting to northwest and north by Wednesday.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Local rains and warmer Tuesday. Wednesday, cloudy and somewhat colder; moderate south and southwest winds shifting to northwest Wednesday.

Western New York—Rain or snow Tuesday. Wednesday, local snows and colder; moderate southwest winds becoming northwest and north Tuesday night.

Northern New England—Snow and warmer Tuesday. Wednesday, local snows and colder; moderate variable winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

FEBRUARY CENTURY

The "New Spirit of The Century" Again!

¶ The entire edition of the January Century was exhausted soon after publication.

We meant surely to have enough of February, but at the last moment we have had to cut down the news-stand supply on account of the increasing number of copies needed for new subscribers.

To make sure of this Midwinter Fiction (February) Number, a splendid typical issue,

MIDWINTER FICTION NUMBER
Partial Contents

A Wonderful Story of Japan, by the author of "Madam Butterfly," exquisitely illustrated, and six other good stories, among them

H. G. Wells on "The Last War in the World," in which a discovery made in the middle of the twentieth century makes war impossible.

"The Mexican Menace," W. Morgan Shuster's plain story of our duty toward Mexico—"Should mere national sentimentalism stand against the right thing to do in a case involving the lives and future happiness of millions of human beings?"

Forbes-Robertson's Farewell to America, the first article that he has ever written—telling of his life work and of the theater of to-day and to-morrow.

"The Two 'Mona Lisas'"—the story of the picture recently found and of its counterpart, the Mona Lisa in the Prado at Madrid, with reproductions of both.

"Sanctuary," by Percy Mackaye—the text of a Bird Masque given at Cornish last summer, written by the author of "A Thousand Years Ago," with photographs.

"The Boy Who Goes Wrong."

"New Hope for the Convict," by Richard Barry. Etc., etc., etc.

LOAN SHARKS HIT IN GLYNN MESSAGE

Governor Tells Legislature the Levy-Brooks Act Is Worse Than the Law It Repealed.

SHOWS IT FOSTERS USURY

Says Small Loans Are Necessary and Outlines a Measure to Protect Borrower and Lender.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—A more effective bill against loan sharks and one less oppressive in regulating small loans was recommended by Gov. Glynn to-night in a special message to the Legislature. The Governor said the Levy-Brooks law enacted last year was worse than its predecessor.

His objections to the present law were that it allowed interest at from 124 to 170 per cent., freed usurious lenders from criminal prosecution and repealed the provisions of the original law which made it compulsory upon lenders to notify employers when loans were negotiated with future salary as security. Also, for the reason that the supervisor of small loans created by the law was not to be permitted to inspect the books of loan companies, the Governor said he was induced to withhold appointments of such official. In his message the Governor said:

"The contest between the need of the borrower and the greed of the lender is unequal. Legislation cannot prevent the necessities of poverty, but it can curb the rapacity of its parasites.

"I would suggest to the Legislature that in a revision of the law the following propositions should be kept in mind:

First—That the small loan business is a necessary business, and should be recognized as such.

Second—That the first essential to the regulation of small loans is that the rate of interest should be no greater than that which permits a reasonable return to those engaged in this business.

Third—That instead of making it difficult to secure small loans, the Legislature should endeavor to make mtters easier for those who urgently need temporary accommodation.

Fourth—That the scandalous conditions under wcich usurious lenders have been able to extort interest, out of all proportion to the loans made, should be immediately changed.

Fifth—That a criminal prosecution as well as a fine should be made the penalty for violation of the small loan law.

Sixth—That the State Supervisor of small loans should be clothed with power not only to enforce thelaw, but to discover in the first instance whether the law is being violated.

Seventh—That it is for the best interests of employer and employe that the employer be notified whenever an employe is obliged to hypothecate part of his future wages for a temporary loan.

Eighth—That some means should be found to provide evidence of all transactions under the small loan law so that violations may be immediately detected and easily prosecuted.

Ninth—That all charges over and above interest, such as charges for investigation of the applicant for a loan, shall be as carefully watched as the rate of interest itself.

BETTER BOOKKEEPING NOW.

Commission Says Under New Conditions Standards Have Been Raised.

One result of the establishment of regulative commissions for public service corporations has been to raise the standard of bookkeeping in the corporations. The Public Service Commission for the Second District of New York states in its report which has just gone to the Legislature:

"The Commission's Division of Statistics and Accounts has done much to foster a widespread appreciation of the importance of rigidly accurate standards for published financial statements of corporations. The improvement each year in the annual reports filed with the commission by corporations under its jurisdiction is the best evidence of the commission's success in this branch of its work.

"The fundamental principle of the commission's accounting system is that all property and rights which constitute the permanent investment of a business shall appear upon its books at cost. With the establishment of regulative commissions, the need has been made evident of accurate records, which will show beyond any reasonable doubt what has been actually expended in perfecting the organization of a public utility corporation and constructing its property."

SIEGEL PARTNER RETURNS.

Vogel Here After Quest for Funds—Long Conferences Held.

Frank E. Vogel, partner of Henry Siegel, returned yesterday from Chicago, where he went last week to raise funds, it was said, with which to settle with the depositors of Henry Siegel & Co., now in the hands of a receiver. It could not be learned from Mr. Siegel or from his counsel, Stanchfield & Levy, whether any money was raised by Mr. Vogel. Levy Mayer, an attorney of Chicago, came here with Mr. Vogel, and was present at several conferences yesterday to consider plans for a settlement. Max Pam, general counsel for the Siegel Stores Corporation and a Director in the Siegel stores, also is in New York City.

As nearly as could be learned, the Siegel interests are trying to find out exactly what the depositors are willing to accept, while the representatives of the depositors are waiting to see just how much will be offered to them. Counsel representing both sides held conferences until late last night, trying to arrange a plan of settlement.

In compliance with a petition from the receivers appointed for the Siegel banking and mercantile institutions and other individuals, Judge Charles M. Hough, in the United States District Court, issued an order yesterday directing Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel to appear before ex-Judge George C. Holt, sitting as a Special Master, for an examination of their assets, estate, and property. No date was set.

CONFER ON TRUST BILLS.

Congressional Committees Discuss Those Wilson Will Urge To-day.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Democratic members of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee and the House Judiciary Sub-committee held a joint conference late to-day to discuss the proposed anti-trust legislation, on which President Wilson will address Congress in joint session to-morrow.

It was determined that several bills should be proposed, in addition to a measure creating an Interstate Trade Commission to serve as an aid to the courts in keeping corporations within the terms of the Sherman anti-trust law, and as President Wilson termed it to callers to-day, "to facilitate the processes of suit" in dealing with big business.

This measure, it was stated, would provide for a commission of five members, to be appointed by the President. The commission would have authority to conduct investigations into complaints, aid in the courts in the execution of decrees and have other powers of assisting to keep business in the straight path and avert the necessity for prosecutions.

Other bills discussed included those prohibiting interlocking directorates and holding companies, and controlling railroad securities.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

Invents Cigar-Banding Machine.

A machine that, according to the inventor, will band and pack 3,000 cigars an hour, effecting a saving of at least one-half in the cost of these operations, will soon be marketed here. The machine is compact, occupying about the same space as a typewriter, and it requires but one operator. This device automatically moistens the bands, wraps them around the cigars, pastes the bands, and presses and packs the cigars in bundles of fifty.

Hearings at Home Ports.

Importers at Middle West and Pacific Coast ports who do not care to submit their classification and reappraisement cases for trial before the Board of United States General Appraisers in this city, are to be afforded an opportunity, beginning next week, of presenting their testimony at home ports. Judge Howell, who has been designated to take the testimony, will hold the first hearing at Buffalo, Jan. 28. The other hearings scheduled are: Chicago, Feb. 2, 3, and 4; St. Paul, Feb. 6; Seattle, Feb. 13; Portland, Feb. 17, and San Francisco, Feb. 24.

Well-Known English Silk Man Dead

Word was received yesterday by Secretary Ramsey Peugnet of the Silk Association of America of the death of Hamilton De Veer on Jan. 8, at Colwyn Bay, North Wales. Although Mr. De Veer had been obliged to abandon business and return to England in 1909 because of illness, he was well-known in this country as the American representative of Reade & Co., Limited, the silk spinners of Congleton, England. While he was acting in this capacity Mr. De Veer was obliged to do most of his business by telephone from a wheel chair, as he was unable to walk. In spite of these difficulties it is said that he was very successful.

Device Prevents Shoplifting.

A sliding-bar safety stand for displaying jewelry and fancy goods in stores, that is designed to prevent shoplifting, has been invented by the chief decorator of one of the big local department stores. The device resembles the ordinary "T" stand, excepting that it has a sliding bar with ball stops, placed at suitable distances over the main crossbar. The fixture can be opened at either end to enable the sales person to remove easily any of the articles displayed. Its safety features lie in the fact that only one end can be opened at a time, and that two hands are necessary to operate the device. The stands are being successfully used now in the store referred to.

Cigarette Holders Not Toys.

The Treasury Department, to make classifications uniform throughout the country, has issued instructions that glass cigarette holders having inside a metal reed, which when blown through makes a noise similar to a toy horn, are hereafter to be assessed for duty under the new tariff law according to the component material of chief value. It appears that at some ports the customs officials have returned the holders at 60 per cent. ad valorem as smokers' articles, while at other ports the practice has been to exact only 35 per cent. as toys. The decision holds that the articles cannot be used as smokers' articles in the condition imported, nor are they intended for the amusement of children.

Self-Sharpening Pencil Sharpener.

What is called a "self-sharpening pencil sharpener" has recently been marketed by a local firm. The manufacturers assert that a needle point can be made on any pencil quicker than a knife can be taken from the pocket. This appliance is compact, taking up little room, and is a straight motion machine. The pencil is placed vertically in the device, which has a lever extending from the top. Turning this lever regulates the sharpener for coarse, medium, or fine cutting. After the pencil has been inserted and the lever pressed down the pencil is automatically turned in the machine, the knife cuts, and then a sharpening stone is thrown against the knife. When the pressure is again applied, the operation is repeated.

Dress Goods Selling for Fall.

The first real evidence of business in corporation dress goods for Fall delivery was seen here yesterday, when one of the largest companies making this class of goods booked some nice orders in the course of the afternoon. Prices showed no changes from those asked on the same goods for the current season, despite the fact that an advance would be justified by the higher figures asked for raw wool and yarns since Spring prices were named. Labor is also as expensive as it was at that time. It is thought that some slight upward revision may be made in prices when the buying becomes active and both the buyers and the sellers have had a chance to study the situation. No really dangerous competition from foreign producers is looked for on these goods, as it is thought that the biggest fight in values will come on higher-priced merchandise.

Enter the "Robe Nettoyable."

Members of the local embroidery trade are endeavoring to impress upon their retail customers the business bringing powers of calling the dresses formerly known as "lingerie" by the name of "robe nettoyable," or cleanable dress. The contention of the members back of the movement is that the embroidery business has been hurt by the "black eye" it has received by the inability of the average lingerie, or embroidered, dress to survive a trip through the laundry. The embroideries used in most of these lingerie dresses, it is maintained, are of a quality that is little better than useless. It is planned to have the retailers push the better grade embroideries for the robes nettoyable and suggest that these dresses be turned over to dry cleaners when soiled instead of being sent to the family laundry. The idea back of this suggestion is that the good work done by these cleaners will restore the faith of American women in embroideries by showing that they can stand being touched up when necessary.

Need of a Downtown Hotel.

According to one of the best-known dry goods men in the city, the finest opportunity in the world for a successful hotel is represented in the site formerly occupied by the Astor House. With no really large hotel below Thirty-fourth Street, the proximity of this site to the financial district to the south and the wholesale dry goods section to the north makes it invaluable, in his opinion. He contends that of the thousands of transients who come to the city and do business in the districts mentioned the majority do not care about being quartered uptown near the theatres. This is especially true, he says, of men who make short trips from great distances and who are of necessity forced to work downtown as long as possible. For these men he thinks that a hotel providing a resting place near the scene of their work would prove an inestimable boon and would be thoroughly appreciated. He also maintains that it is really easier to go uptown to the theatre at night, if necessary, than it is to come downtown to business early in the morning.

Consul General Skinner in Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Robert P. Skinner, the new American Consul General in Berlin, arrived here to-day and will take over the duties of his office to-morrow. Consul General Thackara, who proceeds to Paris, is to relieve Consul General Mason there on Thursday.

NOTIONS JOBBERS MEET.

They Discuss Trade Matters and Elect Officers for the Year.

The Jobbers Association of Notion Goods Buyers met in an all-day session yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria. Among the topics discussed was the recently introduced method of sample display by means of photographs known as "The Omaha Method." T. J. McShane, of M. E. Smith and Co., Omaha, Neb., said that his firm had increased their sale of notions 25 per cent. since the method had been introduced and that the baggage of the traveling salesmen had been greatly reduced. Instead of several trunks of samples being necessary for each salesman, he said, four books of 25 leaves each were sufficient. Colored photographs had been used, he said, and had proved very satisfactory.

The Committee on Pins and Hairpins reported that efforts were being made to have the freight rates on pins reduced. The Committee has written to the Eastern and Western Classification Committees of the Railroads asking for reductions on the ground that pins should be shipped at the same rate as carpet tacks, small nails and similar hardware.

The Association passed a resolution asking all manufacturers who have not abolished the old rebate of price making to do so. It was stated that a few manufacturers still adhered to the old custom of allowing a rebate of from 5 to 10 per cent. from the initial prices at which goods had been sold, and the jobbers expressed a preference that all manufacturers quote their lowest prices in the first instance and abolish the rebate system.

In his address H. S. Atterbury, the retiring president of the Association, said that 1913 had not been so good a year for the notion goods business as 1912, but that the outlook for 1914 was promising.

The officers elected were: Mason Miller, of the Smith-Townsend Dry Goods Company, Kansas City, Mo., President; W. M. Tay, Walker Stetson Company, Boston, First Vice-President; Ellis McDonald, John V. Farwell Company, 2d Vice President; E. C. McCabe, Arbuthnot-Stephenson Company, Secretary-Treasurer, (re-elected;) Thos. A. Fernley, Assistant Secretary, (re-elected); T. James Fernley, Advisory Secretary (re-elected.)

The Executive Committee chosen was: H. S. Atterbury, Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Company, St. Louis; Otto R. Rick, Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Company, Buffalo; T. C. Donovan, Brown-Durrell Company, Boston; Jacob K. Lessey, Young-Smyth-Field Company, Philadelphia; E. H. Tiffany, Callender, McAuslan & Troup Company, Providence; and W. E. Palmer, Cooper, Coates & Casey Dry Goods Company, Los Angeles.

LIVE GAME BIRDS EXEMPT.

Treasury Department Decides That No Duties Shall Be Levied.

The attempt of the Customs authorities at New York to impose a duty under the new Tariff law on live game birds has ended in failure. Collector Malone was under the impression that as the present act does not provide for live game birds they fell within the provision in Paragraph 227 for "game birds, dressed," dutiable at 30 per cent. ad valorem. This interpretation of the paragraph was forwarded to the Treasury Department at Washington for consideration.

Assistant Secretary Hamlin, in his reply, disagrees with the Collector's view, and reaches the conclusion that, owing to change in the phraseology of the new law, live game birds are exempt from duty, although he acknowledges that the question is a "debatable one." Mr. Hamlin invites the attention of the Collector to the fact that Paragraph 416 of the existing law differs from Paragraph 510 of the former act, in that the phrase "not specially provided for in this section" is added.

This addition, in the department's opinion, was made necessary by the specific provision in Paragraph 227 for game birds, dressed, whereas in the former act, there being no provision in the dutiable list for game birds, the specific provision in Paragraph 510 of the same act for birds and land and water fowl was intended to cover all birds not dutiable as poultry. The Assistant Secretary's letter of instruction concludes:

"While, as already intimated, the question is a debatable one, I think it will be conceded that Congress did not specifically provide in Paragraph 227 for live game birds, and, following the general rule in the interpretation of statutes levying taxes or duties not to extend their provisions by implication so as to embrace matter not specifically pointed out, although standing upon a close analogy, the Department is of the opinion that live game birds are entitled to admission free of duty under Paragraph 416 of the Tariff act."

University's Maps Must Pay—Biscuits and Show Cards Cut.

The Board of United States General Appraisers has decided that fancy tins containing biscuits imported by Moos & Co. and Charles & Co., were assessable at the same rate as their ad valorem contents. The importations were made under the Tariff act of 1897, and the Collector took duty at 45 per cent. ad valorem on the tins, as manufactures of metal under Paragraph 193. The importers objected to this separate duty on the coverings, quoting Section 19 of the Customs Administrative act of 1890, as amended by the act of 1897. Judge Hay sustained them.

E. & J. Burke, Ltd., also won on show cards returned as composed of paper and pyroxylin; pyroxylin chief value and taxed 65 cents a pound and 30 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 17 of the Tariff act of 1909. Classification was claimed as litho prints at 6 cents a pound under Paragraph 412. A Customs examiner testified that the cards contained no pyroxylin.

The University of Washington lost a protest asking free entry for maps assessed at Port Townsend, Wash., 25 per cent. ad valorem as maps under Paragraph 416 of the old law. Exemption was asked on the ground that the maps were ordered by the university and were scientific apparatus under Paragraph 650. Judge Hay ruled that there had been a failure to comply with the Treasury regulations since an affidavit had not been filed at the time of entry by any university official.

makes the investor of today demand a different type of investment than he did ten years ago. He still insists on absolute safety, but in addition requires a larger income.

The type of standard securities has been constantly changing to meet this new demand, and today there are securities which yield an income of 5% to 6%, which are just as safe as those of ten years ago, which yielded 4% to 4½%.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Rise in Stocks Resumed—Investment Demand Broadens—More Gold Goes to Paris.

The up-swing in prices was renewed on the Stock Exchange yesterday after two days of very slight reaction. The money and investment markets supplied the chief incentive for the renewal buoyancy which the stock market showed. This influence proved superior in shaping prices to such news as the strike, which caused a suspension of operation on the Delaware & Hudson Railway, and to whatever doubt existed in the minds of traders that the impression to be created by to-day's special Presidential message to Congress on the question of trust legislation would not fully bear out the rather high hopes which had been entertained for a week or more.

Money rates and investment demand for securities improved not only here, but in equally noteworthy fashion abroad. Out of our abundance we are contributing to the improvement in the European money markets, for in addition to the $2,000,000 gold sent to Paris last week another $2,000,000 was engaged yesterday for shipment by Wednesday's steamer. It was understood that tentative arrangements had also been made for two other shipments of $2,000,000 each. Having in mind the very heavy cash gains which the New York banks have made since the beginning of the year, this prospective loss of gold to Europe to a total of $8,000,000 can be faced without any misgivings. Particularly is this true, inasmuch as signs are already being afforded that the gold which we are sending to Paris is helping to ease the money rates at that centre, where conditions up to this time have been less favorable than those prevailing in the other great money markets since we entered a new twelvemonth.

Open market discounts in Paris were quoted at 3½ per cent., and some of our bankers received rates even under that figure. In Paris discounts were down to 3 per cent., or a shade less than that, and at London they declined to 3¼ per cent. These changes leave the Paris market still well above the German and English markets, but the break in French rates was nevertheless noteworthy as indicating a material change from the conditions which up to this time have prevailed in Paris. Yesterday's declines carried the English rate 1¼ per cent. under the Bank rate, while the difference between the Bank rate and market rate in Berlin is a full 2 per cent. Early reductions in both these rates are indicated. The belief prevailed that a further lowering of the English rate would not be postponed beyond this week. The movement at Paris also suggests the possibility of an early reduction in the French Bank rate from 4 to 3½ per cent., a reduction which will be made all the more probable if the improvement which has already come about partly in response to the gold which we are sending to France is emphasized when the additional shipments now contemplated are made.

Very closely associated with the course of money rates was the advance which occurred in Government securities abroad, including both rentes and consols. The latter made an extraordinary gain of nearly a full point. They are now 2⅛ points higher than they were a week ago. The success of a small colonial issue in London supplied another indication of the forces now at work in the investment market. Clearly money is seeking the advantage of the relatively low figures, at which prime investments have lately been selling, the advances which have already occurred measuring the effect of the competition for such securities which has been induced by the world-wide easing of money. The chances for a signal success for the $51,000,000 issue of New York State 4½ per cent. bonds which is to be made to-morrow continue to increase as the time for the submission of bids draws to a close.

These tendencies are a most favorable augury. It is not surprising that they should be accompanied by continued suggestions of improvement in trade. The favorable news from the steel trade, where the recovery from depression is gaining strength, was reflected in conspicuous manner in the metal stocks, notably United States Steel, which made a net gain of more than a point. The experience through which business and finance have passed have left their problems, but changes lately come about are serving to facilitate the needed solutions. It is to be hoped that the course of affairs at Washington bear out recent expectations in affording business the encouragement which is needed to allow logical development of the improvement now under way.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2@2½ per cent., with the last loan at 2 per cent. The renewal rate was 2 per cent.

Time money rates were 3¼@3½ per cent. for sixty days, 3½@3¾ per cent. for ninety days, 3¾@4 per cent. for four and five months, 4@4¼ per cent. for six months, and 4¼@4½ per cent. for twelve months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 4½@5 per cent. for the best names.

Clearing House exchanges, $216,020,254; balances, $11,892,012; Sub-Treasury debit balance, $860,055.

The local banks have lost $37,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

The discount rate in Paris yesterday was 3½ per cent.; in Berlin, 2⅞ per cent.; in London, 3½ per cent. for short bills and 3¼@3 9-16 for three months' bills. The Paris check rate on London was 25f. 22½c. The Berlin check rate was 20 marks 49 pfennigs. Money was 2½ per cent. in London and 2⅛ per cent. in Berlin.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

An Opportunity Neglected.

It is a fair assumption when an investor buys a convertible bond that he chooses it with an eye on its conversion possibilities, and that he will exercise his privilege of turning the bond in for stock at the earliest date that he can do so at a profit. The experience of numerous companies which have sold convertible bonds seems to prove that a surprisingly large number of the holders are either unaware of, or indifferent to their opportunities along this line. Take the Union Pacific convertible 4s, exchangeable into stock at 175; the railroad sold $73,762,000 of these at 90 in 1907. A year later the stock enjoyed a rise, and in 1909, on the reports of plans for dividing the treasury assets among the holders of the stock, the price reached its record high figure of 219. There was a big profit in conversion of the 4 per cent. bonds at that price, and, of course, many of the holders turned them in as soon as the stock got beyond 175. Nevertheless, up to June 30 last holders of $36,738,000, or almost half of the issue, had retained them. The holder of $35,000 worth of the bonds, purchased from the railroad at a cost of $31,500, could have exchanged them for 200 shares of stock worth, at the top, $43,800. A more flagrant instance was furnished by an earlier issue of Union Pacific convertibles, exchangeable into stock at par. These not only were not all turned in when the stock sold far above 100, but were in some cases redeemed at their face value, when they could have been converted into stock worth much more than par.

No Change in Terms.

While it has been urged by some of the holders of the Union Pacific's present issue of convertibles that they ought to be allowed to convert at 140 after the Union Pacific common stock is made an 8 per cent. issue, there is little likelihood that any change will be made in the terms. The management takes the stand that if the conversion privilege had not yet become operative, but was to become available after the reduction in dividend and assets, it would perhaps be necessary to fix a new conversion price. As the bondholders have had more than six years, and still have several weeks in which to turn their bonds into stock, the Directors are not likely to take any action that would encourage them to retain their bonds after April 1, when it is proposed to pay the extra dividend in Baltimore & Ohio stock.

An Unfortunate Instance.

In the discussion of M. Rumley affairs, it was recalled yesterday that a popular magazine with an enormous circulation ran an article addressed to cautious investors about a year ago, in which it was pointed out that holders of high-class, low-yield bonds might increase their return without materially increasing their risk by a shift into good preferred stocks. As an instance it was suggested that the bondholder buy M. Rumley preferred, paying 7 per cent., and selling then just under par. It has paid nothing since the middle of last year and is now selling around 37.

The Sugar Trust Defense.

Wall Street was more than a little dissappointed a few days ago when counsel for the American Sugar Refining Company announced that negotiations with the Department of Justice were off. With the excellent impression of the telephone company's voluntary rearrangement of its affairs fresh in mind, the Street had hoped that the sugar company would not delay in following this example. Realization that a straight road had not yet been pointed out for big business to proceed to peace and quiet was reflected somewhat in the course of security prices, and to a greater extent in the comment of impatient bulls in stocks. They desired to know the points on which the company and the Government had agreed to disagree, after a common ground of discussing differences had been found. It was briefly stated in behalf of the company that some of the terms proposed by the Department of Justice had not been acceptable.

The Street was left to guess what they might have been, and for the reason that no satisfactory results were obtained from this process, the continuation of the suit to-day will be watched with much interest. The programme of the defense, it is thought, may soon show the specific reason why the company could not treat with the Government, and from it may be deducted theories to be applied to other important anti-trust suits.

Bethlehem Steel's Dividend.

The vagaries of the steel trade need not bring any worriment to holders of Bethlehem Steel preferred stock in regard to their dividends this year. As soon as they learn what the Directors did yesterday, they can set down in their notebooks the dates when four quarterly payments will be made. They will have no cause to wonder from one quarter to the next whether they will receive the usual return, for the Directors voted the full year's disbursement of 5 per cent. The same method was used last year, and while the Street hardly looked for any change in the amount, there were individuals who thought that the shares might be restored to the 7 per cent. basis which was in force during a single year of the company's earliest history, and to which the stock is entitled before any payment is made on the common shares. Earnings in 1913 were believed to be greater than in any preceding year, despite the contraction of business toward the close. The company started off the year with nearly $30,000,000 of advance orders, as compared with about $16,000,000 at the opening of 1912, and $17,300,000 in 1911.

Copper Issues in Demand.

Amalgamated Copper evidently drew some strength yesterday from purchases for foreign accounts. In London substantial buying of Rio Tintos had caused an advance of more than a point before our market opened, and a fair-sized flow of orders for Amalgamated was reported at the arbitrage rail in early trading here. London later was a seller, distributing about as much stock as was bought. Total transactions were estimated at 10,000 shares, well spread over the speculative list. Interest of traders was by no means confined to Amalgamated, as Smelters and Utah Copper moved strongly forward after Amalgamated had started up.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Practically All the Oil Stocks Show Further Losses on the Day's Trading.

Declines were general among the oil stocks on the outside security market yesterday. Standard Oil of California lost the greatest amount, falling off 10 points. Some of the other important reactions were: 7 points in Standard Oil of New York, 6 points in Vacuum Oil, 5 points in Standard Oil of New Jersey, 4 points in Prairie Oil & Gas, and 3 points in Standard Oil of Ohio. In the industrial list Marconi of America was active, and closed a small fraction higher. Among bond issues New York State 4½s, when issued, sold at 106⅛ to 106⅜.

Transactions reported were:

BOURSES OF EUROPE

London Market Buoyant in All Departments—Strength on the Continent.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 20.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"There was only a small inquiry for money yesterday, and the supply was superabundant.

"In the discount market a keen demand for bills was reported, and a further appreciable decline occurred in rates. The Continental exchanges all moved against this country.

"The most remarkable feature about the stock markets was that in all departments of the house, practically without exception, the tone was strong throughout. Investment business was on a very large scale, and the prices of gilt-edged securities again rose rapidly, stock being dificult to get at the current quotations.

"The new Victorian loan was an immediate success, and the scrip at once rose to a premium. Further substantial advances occured in consols, Indian stocks, and kindred securities.

"In the more speculative markets bear covering was in progress in all directions; hence sharp rises in Mexican railway stocks, Canadian Pacific Railway shares, and Peruvian Corporation stocks."

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 86f. 12½c. for the account.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Prices were strong on the Boerse to-day.

STOTESBURY A WITNESS.

Philadelphia Banker Says He Bid for American Locomotive Works.

Judge Hand in the Federal District Court yesterday professed himself as by no means satisfied that the suit which George H. Robinson has brought for $500,000 against Alba B. Johnson of Dover, Penn., for commission and compensation due to him in connection with the sale of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, had been begun under the proper forms. The court was inclined to think that if any claim existed, it was for breach of contract rather than for a failure to pay for services.

Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia was the first witness called. He said that in the reorganization of the locomotive works he had had several conversations with Johnson and had himself made a bid for the concern which was not accepted. Counsel for the complainant tried to bring out that there had been an agreement that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. should be let into the bargain, when it was finally arranged that Drexel & Co. and White, Weld & Co. should purchase the works, but John G. Milburn for the defense succeeded in getting this line of evidence ruled out.

Judge Hand renewed the expression of his doubt as to the form which the suit had taken, and it was suggested that the evidence be stricken out, and the complainant be instructed to revise the form of his complaint. It was decided to call one other witness to determine whether the case should continue under the complaint as already filed.

This witness was Samuel M. Vauclain of Philadelphia, an officer of the corporation owning the Baldwin works. He said that he had voted for the acceptance of the Drexel and White-Weld offer for the purchase of the works for $20,000,000 in cash and $10,500,000 in common stock, whereas Kuhn, Loeb & Co. offered $25,000,000 in cash and $5,000,000 in common stock. It was brought out that $500,000 in common stock had been given to a representative of the eventual purchasers of the works. Mr. Vauclain was unable to state why this had been paid. He had never heard that it was returned.

It was intimated by counsel for the complainant that this $500,000 was a rake off for those Directors who helped in bringing about the sale of the property, and that it was on account of its payment that the bargain which Robinson had been trying to bring about with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had never come off.

The trial will continue this morning.

EXCHANGE SEATS $50,000.

Two Taken at an Advance of $5,000 Over Last Sale.

Two New York Stock Exchange seats were sold yesterday at $50,000 each. The names of the sellers and buyers were withheld by Secretary Ely until formal action on the sales might be taken by the Committee on Admissions on Thursday, but news of the transactions went around the board room and caused much satisfaction, inasmuch as they represented an advance of $5,000 over the last sale.

Rudolph Keppler has been elected Chairman of the Law Committee of the Exchange and Henry K. Pomroy Vice Chairman. Charles M. Newcombe has been chosen a member of the committee to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of F. K. Sturgis.

PARIS TAKES $2,000,000.

Two More Shipments of the Same Amount to be Made.

A second consignment of $2,000,000 in gold bars was engaged at the Sub-Treasury by Lazard Frères yesterday for shipment to Paris by Wednesday's steamer. The first went out last week, and it was reported then that more of the metal would go to France before the movement ended. It was learned yesterday that arrangements had been made at the Sub-Treasury for two more shipments, at least, of the same amount as yesterday's.

If the transfer of gold to France ends with the four consignments, $8,000,000 will have gone. In January of last year $10,000,000 was shipped from this centre to Paris of a total export movement of about $17,000,000.

MUST INCREASE RATES.

Newman Erb Reports on M. & St. L. Road's Good Year.

President Newman Erb, of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad Company, says in the annual report for the year ended on June 30, 1913, that freight rates must be increased to enable the railroads of the country to meet part of their requirements from surplus earnings.

"The public is beginning to be thoroughly impressed with the fact," said he, "that the best transportation conditions can be obtained only by increase of facilities, additional equipment and improvement in operating methods. These can be obtained only in two ways, from surplus earnings, or a resort to corporate credit. The first has been made almost impossible by the continual progressive increase in the cost of operation and by contraction of rates, both through legislation and rulings of commissions."

Gross income of the Minneapolis & St. Louis in the year amounted to $9,707,000, an increase over 1912 of 22.04 per cent. Net operating revenue was $2,999,000, an advance of 68.53 per cent. The surplus after charges was $431,894 as compared with a deficit of $677,041 in the preceding year. The surplus was equivalent to 7.60 per cent. on the company's preferred stock.

New Officer in Cosmopolitan Bank.

At the annual meeting yesterday of the Directors of the Cosmopolitan Bank, at 803 Prospect Aevnue, the Bronx, State Senator Henry W. Pollock was elected Vice President to succeed Charles A. Berrian, Vice President of the Bronx Borough Bank, who will continue on the Board of Directors of the Cosmopolitan Bank. C. A. Becker was re-elected President, and George W. Copley, Cashier. The stockholders elected Siegfried H. Karlebach of City Island, and re-elected these Directors: Morris Lazar, Morris Levy, R. F. Seiffert, and Charles A. Berrian.

Discuss Morgan Loan to Cuba.

HAVANA, Jan. 19.—The final details of the contract between the Cuban Government and J. P. Morgan & Co. for a loan of $10,000,000 were discussed to-day at a meeting between the Secretary of Finances and Norman H. Davis, representing J. P. Morgan & Co. The latter was accompanied by a Cuban notary.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Commission houses were active on the floor of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, while the further advance in the market was under way. There had been firmness early in the day, but it was not until the afternoon that the greatest strength developed. A section of the trading contingent which had been endeavoring to force a reaction found their efforts abortive, and their retreat helped the rise in prices. Large profit realizing sales were readily absorbed.

EXCHANGE MEN SEE FLAWS IN OWEN BILL

John G. Milburn, as Counsel, and Delegation of Brokers to Attend Hearing.

TO OPPOSE INCORPORATION

Government, Not the Exchange, Should Supervise Security Issues, Is the Argument.

When Senator Owen's bill for the regulation of stock exchanges comes up for a hearing at Washington on Feb. 4 it is expected that leading members of the New York Stock Exchange, at which the measure is aimed, will oppose the essential proposals on the ground that the Government itself should do what it seeks to make the exchange accomplish.

Senator Owen has had the assistance of Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Pujo Committee, in drafting his bill, which is an outgrowth of the Pujo inquiry. Mr. Untermyer has consistently recommended the enforced incorporation of the exchange in order to bring it under control of the authorities. In the Owen scheme the exchange would have its choice of incorporating under the New York laws or placing itself under the direction of the Postmaster General.

Leading members of the Stock Exchange will oppose incorporation on substantially the same grounds offered at Albany when a bill was pending to force incorporation. Their principal argument is that disciplinary power over the members would be largely taken away by the disruption of the present club organization. In lieu of the provisions of the Owen bill to safeguard investors by making the listing requirements more stringent the exchange representatives will argue that the Government itself, through enactment of a bill similar to the British Companies act, should control the issuance of corporation securities.

Under the existing arrangement, there is no check upon a company wishing to put out an issue of bonds or stock other than the authority of a State Commission, if the company is a railroad or public utility in a State where such commissions exist. An industrial company can create a bond issue without other consent than that of its stockholders. The Exchange demands a statement of the company's financial condition when application to list such bonds are made, but it has not the power nor the means to make an actual audit, and this has resulted in suc scandals as followed the collapse of M. Rumely issues soon after their introduction. The Exchange has no punitive power beyond its right to deny trading privileges to a company which has put out a misleading balance sheet.

It is expected that John G. Milburn, counsel for the Exchange, and the brokers who go to Washington will endeavor to make Congress see the necessity of regarding the Stock Exchange as a great market for dealing in securities issued under Government supervision. With its vastly greater powers the Federal Government could effectively check the flotation of securities not backed by assets as represented.

Governors of the Stock Exchange said yesterday that they had not taken any steps yet toward the selection of representatives to appear at Washington, or toward a line of procedure in putting their side before the legislators. The bill is being carefully studied by President Mabon and his associates, and it is expected that when some of the provisions which are not clearly understood have been interpreted by the legal aids of the Exchange, delegates will be selected who are best fitted by experience to look after particular elements of the measure.

Exchange members do not look with any favor upon the proposal to force a margin of 20 per cent. on purchases of securities. The leading objection made is that such a law would prevent brokerage houses from filling the orders of customers who were abroad, or located somewhere beyond the city where they could not immediately increase their deposit with a broker when they desired to buy stocks. It would further work to the disadvantage of the broker in that while he would not be able to fill an order if it were not backed by the proper amount of money, the customer could get a bank to buy his stock without any trouble and with whatever margin the bank thought was necessary.

The Stock Exchange authorities say that they have gone into the subject of credit extension from every possible angle, and they have found that any fixed rule on margins will work to the hurt of many brokers without lending any appreciable degree of safety to the business of buying and selling securities. The margin to be asked of one client would be insufficient in the case of others, but the situation is best governed by circumstances and not by law, they say.

RESUME SUGAR TRUST SUIT.

Hearing Goes On To-day, with Edwin F. Atkins on the Stand.

Following the breaking off of the negotiations between the American Sugar Refining Company and the Department of Justice for an agreed decree in the anti-trust suit, hearings will be resumed to-day at 50 Wall Street.

Edwin F. Atkins, Chairman of the Board of Directors, will be the first witness for the defense.

Chicago Savings Deposits Increase.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Savings deposits aggregating $242,892,917, as reported by the banks of Chicago under date of Jan. 14, are the highest on record. The increase of $9,509,446 since the local institutions reported on Oct. 22 preceding also is the largest gain made in these accounts between official calls. Compared with a year ago savings show an increase of nearly $18,000,000.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

SEALED BIDS WILL BE RECEIVED BY the Board of Water Supply at its offices, 22nd floor, Municipal Building, New York, until 11 A. M. on Tuesday, January 27, 1914, for Contract 90, for the construction of the Narrows siphon, about 9,800 feet long, in New York Harbor, extending from 79th Street and Shore Road, Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, to the junction of Arrietta Street and Stuyvesant Place, Tompkinsville, Staten Island. The work consists principally of furnishing approximately 3,800 tons of 36-inch, flexible-jointed, cast-iron submarine pipes, dredging a trench across the Narrows, in which the pipe will be laid, refilling over the pipe and furnishing and laying approximately 950 feet of 36 and 48 inch hub-and-spigot cast-iron pipe on the shores.

At the above place and time the bids will be publicly opened and read. Pamphlets containing information for bidders, and contract drawings can be obtained at the above address by depositing the sum of ten dollars ($10) in cash or its equivalent for each pamphlet. For further particulars see Information for Bidders.

CHARLES STRAUSS, President;
CHARLES N. CHADWICK,
JOHN F. GALVIN,
Commissioners of the Board of Water Supply.

EXEMPT FROM TAXATION

INCLUDING THE FEDERAL INCOME TAX

AMOUNTING TO

$51,000,000.00

Issued in Coupon or Registered Form

Will be sold Wednesday, January 21, 1914, at 12 o'clock noon

At the State Comptroller's Office, Albany, N. Y.

Bidders will be required to state clearly in the proposal the amount and price for each $100 bid.

$30,000,000.00 for the Improvement of the Erie, Champlain and Oswego canals, dated January 1, 1914, due January 1, 1964.

$21,000,000.00 for Improvement of Highways, dated September 1, 1913, due September 1, 1963.

As the bonds enumerated above are all 50-year bonds bearing 4½ per cent interest, the Comptroller will reserve the right to allot to the successful bidder, bonds for either of the above improvements, notwithstanding the specific issue may be stated in the bid.

These Bonds are Legal Investments for Trust Funds

No bids will be accepted for less than the par value of the bonds nor unless accompanied by a deposit of money or by a certified check or bank draft upon a solvent bank or trust company of the cities of Albany or New York, payable to the order of the Comptroller of the State of New York, for at least two per cent of the par value of the bonds bid for.

All proposals, together with the security deposits, must be sealed and endorsed "Loan for Improvement" and inclosed in a sealed envelope directed to the "Comptroller of the State of New York, Albany."

All bids will include accrued interest.

The Comptroller reserves the right to reject any or all bids which are not in his opinion advantageous to the interests of the State.

Circular descriptive of these bonds and of outstanding State bonds, sinking funds, etc. will be mailed upon application to

WM. SOHMER, State Comptroller, Albany, N. Y.

Albany, December 27, 1913.

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE

NEW YORK REAL ESTATE SECURITY COMPANY

Six Per Cent. Gold Mortgage Bonds:

The undersigned Committee report the deposit with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, as Depositary, of a majority in principal amount of the bonds. To assist the Committee in its efforts to protect the properties of the Company and for the important reasons stated in a circular letter which has been sent all bondholders whose addresses are known to the Committee, the time for the deposit of bonds with the Depositary has been limited to January 22, 1914. After that date bonds will be received only in the discretion of the Committee and upon such terms as it may impose. Copies of the circular letter may be obtained at the office of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York or from the Secretary. Bonds should be deposited with Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

FORECLOSURE SALES.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE PURSUANT TO SECOND AMENDED AND SUPPLEMENTAL DECREES.

CHANCERY SALE—In pursuance and by virtue of second amended decrees of foreclosure and sale in favor of the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, made and entered in the district court of the United States for the eastern district of Michigan, southern division, and of the district court of the United States for the northern district of Ohio, western division, and of the district court of the United States for the southern district of Ohio, eastern division, which second amended decrees were dated on the 12th day of May, A. D. 1913, and entered in said eastern district of Michigan, southern division, May 12, 1913, in said Northern district of Ohio, western division, May 13, 1913, and in said southern district of Ohio, eastern division, May 16, 1913, in causes pending in said respective courts, and entitled: The New York Trust Company, complainant, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, et al., defendants; Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, defendant; William J. Courtney, et al., complainants, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, defendant; (consolidated cause, in equity); the causes pending in the said districts of Ohio being ancillary to the cause pending in the district court of the United States for the eastern district of Michigan, southern division, and in pursuance of supplemental Decree dated on the 29th day of October, A. D., 1913; Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, special master commissioner of said courts, will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidders on Tuesday, the 10th day of February, A. D., 1914, at twelve o'clock noon, standard time, of said day, at the former Delray station building of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, on River street, the same being in the city of Detroit, in the County of Wayne, state of Michigan, the following described property by the said second amended and supplemental decrees in favor of Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company directed to be sold, to-wit: One hundred (100) shares of stock of the Toledo Southern Railway Company, being the entire capital stock of said company, and representing the ownership of all the real estate at Toledo, Ohio, owned by the Toledo Southern Railway Company as described in said supplemental decree dated October 29th, 1913, which is the basis of said stock, free from any and all claims of the parties to said cause, or their successors or assigns, as against said Toledo Southern Railway Company or said real estate; said one hundred shares of stock being certain property of the said Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, included in the mortgage or deed of trust from that company to Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant herein, dated May 2, 1905, to secure certain bonds designated as consolidated bonds.

The said Special Master Commissioner will accept no bid of less than $35,000 upon the said one hundred shares of stock of the Toledo Southern Railway Company upon a sale thereof. The said minimum sum was fixed by the court in said supplemental decree in order to prevent a sacrifice and to protect the interests of all concerned as the least sum for which the said shares of stock should be sold.

The master will accept no bid for the said shares of stock from any bidder who shall not place in his hands or deposit with him at the time of making the bid, as a pledge that the bidder will make good his bid if accepted by the court, the sum of twenty-five dollars per share in cash, certified chequo or certificate of deposit approved by the master, which sum shall be forfeited in case the bidder, if successful, shall fail to make good his bid and comply with the terms of said decree, and any orders thereafter made as to future payments or otherwise, but which said sum shall be applied on the purchase price of the said stock in case of such compliance, or will be returned in case the said bid is not successful or the sale shall not be confirmed by the court. The right of the court is reserved to reject any bid and to resell the said stock or any part thereof, upon the failure of the purchaser to comply with any order of the court as to the payment of the purchase price or any part thereof, in cash or otherwise, as may be directed if the said shares of stock shall be purchased by or on behalf of the holders of the said consolidated bonds, the remainder of the purchase price over and above the amount in cash required to be paid at the time of sale, may be paid either in cash or in receivers' certificates, or in claims payable under article 3 of the aforesaid decrees in favor of The New York Trust Company, or in consolidated bonds, and overdue coupons thereon, at such proportionate value as the holders thereof will be entitled to receive thereon respectively on distribution of the proceeds of such sale, in case such purchase price were wholly paid in cash.

Any person proposing to purchase said stock at the said sale is referred to the said second amended and supplemental decrees in this notice specifically mentioned, for a more full and complete description of the said stock which it is proposed to sell in accordance with the foregoing notice, and also for the terms and conditions upon which the sale of the said stock shall be made.

The said three second amended and supplemental decrees in favor of Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, are exact duplicates of each other, and may be found filed and recorded in the offices of the clerks of the United States District Courts at Detroit, Michigan, at Toledo, Ohio, and at Columbus, Ohio, respectively, and are subject to the inspection of the public generally. Certified copies of the said second amended and supplemental decrees will be in the possession of the said special master at the time and place of sale, and may be inspected by interested persons or bidders.

Dated, Detroit, December 30th, 1913.

ELMER W. VOORHEIS,
Special Master Commissioner of said Courts.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A STATED TERM OF THE DISTRICT Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, held at the Court House, City of New York, on the 9th day of January, 1914.—Present: Hon. Julius M. Mayer, District Judge.—In the matter of SOLOMON G. BAER and THEOBOLD J. UMBSTAETTER, Jr., individually and as co-partners trading under the firm name and style of THE TEDDY BAER SHOP, Alleged Bankrupts.

It appearing to my satisfaction by the petition of Maurice L. Shaine, verified the 8th day of January, 1914, that a petition was filed in this Court on the 11th day of November, 1913, praying that the above-named Solomon G. Baer and Theobold J. Umbstaetter, Jr., be adjudged bankrupts and that a subpoena directed to said alleged bankrupt Solomon G. Baer was duly issued out of this Court to the Marshal of this District, and that the said Marshal has been unable to serve the same, and the said alleged bankrupt Solomon G. Baer is not now within this District, so that personal service may be made upon him, and the diligent efforts have since been made to ascertain the whereabouts of the said alleged bankrupt, but he is not now within the jurisdiction of this Court; it is Now, on motion of Maurice L. Shaine, Esq., attorney for petitioning creditors,

Ordered that the above alleged bankrupts plead, answer or demur on or before the 29th day of January, 1914, to the petition herein filed in the office of the clerk of this court, on the 11th day of November, 1913; and in case of his failure to plead, answer or demur thereto, adjudication shall be made according to the prayer of said petition.

And it is further ordered that this order be published in The New York Times once a week for two successive weeks, said publication to commence not later than the 13th day of January, 1914, and that a copy of this order be mailed to the said alleged bankrupts at their last known place of business, No. 62 West First Street, in the City of Mount Vernon, on or before the date of the first publication. J. M. MAYER, D. J.

Dated New York, January 9th, 1914.

15 Days to China
Sailing in Japanese Waters
A Trip to Japan for $300!
One Way via Honolulu, if Desired
A restful, reviving 10-day voyage on one of the finest liners ever put into commission. No ships afloat offer greater luxury. Speed and the short Canadian Pacific route cut almost one week from voyage, save two on the round trip. Now only 10 days to Japan, 15 days to China.
Empress of Russia—Empress of Asia
A myriad pleasures and interests await the tourist in gay Japan. Her sights and scenes, quaint people and quainter shops fascinate Western travelers.
Diverse route privilege allows you to visit Honolulu. If Hong Kong is your destination, Manila may be included. Six weeks ample time for Japanese trip. Cost no more than European tour.
Shipboard life delightful. Typically Oriental service increases comfort and pleasure. Filipino Band an enjoyable feature.
Accommodations include elaborately furnished single and two-berth staterooms and suites with private bath. Sumptuous library, lounging, smoking and writing rooms. Splendid dining saloon, unique veranda cafe. Spacious promenade decks, a gymnasium and laundry.
This ideal pleasure tour is described in our Trans-Pacific Folder, which tells of ships, voyage and countries you may visit. Our offices in Yokohama, Kobe and Nagasaki allow us to aid travelers in planning itineraries and securing reliable guides.
Full information as to Canadian Pacific Oriental, Australasian and Round-the-World trips cheerfully given. Phone, call on or write

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Mrs. R. P. Huntington and Miss Dinsmore Sell Fifth Avenue Corner in $2,250,000 Deal—Col. Ruppert Pays $700,000 for Haffen Brewery Site in Bronx—Madison Avenue Investment—Tuxedo Park Sale.

A deal involving high class Manhattan properties valued at about $2,250,000, made the opening day of the realty week a decidedly active one yesterday, and it also demonstrated the faith of large investors in well-located and well-rented New York realty.

Mrs. Robert P. Huntington, mother of Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, who is engaged to marry Vincent Astor, and her sister, Miss Madeline I. Dinsmore of Staatsburg, N. Y., were the purchasers of the largest parcel in the transaction, being the twenty-one-story structure known as the Flemish building, at 11 and 13 East Twenty-sixth Street, running through to Twenty-seventh Street, having a frontage of 58.6 feet on each thoroughfare by 200 deep. It was purchased from the builders, the Flemish Realty Company, Goldberg & Cramer. It faces Madison Square and on the west abuts the Brunswick building. The structure was finished last Spring, and is well rented.

In exchange for this property Mrs. Huntington and Miss Dinsmore gave the old family plot on the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Thirty-first Street, being 302 Fifth Avenue, 29.4 feet on the avenue by 100, and the adjoining parcel, 25 by 98.9, fronting on Thirty-first Street. The old Dinsmore house on the corner was altered some time ago for Duveen Brothers, who lately moved to Upper Fifth Avenue.

$700,000 for Haffen Brewery.

Col. Jacob Ruppert's purchase of the Haffen brewery property, comprising the block front on the west side of Melrose Avenue between 151st and 152d Street, announced yesterday, aroused more than usual interest among Bronx business men and brokers in that locality, as it forecasts some important commercial improvements in the near future for the section which has been called the Hub of the Bronx, at Third Avenue and 149th Street.

Col. Ruppert intends to improve the property, 230 feet on the avenue by 150 on each street, in the near future with high-class commercial structures. About $700,000 was paid for the plot, averaging over $20 a square foot, an excellent price for realty in the neighborhood. In March, 1912, the Corn Exchange Bank bought the plot, 25 by 80, at 375 East 149th Street, about 175 feet east of Third Avenue, for $50,000, an average of $25 a square foot. The seller, E. J. Buscher, bought it in 1906 for $12,000.

Sale On Upper Madison Avenue.

Another investment purchase on Upper Madison Avenue, where there has been considerable activity during the past couple of months, was announced yesterday by Douglas L. Elliman & Co., who sold for Anne L. Pultz, 529 Madison Avenue, a four-story high-stoop dwelling on a lot 20 by 80 feet, adjoining the southeast corner of Fifty-fourth Street.

The Swan Brown Company are the buyers. Another deal involving a similar structure on the same block is reported to be pending.

Private Dwellings Sold.

Joseph F. A. O'Donnell has purchased from Augustus K. Sloan the three-story dwelling, on a plot 18 by 100, situated at 149 West Ninety-fifth Street. Thomas Loftus was the broker who negotiated the sale.

Smith & Phelps have sold the three-story and basement brick private dwelling, 18.6 by 100, known as 325 East Forty-ninth Street.

Gustave Britt sold 27 Bethune Street, an old three-story and basement dwelling, for L. L. Goodrich to John G. Parr.

Investor Buys on First Avenue.

Emil Ornstein has purchased for investment from Francis B. Scott 1,622 First Avenue, a three-story building, on a lot 20.5 by 100, between Eighty-fourth and Eighty-fifth Streets. The buyer holds title to the adjoining property, 1,624 and 1,626 First Avenue. Henry Block negotiated the transaction.

Bronx Borough Sales.

Alexander Selkin and David Mintz, in conjunction with A. Mantinband, have sold for Louis Epstein the four-story flat house known as 2,345 Beaumont Avenue, on a lot 25 by 100. The same brokers have also sold for Annie Epstein 3,076 Hull Avenue, a two-story frame dwelling, on lot 25 by 110, to an investor.

The four-story double flat, 4,171 Third Avenue, on a plot 26 by 97, has been sold by J. Clarence Davies and Louis Reiss to Peter Stumpf.

Turtle Point, Tuxedo Park Sold.

Turtle Point, Tuxedo Park, the country estate of the late George Lorillard Ronalds has been sold to a client of William B. May & Co.

The property consists of one of the finest lake sites in the park, improved with a specious stone residence which the purchaser will occupy.

A Recent Buyer.

William F. Armstrong of Bridgeport, Conn., is the buyer of the two seven-story apartment houses at 2,465 to 2,471 Broadway, sold recently by Philip Livingston.

Leases.

N. Brigham Hall & William D. Bloodgood, Inc., leased for Sidney P. Henshaw for a term of years, the store at 64 West Forty-sixth Street, to Mmes. Josie Werner and Estelle Lippman, dressmakers.

Royal Scott Gulden has leased the residence of William Hull Wickhan, 10 East Fifty-sixth Street, to Haas Bros., dressmakers.

E. A. Turner has leased for Henry Hof and Marshall H. Runk the three-story rear building and the store 205 East Forty-fourth Street for a term of five years at $3,000 per year to Emil Feffercorn and Karl J. Freund.

Van Norden & Wilson leased the entire Beaver Street store and basement in the new building just being finished by Brody, Adler & Koch, known as the New and Beaver Arcade. This building extends around the corner of New and Beaver Streets, having a frontage of 49 feet 5 inches on Beaver Street and 65 feet 2 inches in New Street. The tenant is the Beaver Street Restaurant Company, Inc., and has taken a lease for twenty years. Both the store and basement will be extensively altered.

State Conference on Taxation.

The fourth State Conference on taxation will open in the assembly hall of the Onondaga Hotel, Syracuse, New York, to-morrow and continue until Friday. The United Real Estate Owners Associations of the City of New York will send a delegation to the convention composed of its President, Henry Block, Aldermen Henry Pouker and Harold Phillips.

$500,000 Loft on Astor Plot.

Plans were filed yesterday for the $500,000 loft and office building to be erected on the plot owned by W. Vincent Astor at 2 to 16 West Thirty-third Street, opposite the Waldorf-Astoria. The property has been leased on a long term by the Thirty-second and Thirty-third Street Corporation of which Leslie P. Palmer is President. The new building will be twelve stories high and runs through to 15 West Thirty-second Street, fronting there 25 feet, on Thirty-third Street the frontage is 20 feet. Herman L. Meader is the architect. The ground floor will be utilized for stores.

Realty Notes.

Plans have been filed for a fourteen-story office and loft building on the north side of Forty-eighth Street, 250 feet west of Sixth Avenue, for the Alt Realty Company, Henry Mayer President. It will have a frontage of 56.3 feet. William H. Gompert, the architect places the cost at $135,000.

MORTGAGE LOANS.

We have money to loan on first mortgages. Only first-class applications considered.

GEORGE ROSENFELD CO. [illegible]

There will be a meeting of the Woodstock Taxpayers Association Thursday evening, Jan. 22, at 8 o'clock at Berger's Casino, 861 East 162d Street, near Prospect Avenue.

Leon S. Altmayer has negotiated a first mortgage of $20,000 on premises 206 West End Avenue, a five-story and basement apartment house with two stores.

BANKRUPTCY SALES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of LEATHER GOODS SPECIALTY COMPANY, Bankrupt.—No. 19,247.

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to an order of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, dated January 16th, 1914, Abraham S. Gilbert, the Receiver in Bankruptcy of the above-named bankrupt, offers for sale the property, assets and effects of the said bankrupt. The property to be sold consists of trunks, bags, suitcases, leather goods, leather specialties and novelties, umbrellas, canes, &c.; show cases, fixtures, furniture, safes, &c, now contained in the premises of the above-named bankrupt at No. 49 East 42d Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York. The above-described property may be inspected on the premises on January 21, 22, 23, and 24, between the hours of 9 A. M. and 3 P. M.

Bids for the above-described property, assets, and effects, in bulk or as an entirety, may be submitted to the Receiver at his office, No. 43 Exchange Place, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before 12 o'clock noon, January 26th, 1914, at which time and place the bids will be opened by him, and creditors may attend and express themselves with reference thereto. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check to the order of Abraham S. Gilbert, Receiver, or cash for at least 25 per cent. of the amount of the bid. The Receiver reserves the right to reject any or all bids, in which event the said property, assets and effects will be sold at public auction on the premises, No. 49 East 42d Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, by Charles Shongood, United States auctioneer, on January 28th, 1914, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon.

Further particulars in regard to said sale and the property to be sold may be obtained from the receiver or his attorney.

Dated, New York, January 19, 1914.
ABRAHAM S. GILBERT, Receiver,
43 Exchange Place, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.
MARSHALL S. HAGAR, Attorney for Receiver, 34 Pine Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of MICHAEL L. WARMUTH, Bankrupt.—The Receiver in bankruptcy will offer for sale the following-described property. Sealed bids for the same will be received at the office of the Receiver, No. 165 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, and opened on January 20, 1914, at twelve o'clock noon. Each bid must be in writing and accompanied by a certified check to the order of the Receiver or by cash for ten (10%) per cent. of the bid. The Receiver reserves the right to reject any or all bids. The property consists of a stock of wines, liquors, cigars, cigarettes, and groceries used in the restaurant and liquor business of the bankrupt at No. 940 Broadway and No. 134 Water Street, Manhattan, New York City. In the event that all bids are rejected, the Receiver will sell said property by Charles Shongood, United States Auctioneer, at the premises No. 940 Broadway, Manhattan, New York City, on Friday, January 23d, 1914, at ten-thirty A. M., and the property at No. 134 Water Street, Manhattan, New York City, immediately thereafter. Property to be sold may be inspected at the premises above stated on January 16th and 17th, 1914, between the hours of three P. M. and six P. M.

Dated New York, January 14th, 1914.
LOUIS H. ROWE, Receiver.
SOL. LEVI, Esq., Attorney for Receiver, 320 Broadway, Manhattan, New York City.

Tribute from a Floral Source

January 16, 1914.

The New York Times:

To discover the best means for acquainting the public with our new business of supplying fresh cut flowers by mail directly from the growers, we experimented with an advertisement in The New York Times under the classification "For Sale."

Our results were extremely satisfactory. Of twenty-two cash orders received the day after the advertisement appeared, and keyed to The Times, three came from the chief officers of large financial concerns, five from professional men or their families, eight from fashionable apartment houses, two from janitors and the remainder from a class of men and women likely to be equally good customers with those specially mentioned.

We have now supplemented our classified advertising with display advertising in The Times, and this is proving extremely profitable.

DAMON, WILLIAM E.—The People of the State of New York, by the Grace of God, Free and Independent.—To MARY P. LANSING, Dora Penniman, Bessie Barnes, Jessie White, William M. Penniman, Luther T. Penniman, Fannie E. Damon, Urias E. Damon, William E. Damon, Sadie L. George, Reba L. Damon, Charles D. Lamb, Lizzie E. Lamb, Administratrix of the Estate of Lucy E. Lamb, deceased, and Fred W. George, Administrator of the Estate of Luther E. Damon, deceased, and to all persons interested in the Estate of WILLIAM E. DAMON, late of the County of New York, deceased, as creditors, legatees, next of kin or otherwise, send greeting:

You and each of you are hereby cited and required personally to be and appear before our Surrogate of the County of New York, at the Surrogates' Court of said County, held at the Hall of Records, in the County of New York, on the 6th day of March, 1914, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend a judicial settlement of the account of proceedings of Alma C. Damon, as Executrix of the Last Will and Testament of said deceased, and such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In Testimony Whereof, We have caused the Seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto [L.S.] affixed. Witness, Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of our said county, at the County of New York, the 9th day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

TALK ON SUFFRAGE STIRS EAGER CROWD

Economic Club Gives the Antis and the Pros a Public Hearing.

WOMAN SENATOR IS HEARD

Mrs. Robinson Ridicules Anti-Suffrage Arguments—Mrs. George Wants Better Voters, Not More Voters.

When a debate on the question of equal suffrage began last night after the dinner of the Economic Club at the Hotel Astor there were 1,100 men and women in the grand ballroom and the two galleries.

Many of the suffrage leaders were present. There also was a sprinkling of women who were positive anti-suffragists, who applauded Mrs. A. J. George of Massachusetts and Charles S. Fairchild, the anti-suffrage speakers, and shook their heads at some of the arguments of Dr. Stephen S. Wise and Helen Ring Robinson, a member of the Senate in Colorado.

One woman braved criticism by lighting a cigarette in the midst of the debate. She lighted another when she got through smoking the first. She was a young woman of attractive appearance. She wore a gown of the new mahogany color trimmed with black fox fur, and her black hair was in a Psyche knot.

Mrs. A. J. George, Field Secretary of the Massachusetts Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, received much applause. The men in the audience arose to greet her, and arose again when she closed her speech. The demonstration at the end of the speech lasted for more than four minutes. Mrs. George said that there was need of better voters—not more voters.

Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson, the woman Senator, received a warm greeting from the women in the audience. She frequently had to ask for silence when the points she scored on the anti-suffragists were applauded. Mrs. Robinson ridiculed some of the anti-suffrage arguments.

Rabbi Wise said that "feminism" was the deadly foe of "haremism." He also had a good word for the militants.

Mr. Fairchild asserted that if the ballot was given to women they would not use it. In a few years, he said, every one would look back and smile at the excitement that the question now was causing.

WOMEN MEET AT THE RITZ.

Dr. Shaw and W. Bourke Cockran Address Suffrage Gathering.

There as an enthusiastic woman's suffrage meeting at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel yesterday afternoon. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and W. Bourke Cockran spoke.

The committee in charge of the meeting consisted of Mrs. Robert Goelet, Mrs. Amos Pinchot, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Mrs. Sumner Gerard, Mrs. Henry Wise Miller, Mrs. Walter Maynard, Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, and Mrs. Archer Huntington. The Ritz-Carlton gave its ballroom for the occasion.

Mrs. Henry Wise Miller presided at the meeting and Mrs. Francis Higginson Cabot made an appeal for money. The contribution was taken up by the ushers, who included Miss Muriel Winthrop, Miss Stewart, the Misses King, Miss Park, Miss Mitchell, Miss Fish, and Miss La Roche. The collection amounted to between $250 and $300.

Among the women present were Mrs. Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., Mrs. William A. Delano, Miss Cornelia Bryce, Mrs. George Draper, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Brayton Ives, Mrs. Walter Chambers, Mrs. Henry Phipps, Mrs. Cecil Higgins, Miss Edith Mortimer, Mrs. Joseph E. Stevens, Mrs. William Woodward, Mrs. Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., Mrs. Duane Livingston, Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, and Mrs. Samuel Weldon. Norman Whitehouse and Representative Hinman attended the meeting.

FOUND THE AQUEDUCT WET.

Explorers Forced to Abandon Hike from Ashokan Reservoir.

The first underground hike from the Ramapo Mountains to Brooklyn through the new Catskill Aqueduct came to an end yesterday morning within one mile of the starting point. The excursion was to have been made by a party of seven reporters from New York newspapers reinforced by two photographers.

It was on the train from Kingston, where the explorers had spent the night, that J. Waldo Smith, Chief Engineer of the Board of Water Supply, broke the news that the "dips," technically known as siphons and pressure tunnels, were flooded with water which would make travel through them impossible. These "dips" represent twenty-three miles, or almost 25 per cent. of the completed work to Brooklyn.

The aqueduct makes a sheer drop of more than 500 feet to dip under the valley of the Rondout, rising on the opposite side to penetrate Bonticou Crag and thence to continue on its city-ward way. This dip was filled with water, and the party came to the surface. A tramp of three miles along the line of the aqueduct to High Falls followed. At this village the explorers stopped for the night. Of the thirteen miles covered only eight were made through the aqueduct.

WON'T ENJOIN BELASCO.

Justice Suggests a Jury Trial to Settle Hammerstein Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Seabury, refused yesterday to grant the injunction Oscar Hammerstein asked for to prevent David Belasco from exhibiting moving pictures at the Republic Theatre. When Mr. Hammerstein was told of his defeat last night he shrugged his shoulders and smiled. He said there was no use in arguing against the decision of a Supreme Court Justice.

"I don't know what I shall do now," he said. "Those matters I leave to my lawyers. I am not worrying. Let the lawyers wory."

Justice Seabury suggested that a jury pass on the details of the suit.

Concert in Aid of Sanitarium.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Sanitarium for Hebrew Children of Rockaway Park will give its annual concert on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 27, at the Waldorf-Astoria. Many well-known artists have volunteered to appear. Mrs. Samuel Marks is Chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

TO ADOPT CURRAN REFORMS

Mitchel Will Keep McKay to Try Out Police Recommendations.

Mayor Mitchel started in yesterday to reform the Police Department. He indicated that Commissioner McKay would be secure in his berth so long as he carried out the administration's policies. The reforms which the Mayor has in mind are those contained in the report of the Curran Police Investigating Committee. Last week the Mayor and Commissioner McKay had a long conference, and the result was that the Commissioner sent for several copies of the Curran report. The Mayor said then that many of the recommendations contained in the report were excellent, and that they should be carried out.

"In a few days I shall announce the general police policy of the administration," said the Mayor. "There is nothing to say at this time as to the length of Commissioner McKay's tenure of office. But the first administrative reform will be the adoption of many of the recommendations of the special committee of Aldermen, of which Henry H. Curran was Chairman. I have been in conference with Commissioner McKay and Alderman Curran. The recommendations of the special committee are as valuable to-day as they were when submitted."

"Do you consider Commissioner McKay's status in office the same as the status of Commissioner Lederle of the Health Department and Commissioner Thompson of the Water Department?" the Mayor was asked.

"No, I do not," he replied. "Commissioner McKay's tenure in office will be longer than that of Commissioners Lederle and Thompson, who are serving merely for my convenience."

"Is Commissioner McKay to be regarded as a permanent appointee?"

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it," replied the Mayor.

EVELYN THAW A CONVERT.

To Join Catholic Church, She Says, Answering a Priest's Criticism.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 19.—Stirred by remarks of a Catholic priest from his pulpit, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw said today that she had already taken the first steps to enter the Catholic Church, and that her son Russell would also be baptized at the same time in that faith. Her censor was the Rev. Alexander W. Chapotan, who in announcing a week's retreat at the Redemptorist Fathers Church yesterday said:

"A notorious woman, whose name I will not speak, is coming to a theatre of Kansas City, and I hope that no church member will go to see her, thereby giving their approval of her life. No good Christian woman should go to see this woman perform. It is most important that the younger people of the parish should avail themselves of the retreat while this woman is in our city."

H. H. HANNA BANKRUPT.

Ex-Monetary Commissioner's Liabilities $1,210,275, Assets $1,080.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 19.—H. H. Hanna, who was a member of the Monetary Commission appointed by President McKinley and a former head of the Atlas Engine Works here, to-day filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy in the Federal Court. He listed his liabilities at $1,210,275, practically all of which was borrowed on his personal notes for the Atlas Company, and gave his assets as $1,080. After several years of financial troubles the Atlas Engine Works were sold about a year ago by a receiver appointed by the Federal Court.

The largest creditor is A. B. Becker & Co. of Chicago, listed as having loaned Mr. Hanna $400,000 on his note. Other creditors are banks in Indianapolis, Chicago, New York, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, and Cincinnati. Mr. Hanna for many years has been prominent in financial circles here.

$30,000 AID WENT BEGGING.

Copper Strikers Refused It and Committee Will Return It to Donors.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Jan. 19.—The Houghton County Relief Committee, which raised a fund of $30,000 for the relief of the families of those who lost their lives in the Christmas Eve panic in Italian Hall, met to-day and decided to return all the contributions. The union officials refused to permit members to accept outside aid.

The arrival of forty-one strikebreakers from New York furnished the only development to-day in the copper miners' strike. Soon after they reached here the men, most of whom were Germans, went to work in the Quincy mine.

WOMAN SUES P. W. CLEMENT

Genealogist Says He Hired Her to Prepare His Family Tree.

Percival W. Clement, a Director of many banks and well known among hotel men, was sued yesterday for $14,916 by Marion Thornton Egbert, a writer of genealogies, who asserted that $12,916 was due her for gathering facts about Mr. Clement's ancestors. The other $2,000, she says, is the value of a 4⅝ carat diamond ring which she asserts Mr. Clement took away from her last July.

Efforts to serve the papers on Mr. Clement were unsuccessful and he was served by publication.

Employes to Share Increased Profits

The members of the O'Neill-Adams Company Employes' Benefit Association held their annual dance last evening at Palm Garden. Besides the usual festivity of a big dance, there was the added satisfaction in the announcement that the year just closed had seen a $1,000,000 increase, which, under the profit-sharing system employed in the department store, was an announcement of significance to every one.

Julia Marlowe Has Appendicitis.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 19.—Julia Marlowe, the actress, who is suffering from a slight attack of appendicitis, will give up the stage for six weeks and leave for New York, where she will undergo treatment and possibly an operation. This announcement was made last night by E. H. Sothern, her husband.

THE SHOW AND THE CAMERA NEVER LIES! OF BROADWAY MUSICAL SHOWS!
THE DAZZLING FLASH OF 1914.

You have all seen moving pictures. Go to the Globe Theatre and see how one is made with Valli Valli as the Queen of the Movies; Frank Goldsworthy as the bankrupt lover; Frank Moulan, head of the Anti-Moving Picture Society, lured into the picture by the Queen of the Movies and discovered by Jeanette Horton, his wife, and Alice Dovey, his daughter, who is in love with the leading man of the moving picture show; and the stammering stage manager, Felix Adler, directing the production of the picture, and afterward appearing as the jealous husband.

Among the song hits are "Follow the Crowd!" "Slip! Slip! Slip!" "Oh, Cecilia!" "Girls, Run Along!" and "When the Moon Shyly Winks!"

The funny dialogue of Glen MacDonough will give you one of the best laughs of the year.
